SPEAKERS PAY LABOR TRIBUTE AT WORLD'S FAIR

EPIC Plan Told by Upton Sinclair.

Tributes were paid to organized workers on the eve of Labor day yesterday in a program in the lounge of the Federal building at the Fair. The speakers urged labor to stand firm on its right to collective bargaining.

The crowds which came to the Fair, braving the rain to be present on the second day of the three day labor celebration, heard the speeches over the loud speakers on the grounds. The talks also were broadcast over the radio.

The principal speaker was Upton Sinclair, radical, who is the Democratic nominee for governor of California. He demanded a "fair chance for the laborer and the farmer." Others who spoke were Dr. James M. Yard, former professor of sociology at Northwestern university and now secretary of the Chicago committee for the defense of human rights against Nazism; Rabbi Solomon Goldman, the Rev. W. J. R. Maguire of St. Viator's college at Kankakee, and John H. Walker, a former official of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

La Guardia Speaks Today.

The workers' three day celebration culminates today with the official observance of Labor day. One of the speakers will be Fiorello H. La Guardia, mayor of New York.

Sinclair, a radical writer and pamphleteer, who had unsuccessfully run for public office on the Socialist ticket before switching to the Democratic stand this year, praised the Roosevelt New Deal, asserting that it was "a step in the right direction, but is only a beginning."

The Agricultural Adjustment administration and the Public Works administration, two of the integral parts of the New Deal, drew criticism from him, however. He termed crop reduction "an economic blunder and suicide" and said that any limitation on production, while people are starving, is fundamentally unsound.

Sinclair Assails PWA.

"As for the PWA, it didn't put people to work in the right way," he said, "at least not in California. All the PWA employés were doing was manicuring roads; there was nothing productive about that."

Dr. Yard said that the machine age had produced a need for a new kind of liberty "unlike that of frontier days."

"When we say the government's attempts to regulate industry are invading the rights of labor, that is true in a certain sense," he stated, "but machines have made apparent the need for a new kind of liberty and labor can be guaranteed that liberty only if it is allowed the right to organize."

"Civilization Must Provide."

Rabbi Goldman asserted that a civilization is progressing only if it provides for the toiling masses.

"Judaism, by its teachings, is not wedded to economic or political programs in its attitude toward labor," he declared. "It could make a case for or against communism or capitalism, but its purpose is the human approach to labor, the realization that a constant campaign must be waged against oppression."

The Rev. Father Maguire said communism must be regarded as a menace, but opposed "strong arm methods."

"Remove its cause," he urged.

Walker said that the trade union movement is receiving the coöperation of hundreds of churches throughout the country.

During the program the crowd was entertained by the United Mother Singers of Chicago, a chorus of 500 voices directed by William Lester.

Sinclair to See Roosevelt.

Sinclair, whose primary victory last week focused national attention upon California's radical Democratic party setup, stopped in Chicago on his way to Hyde Park, N. Y., to pay a "courtesy call" to President Roosevelt. He said he regarded his own success in the California primary as an indication of the trend political. Reactionary and conservative elements of both Democratic and Republican parties are solidifying not only against his

RUSS COLUMBO SLAIN AS MATCH FIRES OLD GUN

Accident Occurs in Friend's Home.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Russ Columbo, 26 years old, radio crooner and motion picture singer, died tonight at the Good Samaritan hospital of a bullet wound in the head. He had been shot six hours earlier through the accidental discharge of an old revolver he and a friend were examining.

The accident occurred in the home of Lansing V. Brown Jr., one of the best known of Hollywood photographers, who also is a collector of antique arms. It was a gun held in the hand of Brown which wounded the singer.

Columbo was rushed to the police receiving ward and from there to the hospital, where he was to undergo an operation for the removal of the bullet, lodged in the cerebrum after entering below the left eye.

Dies Before Reaching Table.

Columbo died before reaching the operating table. Dr. George W. Patterson, a specialist in cranial surgery, was preparing to operate, though he said he considered the effort to save the radio star hopeless.

Questioned at the Hollywood police station by Lieuts. Page and Patrick, Brown said he and Columbo had been friends for years and that Columbo was in the habit of dropping into his home at casual moments. He said Columbo did so today and engaged for some time in conversation with Brown and his parents, who were in the home at the time.

Later, Brown said, he and the singer stepped into an adjoining room to examine a brace of civil war cap and ball revolvers which Brown had purchased some time ago for his collection. The guns were fired by percussion and Brown said he had snapped the triggers many times with no evidence that either gun was loaded.

Drops Match on Gun.

On this occasion, while Columbo was toying with one gun and he the other, Brown said, he lighted a cigaret and dropped the match. The match did not go out, but landed on the nipple of the gun he had laid down.

The powder, which probably had been in the gun since war days, was slow in firing, as is often the case. Brown said he flicked the match to the floor, but the powder, unknown to him, had ignited through the aperture ordinarily covered by the cap when such a gun is to be used. The revolver fired, the old soft ball bullet ricocheting off the top of a mahogany table and into Columbo's skull.

Thought Him Clowning.

"Russ slid to the side of his chair," Brown related. "I thought he was clowning. It was all mighty fast.

"I called my mother and father immediately, and my father called the police.

"I have had this collection of pistols for seven years. I bought them at an antique store. I have always kept them on top of my desk here.

"I had never made an examination to see whether they were loaded, because they were so old. I had no idea at all they were loaded."

Brown, whose studio is patronized by many stars of the radio, stage, and screen, was questioned a short while and then released and sent home.

Born in San Francisco.

The singer, christened Ruggiero Columbo, was born in San Francisco in 1908, the youngest of twelve children. He attended grammar school there and high school in Hollywood. Eager to be a musician, he left school to tour the country as a concert violinist.

The beginning of his singing career came as the result of study under Alexander Bevani, operatic coach, followed by being featured with an orchestra at a Hollywood hotel.

He toured for a year with Gus Arnheim's orchestra and then organized his own group, resulting in national success as a radio singer. He came back to Hollywood about a year ago to take up motion picture work, appeared in a number of movies, and recently finished his first starring vehicle.

Helps Write Song Successes.

Among a number of song hits at which he assisted were "You Call It Madness But I Call It Love," and "Time on My Hands." He had told friends that he planned to study for opera. He was unmarried and his home was with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Columbo of Beverly Hills.

Mrs. Columbo suffered a heart attack two days ago and was reported in a serious condition at a Santa Monica hospital. She was not informed of the accident for fear the shock might prove fatal.

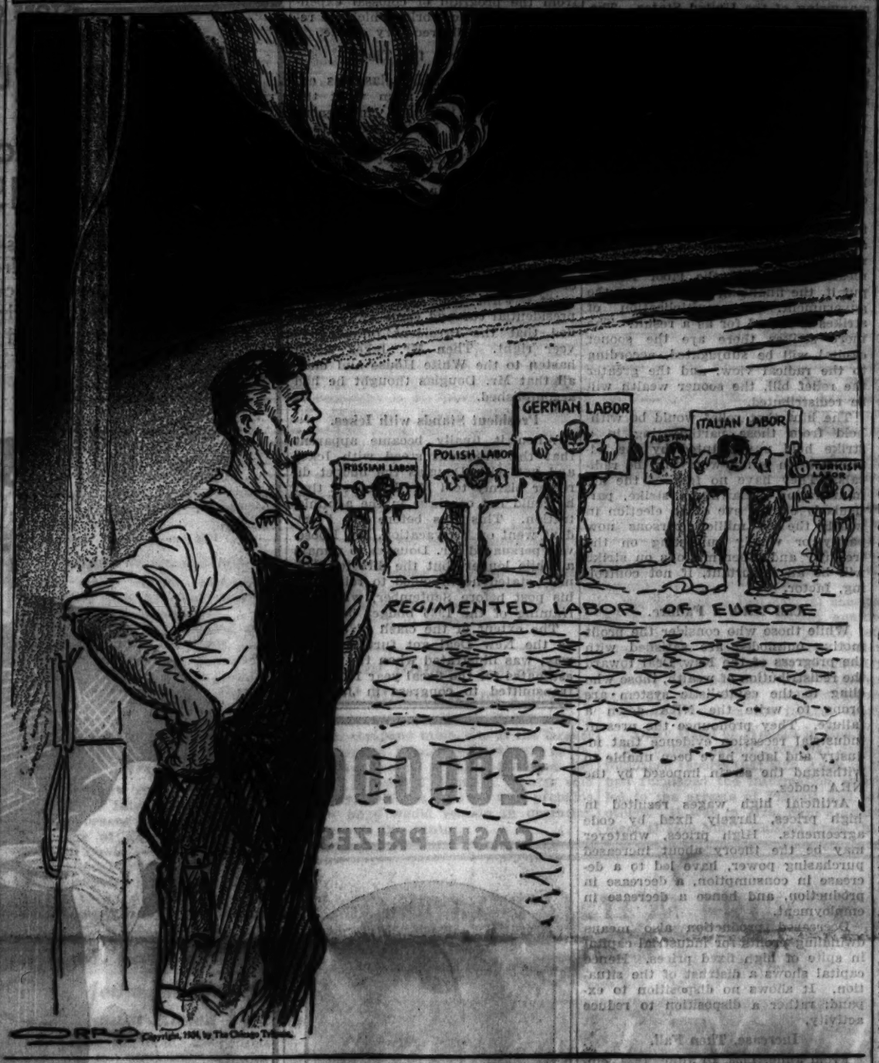
LABOR STILL HAS ITS DAY IN AMERICA



COOL AND CLOUDY LABOR DAY HERE IS U. S. FORECAST

Chicago's Labor day weather will be cloudy and cool, according to the official forecast. It was indicated there might be a shower in the morning, but no such steady rain as fell yesterday is looked for. Tomorrow, the forecast stated, will be generally fair with rising temperatures.

Yesterday's precipitation, which had started late Saturday night, continued through the daylight hours and into the evening as a drizzle. It was never heavy and the total amount, officially, was 1.02 inches for the twenty-four hours ending at 7 p. m.

Holiday crowds at the World's Fair were discommoded by the dampness and thousands of them deserted the Exposition last night and hastened to the loop. The theaters, cafés, and restaurants were nearly all doing a capacity business from dusk to midnight.

The rains were general over the east central and west central states, the greatest fall being recorded at Grand Rapids, Mich., 2.16 inches. Some airplane schedules to the west were disrupted by the bad weather, but planes coming in from the east were not greatly delayed. From Cleveland east, it was said, the weather was good for flying.

MAGICIAN WINS HIS FREEDOM BY TRICK ON POLICE

Among the 188 prisoners at yesterday's police showup in the detective bureau was Willie Zarses, 31 years old, 18 South Lincoln street, arrested on suspicion. His occupation was given on his arrest slip as a magician.

"Prove it," challenged Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan as Zarses appeared on the stage. The prisoner borrowed a new linen handkerchief from the detective chief. From a policeman he borrowed a cigaret, lighted it, and thrust the lighted tip into Chief Sullivan's handkerchief.

Zarses shook out the handkerchief to show that there was not even the mark of a burn on it. Obviously relieved, Chief Sullivan retrieved his property and gave Zarses his liberty.

George F. Baker Operated Upon in N. Y. Hospital

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—George F. Baker, chairman of the First National bank, was a patient at Doctor's hospital tonight, recovering from an abdominal operation. Dr. John F. Erdmann, who performed the operation, said Baker's condition was satisfactory. The banker is 86 years old.

French Stalk Dragon with Shining Eyes

ST. GAUDENS, France, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The ancient wolf lore of this region within the shadow of the once savage Pyrenees was called into play today to track down a "monster with phosphorescent eyes" reported sighted near here.

Despite storms sweeping the district hundreds of hunters and sightseers, headed by the St. Gaudens district's "wolf lieutenant," spent the week-end exploring Lake Camon in an effort to find the beast.

Late today they had found no trace of it, but F. Narud, the hunter who reported its appearance, insisted he saw the creature last Friday suddenly appear from among reeds bordering the marshy section of the lake.

Covered with Scales.

Narud described the monster as prehistoric in its appearance, its body 25 feet long and five feet thick. It was covered with large scales, he said, and to add to its frightfulness had curious shining eyes.

"Wolf Lieutenant" Moga promptly turned from his duties as fox hunter to organize the search for the beast.

He might have invested the chase with all the fanfare of wolf hunts of olden times, but Moga was content to wear ordinary hunting clothes.

Many Join the Chase.

France's hunting season has just opened, so he found many followers who turned willingly from the pursuit of rabbits and pheasants to chase bigger game along the shores of the lake, which previously has been regarded as the last remaining trace of a huge inland sea of ancient times.

The "wolf lieutenant" is charged with the duty of protecting his district from inroads by predatory animals. At one time every district in France had an omcial master of a pack of hounds to protect it from damage by wolves, and 1,000 Frenchmen still hold the title.

There are only about forty wolves in the whole country now, however, and these are protected in forest preserves as remnants of France's natural history. Consequently, the "wolf lieutenants now hunt such things as wild boars, badgers, weasels, and crows." This thing of chasing down a dragon is most unusual.

Job Is Costly One.

Charlemagne, in 813, granted the wolf hunters exemption from military service, a share of the emperor's grain supply, and other privileges. Now the job is a costly one for the holder.

The "wolf lieutenant" is not only expected to keep a large pack of hounds at his own expense but also must pay a tax and bear the costs of elaborate hunts, in which he wears a uniform that includes a double-breasted horizon blue jacket and a gold braided cap.

3 Gunmen Hold Up 10 in Fox Lake Tavern; Get $480

Three armed men last night held up the owner and nine patrons of the Mineola hotel tavern, on Fox lake, in Lake county, escaping with $480. The robbers, pretending to be customers, ordered a round of drinks before compelling the owner, William Thompson, to raise his hands. They then herded the patrons, one of whom was a woman, into a rear room and took their money. Thompson said he gave a total of $280 and his customers $200. The bandits escaped in an automobile.

Hungerford Jr. and Girl Found Slain in Hotel

Louis S. Hungerford Jr., son of the vice president and general manager of the Pullman company, and a beauty parlor operator known as Miss Don Rose, 36 years old, were found shot to death yesterday in the woman's room in the 1244 North Dearborn hotel.

Police said Hungerford apparently had shot the woman in a fit of jealousy upon learning she had been married recently to a sailor, and then had turned the revolver on himself. It is believed the deaths occurred early Sunday morning.

The bodies were found by a maid, who notified S. Peterson, manager of the hotel. He went to the room to find the body of the woman, partly disrobed, lying face up on the bed, a bullet wound in the forehead and another over the heart. Hungerford lay on the floor, a bullet wound in his head. A gun lay near his outstretched hand.

Divorced Year Ago.

Hungerford was 44 years old and a salesman for the United States Tire and Rubber Products company, 440 West Washington street. The body was identified by his father, who said his son had been divorced from his wife about a year ago. Hungerford had registered at the hotel in July and the woman a month earlier.

Letters found in the woman's room showed she had been married last June 1, to M. G. Palmer, a sailor at Hampton Roads, Va., who was the son of Mrs. F. H. Pinney, 5552 Terry avenue, St. Louis.

Married in St. Louis.

"They were married in my home after a two year romance on the west coast," said Mrs. Pinney when interviewed in St. Louis last night. "My daughter-in-law and son were reunited in St. Louis while he was on furlough and the marriage took place two days later. He returned to his ship shortly afterward."

Mrs. Pinney added that her daughter-in-law was an orphan, but had a married sister living in Chicago.

The letters also indicated that the woman was planning to rejoin her husband soon in Long Beach, Cal., Lieut. Joseph McGuire of the Hudson avenue police thought this plan might have had something to do with the tragedy.

Seen Together Earlier.

Residents of the hotel told of seeing the couple leave Saturday evening and return together shortly before midnight. Neither displayed any sign to indicate the approaching tragedy, witnesses said. No one could be found who had heard the shots.

The elder Mr. Hungerford, who lives at 1448 Lake Shore drive, was notified of the tragedy at the Glenview Golf club. After identifying the body in undertaking rooms at 1253 North Clark street, Mr. Hungerford said his son had been in poor health and despondent for several weeks.

Letters found in the son's room indicated he had been in correspondence with several women.

Charged with Driving Auto Into Wife; Flees Officers

Aurora, Ind., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Raymond Hess, 30, escaped today from peace officers who charged he had driven his car into his wife as she crossed a bridge. Mrs. Nellie Hess, 22, his wife, is in a serious condition at a Cincinnati hospital. Hess was arrested at a doctor's office to which his wife had been taken. While being driven to jail he picked up a pistol belonging to James Hulbert, sherif of Dearborn county, and escaped, using the sherif's car. He later abandoned the car. Both officers reported he had confessed trying to kill his wife as the result of an argument.

SURVEY SHOWS GOVERNMENT AS LARGEST GIVER

Cotton textile strike will be expanded to cover allied fields, adding 250,000 more to the million now out, says Gorman, cotton group's leader. Details on page 3.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

The depression has cost the United States in relief for the unemployed and destitute the staggering sum of more than three billion dollars, according to a survey completed yesterday.

Private charities swept into action a few months after the disastrous stock crash in October, 1929. Municipal and county units followed a short time later. The federal government spent the first of its many millions early in 1931. Since then state treasuries also have been taxed to capacity caring for the needy.

While the federal government has been the biggest single contributor, state and local units have shared heavily.

The nation's relief bill from Jan. 1, 1933, to June, 1934, as financed by federal, state, and local governments, was estimated last week by Corrington Gill, assistant federal emergency relief administrator, as approximately $1,340,000,000.

Farm Board First to Act.

This sum did not include the $400,000,000 allotted to last winter's CWA, nor figures in any of the three long previous years of depression.

The federal government first became an active relief participant when President Hoover's farm board turned over $73,000,000 of surplus wheat and cotton to the Red Cross in March, 1931.

In July, 1932, congress provided $300,000,000 for relief loans to state and local governments. Only $1,442,543 had been repaid to Aug. 13, 1934, and congress is considered likely to waive remaining repayments next year.

The sum of $1,231,000,000 has been appropriated to the relief administration since it was created in May, 1933. Grants from it have totaled $1,100,000,000. The remainder will be exhausted by the middle of this month and additional sums then must come from the President's discretionary fund.

Donations Figure Slightly.

Funds obligated to the emergency conservation work [CCC] up to Aug. 1, 1934, total $416,653,000. FERA figures show state and local bond issue authorizations for unemployment relief to date approximate $300,000,000.

In the early years of the depression, said Gill, private contributions met 30 to 40 per cent of the relief expenditures, but now they are paying less than 5 per cent.

"Thus meeting the need for unemployment relief has become," he said, "almost exclusively a public responsibility."

Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, last week fixed the number of persons now on relief roles at approximately 16,000,000, about the same number, he asserted, as were being helped this time last year.

Local political subdivisions—counties, townships, cities—contributed 33 per cent of relief costs in January, February, and March, 1933.

States' Share Increase.

The percentage since has been reduced steadily by diminishing ability to pay, such contributions from April, 1934, through June, 1934, being only 14 per cent of the total.

State contributions increased from 10 per cent in the first quarter of 1933 to 33 per cent in the same period of 1934. Estimated state and local funds available for the remainder of the year are $320,000,000 monthly.

SEES RECORD RELIEF

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—A forecast that federal relief rolls will reach a record high of 5,000,000 families in February and a denial of "misinformation" that the government is financing strikes were issued today by Donald R. Richberg for the President's executive council.

The prediction of future needy was in the third council report on "New Deal" progress. That was accompanied by a statement in which the council secretary said:

"The amount of federal relief payments which can be attributed to strikes has been almost negligible."

Should relief rolls be increased to 5,000,000 families they would constitute the heaviest load since Mr. Roosevelt took office. The largest previous relief burden, Richberg's figures showed, was in March, 1933, when 4,560,000 families received federal aid. In June, 1934, a total of 3,716,755 families and 512,701 single persons were on relief.

Cites Drouth Results.

The anticipated winter increase in cases was based on "the severity of the drouth situation and the usual seasonal increase in relief during the winter."

With strike clouds now breaking over almost a million textile workers, Richberg said in view of "a certain amount of misinformation," he felt he should make a clarifying statement. So he said:

"The number of workers involved in strikes during the last year has been a very small percentage of the total number of employed workers, and has been a smaller percentage than in previous comparable periods."

"Working Conditions Better.

Richberg expressed confidence that a "very marked improvement has been made, both in working conditions generally and in the handling of labor relations."

The effect of administration of the recovery act, with activities of the other government departments and agencies, "including particularly the department of labor and the federal emergency relief administration," said the statement, "has been to reduce the extent and severity of labor controversies, which, according to all precedents, rises rapidly during a period of economic recovery."

Richberg said relief costs rose because of the ending of the Civil Works administration, and due to "the policy in connection with work programs of allowing the larger budgets which under such circumstances are necessary for food, clothing, and car fare. Also relief standards have been raised in certain areas, particularly in the south where the average still is extremely low."

Compares the Figures.

It was set forth that 4,560,000 families were receiving relief in March, 1933, when Mr. Roosevelt took office, and that more than 4,200,000 families were on the rolls when the Federal Emergency Relief administration entered the field in May, last year. The Reconstruction Finance corporation had lent $300,000,000 to states and localities for relief.

The cost of relief in March, 1933, was given as $81,205,000. The relief expenditures reached their peak in May, this year, at $128,020,426, on the basis of figures through all months to July 1, 1934.

400 RUMANIANS OPEN CONGRESS OF CHURCH HERE

Three bishops and 400 visiting prelates and laymen attended services in St. Mary's Rumanian church, 1345 Webster avenue, yesterday morning in observance of the formal opening of the annual congress of the Rumanian Orthodox churches.

The Rt. Rev. John Trutia of Cleveland, O., presiding bishop of the church in the United States, was in charge of the service. Bishop Calistos of the Greek Orthodox church and Bishop Leonty of the Russian church attended.

The service was followed by a banquet at the Ravenswood Masonic temple, 4605 North Paulina street, at which honor guests were the Hon. Radu Florescu, Rumanian charge d'affaires at Washington, D. C.; Mayor Kelly, Charles S. Dewey, Charles J. Vopicka, and Cornelius H. Dimitriu, acting consul general of Rumania in Chicago.

A choral contest, in which nine Rumanian choral societies competed for the Carol Bavila cup, took place in the evening. The congress will continue through tomorrow.

PLANE REPORTED MISSING IS SAFE IN SOUTH DAKOTA

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—An airplane of the A. O. Smith corporation of this city, for which search was started last night when no word was received concerning it for hours after it left Salt Lake City yesterday noon bound for "somewhere in the Dakotas," was reported today as landing safely at Sioux Falls, S. D.

Mrs. Tillie La Parle of 3377 North Cramer street said that Edgar La Parle, her son, who is pilot of the ship, informed her early today by long distance telephone of the landing. La Parle said original plans were to fly into Milwaukee today, but it was decided to stop over at Sioux Falls because of bad weather. If weather conditions become more favorable the plane will arrive tomorrow. The pilot and passengers are stopping at the Custer hotel in Sioux Falls.

"He expressed surprise when informed the plane had been reported as missing and that a search had been instituted for it," said Mrs. La Parle. "He reported that the ship had run into some bad weather and was unable to make much progress yesterday, but that no serious trouble had been experienced."

EAGLE REGIMENT BATTLE FLAG IS TO BE RETURNED

Eau Claire, Wis., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—The regimental flag of the Eighth Wisconsin, the Eagle regiment of Old Abe fame, lost since one of the early engagements in the Civil war, has just been located and is to be presented to the State Historical society at Madison. The flag is in the possession of Thomas Paul Newcomb in Colorado, grandson of Thomas Paul, of the 11th Illionis Cavalry, who recaptured the flag from the Confederates.

Capt. Charles H. Henry, judge advocate and past department commander of the department of Wisconsin, has just received notice from Mrs. May Paul Newcomb, Auburndale, Mass., daughter of the Illinois cavalryman, that her son has the regimental colors among Civil war mementos of his grandfather.

The color company of the regiment was recruited from Eau Claire and achieved its greatest renown from its mascot, Old Abe, the bald eagle which served with it throughout the war. Capt. Henry is now seeking to locate any surviving member of the regiment to accept the colors on their return from the present holder. He has no record of the lost flag but believes it was captured at the battle of Holly Springs in the Vicksburg campaign.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Returning to Washington after a month's absence and renewing contacts with the captains of the New Deal, I am impressed particularly with their satisfaction that the Roosevelt revolution is well advanced toward their grand objective—the redistribution of wealth.

The administration program for the redistribution of wealth has two horns. One is designed to prevent a person from making very much money. That's the NRA. The other is intended to take it away from him if he makes it. That's the income tax.

The New Dealers are more than pleased with the situation. The NRA is living up to their expectations of an instrumentality that would operate to give employés a larger and employers a smaller share of the fruits of industry. That is the first step in the redistribution of wealth.

Talk of Higher Taxes.

With perfect equanimity, likewise, the New Dealers view the steadily mounting cost of the Roosevelt revolution which is putting the government farther in the red at the rate of four billion dollars a year. While conservatives heatedly demand who is going to foot this gigantic bill the New Dealers blandly smile and remind you that new and bigger tax levies are already being planned. The treasury experts sent to Europe to study the systems of more heavily tax burdened countries will soon be home and preparing their proposals for the January meeting of congress.

The textile and numerous other strikes are being viewed complacently by most of the New Dealers who regard such appeals to force on the part of labor a regrettable but unavoidable circumstance in the case of employers imbued with the profit motive of the capitalistic system. In fact the prevalent view among the key men of the new dispensation is that capital is on strike against the New Deal.

Deride Money Fears.

They deride theories that current recession of industrial activity is due to fears of administration monetary and other economic policies. They prefer to attribute it to a conspiracy of capital to wreck the New Deal by defeatist tactics. They have high hopes that their theory will be borne out by the investigation of the industrial credit situation beginning in Chicago.

When employers become reconciled to 3 or 4 per cent instead of 10 or 15 per cent profits or more, the New Deal will go forward more smoothly, in the opinion of the New Deal. In the meantime strikes will be only one of numerous means of bringing capital to its knees.

It may become necessary, some of the New Dealers are suggesting, for the government to take over and operate an industry the proprietors of which are unwilling or profess to be unable to share returns more fully with labor. This would be a degree of Socialism from which few of the New Dealers shrink. Government operation of factories is already being instituted under the relief administration.

Some Socialistic as Sinclair.

Socialist Upton Sinclair's capture of the Democratic nomination for governor in California has created no alarm among the New Dealers. With Sinclair state operation of factories is a matter of principle, with the New Dealers, a matter of potential expediency. Some of them, of course, are no less Socialistic in principle than is Sinclair.

The only fear betrayed by the more worldly minded administration leaders is that the nomination of Sinclair will drive conservatives out of the Democratic party not only in California but elsewhere. They are relying, however, on the President's political sagacity and ingenuity to hold the conservative Democrats in line while at the same time attracting the continued support of radical Republicans and Socialists. Predictions are already heard that the present radical trend in the Democratic party presages the virtual extinction of the Socialist party.

Approve Leftward Trend.

The radically minded element of the administration does not conceal its satisfaction with the President's continued leftward trend. They were particularly encouraged by his belittling reference to the National Liberty league's concern for the preservation of property as well as personal rights.

The decision of the administration to open the relief rolls to strikers is another circumstance in which the radicals find intense satisfaction. It means, as one of the labor leaders put it, the financing of strikes by the government. A multiplication of strikes is looked for as a result. The more strikes there are the sooner capital will be subjugated, according to the radical view, and the greater the relief bill, the sooner wealth will be redistributed.

The hint that relief would be withheld from those participating in a strike held unwarranted by the administration is not worrying the radicals. They have no fear of the administration outlawing a strike, particularly on the eve of an election in which the 25 million persons now partly or wholly subsisting on the treasury and other millions on strike will be an important, if not controlling, factor.

Call NRA a Failure.

While those who consider the profit motive outmoded are satisfied with the progress of the New Deal toward the redistribution of wealth, those who cling to the capitalistic system are prone to write the NRA down a failure. They pronounce the present industrial recession evidence that industry and labor have been unable to withstand the strain imposed by the NRA codes.

Artificial high wages resulted in high prices, largely fixed by code agreements. High prices, whatever may be the theory about increased purchasing power, have led to a decrease in consumption, a decrease in production, and hence a decrease in employment.

Decreased production also means dwindling profits for industrial capital in spite of high fixed prices. Hence capital shows a distrust of the situation. It shows no disposition to expand; rather a disposition to reduce activity.

Increase, Then Fall.

From June, 1933, to June, 1934, employment, as measured by the number of people employed whole or part time, has increased. Work is more evenly divided among workers. Employment reached an index of 82.3 in May, as compared with 62.6 in May the year before. Average hourly earnings increased tremendously, averaging 31.2 per cent over the level of a year ago. Average hours a week declined by 15.3 per cent during the year. Average weekly earnings of those employed rose by 13.5 per cent, but the wholesale price level, registered sooner or later in the cost of living, rose by 14.79 per cent in the same period.

Employment in June fell off 1.7 per cent as compared with May; and 3 per cent in July as compared with June; pay rolls in June decreased by 3.1 per cent as compared with May, and in July they decreased by 6.8 per cent as compared with June. Average per capita weekly earnings were 1.6 per cent lower in June than in May and 6.1 per cent lower in July than in June.

Labor reached its highest pay rolls in April with an index number of 67.3 on the 1923-25 average as a base of 100. It also reached its highest comparative pay with a ratio of 81.6 of pay rolls to employment as compared with as low as 50.7 in June, 1933.

COL. BRECKINRIDGE TO RUN FOR SENATE IN AN ANTI-NEW DEAL ROLE

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Col. Henry Breckinridge, assistant secretary of war during the Wilson administration, announced today he would run in the general election in November as an independent candidate for United States senator. Petitions for his nomination have been in circulation for several weeks.

In his announcement that he would run as the candidate of the "Constitutional party," Col. Breckinridge, a lifelong Democrat, criticized the New Deal policies of the Roosevelt administration and expressed opposition to the formation of a powerful burocracy in the name of emergency.

"The Tammany rule on the city of New York has been devastating," he declared. "We shall resist the Tammanyizing of the United States. The billions of relief money taken by taxation from people willing to bear every reasonable burden of a program of recovery must not be used for the erection of a gigantic national Tammany machine."

DOUGLAS QUITS AFTER RADICALS SCORE VICTORY

His Efforts to Dissuade Roosevelt Fail.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—The resignation of Lewis W. Douglas from the post of director of the budget, according to persons in a position to know the facts, was the culmination of a long struggle between the conservatives and radicals of the administration in which the radicals won.

In the course of this struggle Mr. Douglas had many conferences with the President in which he sought to dissuade Mr. Roosevelt from his policies of currency tinkering which the budget director deemed dangerous and from the program of colossal expenditures on public works which he regarded as a futile recovery device.

Encouraged for Time.

At one time Mr. Douglas was encouraged to believe from what the President said in these conferences that he had won Mr. Roosevelt to a more moderate course which brought a balancing of the budget next year well within the realm of possibility. Soon, however, Mr. Roosevelt's acts compelled Mr. Douglas to state, to put it mildly, that he must have misinterpreted the presidential utterance.

In this struggle Mr. Douglas represented the conservative, Secretary of the Interior Ickes the radical viewpoint. First Mr. Douglas got the presidential ear and came away satisfied that the President intended to veer right. Then Mr. Ickes would hasten to the White House and undo all that Mr. Douglas thought he had accomplished.

President Stands with Ickes.

When it finally became apparent that the President stood with Ickes and not with Douglas the budget director plainly told Mr. Roosevelt that he could not continue in the administration. This was before the President went on his vacation. Mr. Roosevelt persuaded Mr. Douglas to remain a while longer, but the director definitly stated he intended to relinquish his post before September, when the framing of the 1936 budget begins.

The extent of the clash of opinion, as the New Deal got further under way, was illustrated when the budget estimates for the fiscal year 1935 were transmitted to congress in January. In his budget message the President stated that "up to now there has been no coördinated control over emergency expenditures."

"Today, by executive order," he added, "I have imposed that necessary control in the bureau of the budget."

Hailed as Douglas Victory.

This was generally hailed as an outstanding victory for Mr. Douglas and caused considerable uneasiness among officials who did not fall in line with the severe restrictions which it was known Mr. Douglas advocated. It is understood that protest was made to the White House.

The controversy was finally settled when, on Jan. 7, the White House made public an executive order dated Jan. 6 which called for submission to the budget director, by emergency agencies, of a weekly itemized statement of all allocations of funds made during the preceding week out of any emergency appropriation or any other available emergency funds.

The executive order then stated that "the director of the budget shall keep a current compilation and tabulation of the above mentioned allocations and obligations so reported from time to time, and from time to time make such recommendations thereon to the President as he may deem advisable."

This order rescinded the original one made on Jan. 3. It was interpreted as a victory for the groups opposing Mr. Douglas, as apparently it gave him no direct control, leaving final decisions up to the President.

HUNT SUSPECT FOR GIRLS' DEATH IN REFRIGERATOR

Children Attacked First, Autopsy Reveals.

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Two sisters, 6 and 7 years old, were criminally attacked before they were locked alive in the icebox in their ranch home near here and left to suffocate, an autopsy today disclosed.

The children, Maryann Paiva, 7, and Mary Paiva, 6, apparently fought to regain their freedom as they were slowly stifled in the box. Their fingers were torn and bloody.

The bodies were discovered when the parents returned to their home last night, after working in the hop fields all day.

After the autopsy report today, the sheriff's office started a search for an elderly man, whose name was known to them, seen in the vicinity of the Paiva home, 12 miles from Sacramento. That man, police said they had learned, had been unfriendly with Paiva and his family. The man sought could not be located today.

Mother Finds the Bodies.

When the parents returned to their home shortly after dark last night Mrs. Paiva, mother of eight other children, suddenly noticed the girls' absence. There were ice and food on a table.

A 2 year old son, Alfred, was asleep on the floor near the icebox. Mrs. Paiva opened the box and shrieked when she saw the bodies of her daughters.

Paiva hurriedly summoned Dr. Paul W. Frame, who lives nearby, but a glance told him the children had been dead for some hours. Dr. Frame said he believed the trapped girls had suffered intense pain before they died.

Sheriff's deputies immediately questioned all members of the Paiva family, including a 15 year old brother.

Brother Tells His Story.

The brother said he last saw his sisters alive at their home shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The girls then were washing the luncheon dishes.

It was believed the person who attacked the girls had cleared the icebox and forced his victims inside.

BABY IN AUTO STOLEN; CHILD REGAINED, SAFE

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Shortly after police throughout Michigan had organized in search of a stolen automobile which contained a sick 12 months old baby in the back seat, the car and the child were found here at 1 a. m. today by a night watchman. The baby was safe and had apparently suffered no serious ill-effects from a 40 mile ride from Jackson, where the car had been stolen.

The car was taken while the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Young, of Michigan Center, were at a beer tavern. The parents said that they left the child bundled up in the back seat of the car while they stopped at the tavern for about half an hour. Mrs. Young visited the car a number of times, she said, to see that the baby was properly covered.

On the last trip to the car, Mrs. Young found that the automobile and the baby were gone. Sheriff's officers were notified and a state wide search was begun. Lee Foor, night watchman at a local fuel warehouse, reported finding the car parked in front of the plant, with the baby sleeping peacefully in the back seat.

250,000 MORE TO JOIN STRIKE, GORMAN CLAIMS

All on Walkout Will Be Fed, He Declares.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Within a week the cotton textile strike, now affecting about 1,000,000 workers in the cotton, silk, and wool divisions, will be extended to cover an additional 250,000 workers in a group of miscellaneous divisions, Francis J. Gorman, vice president of the United Textile Workers and chairman of the general strike committee, announced today.

The new divisions which will be marshaled by the textile union in what is regarded as the greatest strike effort ever made by organized labor in the United States are the following: Hosiery, underwear, synthetic yarns, rayon makers, outer wear, carpets and rugs, velvet, upholstery, drapery and pile fabrics.

Industry to Be "Crippled."

Mr. Gorman, the youthful looking Yorkshire-born strike leader, on reading several scores of telegrams from local unions pledging 100 per cent compliance with the walkout order, predicted that the entire textile industry would be crippled by Wednesday. He promised that strikers would be fed for the entire period of the first national textile strike ever called in this country, "no matter how long it lasts."

This reference was taken to mean that the union expected to obtain federal relief for those members without resources and to piece out its financial contributions toward relief from funds supplied by sympathetic unions, some of which have already offered such aid. The textile union treasury itself is said to have about $1,000,000, but that fund could not be expected to last long in such a great strike movement.

"Remember that it is not money that wins strikes of this sort," declared Mr. Gorman. "The strike will be won by the spirit of the men and women who have invested their lives in this industry and who regard that investment as being a first lien on the industry."

60 Per Cent Employed.

Although the strike order, according to the announcement, will cover 1,250,000 employes within a week, only 60 per cent are employed, so that a maximum walkout will affect about 750,000 operatives. The union, according to the latest announcement of its membership, made today, comprises 350,000 members.

Mr. Gorman's contention today was that all the union members would strike and would be joined by more than 300,000 of those at work when the strike order went into effect at 11:30 last night. He expects 650,000 workers to "down tools" within a week.

Mr. Gorman outlined the issues in the strike in two addresses today. Later he went to his office, where he continued his conferences with officers of the strike committee and the other divisions that will be called out within the next week.

Welcomes Arbitration Later.

On meeting reporters late this afternoon Mr. Gorman was asked whether the union would agree to submit its case to an arbitration board set up in the manner suggested by George L. Berry, NRA divisional administrator, who is a member of the national cotton textile industrial relations board.

"Any attempt to arbitrate the issues would be welcome after this strike is on," he said, adding:

"You see our people have been treated so badly by the textile industrial relations board that we cannot go to that body. We have been fooled so long that we naturally mistrust that board. We have sought to obtain relief from the heavy burdens imposed on us by going direct to the employers. They referred us to the board and the abuses continued. That is the difficulty we face in considering action by this board."

Proposed Board of Three.

Maj. Berry's suggestion for a three member board made to President Green of the A. F. of L. was for the appointment of the arbitrators by joint agreement among Secretaries Roper and Perkins, Gen. Johnson, and the national labor relations board.

For several days there have been reports of a possible three member board which might handle the controversy. Questioned on this phase of the situation, Mr. Gorman said he had heard such reports but that the matter had been "too indefinite."

"We must have some definite concessions," he declared, adding that the union was demanding the 30 hour week without a pay reduction, regulation of the stretch-out system, and enforcement of section 7A of the recovery act.

The strike leader failed to leave for Charlotte today because of an engagement to confer with Peter Van Horn, chairman of the silk code authority, who called in his personal capacity. This did not satisfy Mr. Gorman, who had requested a meeting with a committee of manufacturers. The conference proved fruitless.

Upon reading the telegrams from affiliated local unions today, Mr. Gorman said:

"Tomorrow will be the most momentous Labor day in the history of the textile industry. It will mean the emancipation of the textile workers."

Textile union leaders are concerned with efforts now being made by communist agents in the left wing textile union to "capitalize" on the strike situation. Mr. Gorman declared that his organization was in a better position to check these efforts than in previous strikes.

Confer on Hosiery Action.

Although the Federation of Full Fashion Hosiery Workers has contracts with a large sector of the hosiery industry it may be found necessary to shut down the entire industry in order to compel the nonunion employers to live up to the terms agreed to by the union group, it was announced at the union offices.

Conferences are now under way between Emil Rieve, president of the hosiery federation, an autonomous body within the United Textile Workers, to arrange an amicable understanding with the union employers on this point. When strikes are contemplated for organization purposes, employers under contract, it was said, usually consent to close their plants in order to coöperate in the attempt to stabilize the industry.

Members of the executive council left for their posts in the field today and will make Labor day addresses tomorrow and then take the lead in the local areas.

Plan to Open Georgia Mills.

Macon, Ga., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Employers and labor have their eyes set on Tuesday to measure the effectiveness of the textile workers' strike in Georgia.

The mills will be closed throughout tomorrow in this state, as is the annual custom, in honor of Labor day. There will be rallies of textile workers in several sections and speeches by their leaders. The dominant note of celebrations will be that of labor.

Mill owners in several sections have announced their intention to open their mills at the usual hour Tuesday morning, despite the nation-wide strike of textile workers. Leaders of the strike expressed confidence the workers would respond overwhelmingly to the call for the walkout.

Vote Against Walkout.

Pawtucket, R. I., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Two New England labor organizations today voted against the general textile strike ordered by the United Textile Workers of America, and one of the U. T. W. A. locals in Connecticut was said to be opposed.

Horace A. Riviere, head of the New England district of the U. T. W. A., reported that Maine, considered by union and mill representatives as comparatively weakly organized, was gathering added sympathy for the strike.

Three of the five units of the American Federation of Textile Operatives in Fall River, Mass., voted not to strike. They were the weavers, carders, and slasher tenders units. Yesterday the loom fixers and drawing-in-knot-tiers and warp twisters went on record against the strike.

In the Pequot mills at Salem, Mass., the Independent Sheeting Workers, local No. 1, representing nearly 2,000 of the 2,500 workers at the plant, it is reported, voted against the strike.

Dissension against the strike was voiced in Manchester, Conn., by U. T. W. A. members employed by the Cheney Brothers' mills. There, it was reported, the 2,300 employes felt they had no "reason for grief against the company."

Meetings of the local members, executive board, and company officials was scheduled for tomorrow to determine action.

Miss Guilford displayed a 20 carat diamond ring which she said Peck gave her. She denied she would marry Larry Hart, foreign writer now en route to New York from Hollywood.

DEFY NRA ORDER OF PRESIDENT ON PAY AND HOURS

Cotton Garment Makers United on Stand.

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Representatives of the cotton garment industry from all sections of the country, including officials of fifteen subdivisional industries under the cotton garment code, met here today and adopted a resolution refusing to abide by the recent order of President Roosevelt lowering hours and increasing wages for 250,000 workers in the industry. The order affected 4,000 units spread over twenty-four states.

The manufacturers voted to defy the President's order as "unjustifiable, unwaranted, burdensome, and inequitable."

The manufacturers authorized and directed their counsel, Raymond A. Walsh of Washington, to take such steps if necessary as would protect the rights and interests of the members of the industry. It was indicated the industry was ready to fight the President's order in the courts.

First Collective Defiance.

Today's action by the manufacturers of the cotton garment industry marked the first open collective defiance by an industrial group of the President's powers under the NRA to order changes in industrial codes affecting wages and hours.

The President's order was issued on Aug. 23, and was the first of its kind, and was widely hailed by organized labor, which hoped to make it a precedent for similar action in other industries. The order was expected to increase employment by 10,000. Indirectly it affected some 300,000 workers in allied needle trades, such as dress manufacturing, men's clothing, and other divisions of the apparel industries.

In rejecting compliance with the President's order, the resolution adopted by the manufacturers declared that the imposition of reduced hours and higher wages on the industry is "a complete and improper reversion of policy under the theory of voluntary code procedure."

Approved Unanimously.

The action of the manufacturers was taken after an all-day session and was approved unanimously.

The meeting was presided over by Edward Rowan of St. Louis, president of the International Association of Garment Manufacturers, parent organization of the various subdivisions of the industry.

Garment Workers' Chief Lays Strike Plans Here

Groundwork for a strike by members of the International Ladies Garment Workers' union on Oct. 1 was laid here at a conference yesterday between David Dubinsky of New York, international president, and leaders of middle western locals. Refusal of employers to cut working hours from 40 to 36 hours a week was the reason given by President Dubinsky for calling the strike. About 6,000 Chicago workers are involved.

First Methodist Church of Streator Razed by Fire

Streator, Ill., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—The First Methodist church of Streator was completely destroyed by fire tonight. The edifice, one of the largest in the city, was built about 35 years ago. It was valued at more than $100,000. The origin of the flames, which started under the roof, was undetermined.

KILLED IN TRIANGLE DISPUTE.

Juvindino Villacana, 24 years old, 352 North Grove avenue, Elgin, was shot and killed early yesterday morning by Teofilo Castillo in his home at 367 North Grove avenue, Elgin. Police said Castillo accused Villacana of attentions to Mrs. Castillo, 18 years old.

MAYOR FACING HIS HARDEST FIGHT IN HUEY'S GRAFT 'QUIZ'

New Orleans, La., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Facing the wrath of the "Kingfish," Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley of New Orleans today was in the throes of his greatest political battle to retain his city crown.

The "Kingfish," Senator Huey P. Long, overlord of Louisiana politics and master of the state administration, was seeking to oust Walmsley from office in another of his famous political coups and carry the state primary on Sept. 11.

Walmsley challenged Senator Long under martial law reign to take action and not talk so much and the senator replied by holding a quick session of his special legislative committee and taking evidence from witnesses he put on the stand that Walmsley reaped graft from lotteries and girls of the tenderloin variety.

The mayor was quick to issue a public denal of the charges, sweepingly protesting that "I have never been associated with gamblers or been a gambler in my life."

"It has been called to my attention," said the statement of Walmsley, "that Mr. Long had a man engaged in the lottery business make some statement that $50 a week per company was paid to me. I am sure the people who know me and who have had dealings with me know that this is an absolute falsehood."

A witness testified that about twenty lottery companies operated in New Orleans and that their payoff aggregated $3,500 weekly in protection money to the Walmsley political faction.

$6,000 INCREASE SHOWN BY IOWA FAIR THIS YEAR

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—The Iowa State Fair earned nearly six thousand dollars more this year than last, in spite of lower attendance, Secretary A. R. Corey revealed today.

Increased grand stand receipts helped bring the total up this year despite a falling off in gate income.

Expenses of the 1934 fair will be increased also, the official reported. Nearly ten thousand dollars more was spent this year on premiums than last. Total expenses are expected to reach $196,000 as compared to $181,000 in 1933.

Total income this year will reach $176,000 as compared to $191,000 last year, including profit from a walkathon held in conection with the exposition.

One of Illinois' Largest Coal Mines Opens Tuesday

Pana, Ill., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Pana Coal company mine, one of the largest in central Illinois, will resume operations Tuesday with a force of 350 men, President Glenn A. Shafer said today. Officials said it was probable the mine would remain in operation through the winter.

SEEK TRUE BILLS BEFORE FRIDAY IN DILLINGER PLOT

Piquett Hopes for $50,000 Bail Tomorrow.

Evidence will be presented before the federal grand jury against Attorney Louis P. Piquett, John Dillinger's lawyer, and six other prisoners who are held on the charge of harboring the notorious outlaw and his lieutenant, Homer Van Meter, both of whom have been shot to death while resisting capture.

This was announced yesterday by District Attorney Dwight H. Green, who said he hoped to have indictments returned before the preliminary hearing which is scheduled for next Friday before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker.

Mr. Piquett and his six co-defendants spent the day in the county jail yesterday, unable to furnish the high bonds fixed by Commissioner Walker Saturday. Attorney Benjamin Landis, who has been called into the case to defend Piquett, said yesterday that the $50,000 bail necessary for the release of Piquett may be provided tomorrow.

The Suspects in Jail.

Held in jail with Piquett are Dr. William Loeser and Dr. Harold Cassidy, who have admitted performing facial and finger print operations on Dillinger to conceal his identity. In their confessions they are said to have named Piquett and his investigator, Arthur W. O'Leary, as having arranged for the operations. O'Leary, who is one of the seven prisoners, has also confessed.

William Finnerty, former gambling operator, his wife, Ella, in whose home at 492 Freeland avenue, Calumet City, Dillinger and Van Meter are alleged to have been harbored, and Mrs. Marie Conforti, the henchman's sweetheart, are the others in custody.

The operations, federal agents declared, were performed in the home of James Probasco, 67 years old, 2509 North Crawford avenue, who later killed himself by plunging from the nineteenth floor of the Bankers' building, 208 South Clark street, when brought to the office of Melvin Purvis on that floor for questioning.

Mr. Green said that several charges of harboring will be sought against Piquett. It was revealed that the federal agents wished to have indictments returned before the preliminary hearing in order that their evidence may not have to be disclosed before the actual trial in the federal court.

Deny Hand of Woman in Red.

The federal agents yesterday denied published reports that Mrs. Anna Sage had furnished the information which led to the arrests of Piquett and the others. It was in Mrs. Sage's apartment at 2420 North Halsted street that Dillinger roomed while police of the country were in a concentrated man hunt for him. Mrs. Sage, the "woman in red," who had led the desperado to his doom, has been held by the federal agents in security against any attempts of the bandit gang to seek revenge.

Mrs. Polly Hamilton Keels, who was Dillinger's sweetheart while he roomed at the Sage woman's home, is also said to be under the protecting wing of the federal agents. After she had accompanied the bandit to the Biograph theater, where the trap had been set for him, she was reported to have returned to North Dakota to her mother's home. She has not been heard of since. Federal agents have declared, however, that she was unaware of her sweetheart's identity.

Attorney Landis spent the day yesterday searching through the law libraries for a defense for his client.

"What is harboring and concealing and how far can an attorney go in his dealing with clients will probably be the subject of controversy at the trial," he predicted.

Mr. Piquett, who was formerly a bartender and then city prosecutor under a Republican city administration, was not permitted to have visitors at the jail yesterday. Several persons who called to see him were turned away.

BUILDER OF HOT DOG WAGONS MAKES IT HOT FOR FORMER EMPLOYE

Frank Hersh, 2337 Roosevelt road, is a builder of hot dog wagons. Three months ago he gave employment to Grover Walker, 18 years old, 2302 Jackson boulevard, who disappeared last week with one of Mr. Hersh's hot dog wagons. Yesterday Hersh found Walker and his wagon at 324 North Clark street. He turned Walker over to the Warren avenue police who booked him on a charge of grand larceny.

GAMBLING QUIZ NEAR BY SPECIAL JURY IN DENVER

Denver, Colo., Sept. 2.—(AP)—One of the most spectacular legal investigations in Denver's history appeared impending today following District Judge George F. Dunklee's order impaneling a special grand jury to investigate municipal gambling conditions in general, and slot machine operation in particular.

The veteran jurist's order disqualified District Attorney Earl Wettengel and his entir staf from aiding in the inquiry, and designated Kenneth W. Robinson, former assistant district attorney, as a special prosecutor to conduct the investigation. The jury was called to convene Sept. 11.

Judge Dunklee's order said the disqualification was based on a petition to the court by the Rev. S. J. Mathison and six other Denver citizens, and a letter purportedly written about a year ago by Wettengel to his chief investigator, Ray Humphreys.

As entered by Judge Dunklee into the court records, the letter read, in part:

"The squad picked up a slot machine in a drug store today, more or less accidentally, and I understand that Captain Hannebuth [Police Capt. August Hannebuth] is coming over Monday to file in the West Side [criminal division of district court].

"See Reynolds [Deputy District Attorney Andrew J. Reynolds, who resigned from the prosecutor's staf several months ago] Monday a. m., and tell him I said I don't want any west side court gambling cases at present for Dunklee to make a big hullabaloo about, and think that justifies him in calling in the J. P. [justice of peace] court."

LOVE SCORNED, GIRL LEAPS TO DEATH IN RIVER

Prayers Unheeded, Notes Explain to Family.

Her prayers for help in regaining the affections of a former suitor had gone unanswered. And that was why [the story was related in two notes found in her pocketbook] a young woman climbed the railing of the State street bridge last evening and leaped to her death in the river.

The body has not been recovered, but the purse, picked up on the bridge by the Chicago avenue police, was identified by George Mills, 4358 Gladys avenue, as the property of his daughter, Miss Miriam Mills, 25 years old.

Once, after she had struck the water, the woman screamed. Roy Strickland, engineer on an excursion boat docked near the bridge, saw her struggles and tossed her a life preserver. But she could not reach it, or wished not to, and when Strickland rowed out in a boat she had disappeared.

Advice to Little Boy.

One was addressed to Sonny, 5 year old nephew of Miss Mills. The other was to her father.

"I love you, Sonny, as if you were my own," the first one read. "I have been so happy in your joys, so sad and worried in your sicknesses. I had planned so much for you in life. Please don't cry for Mamie, little man, and say a prayer each night for me. Go to Sunday school and remember the teachings. When you grow up do what is fine and good and God will reward you with a happy and successful life.

"Sonny, don't let any one tell you Fred didn't love you. We would all have been so happy if Fred hadn't met Helen. Never interfere with another's happiness as Helen did with mine. She made you and dad unhappy as well as me. Be a good boy, Sonny. Good-by and God bless you. I close with all my love for the sweetest little boy in the world."

About the Other Woman.

The other letter to "Dear Dad" said:

"You don't know that Fred's right here in Chicago working, and that he's been going with another girl since last April. Well, I do. I even met her on Aug. 8. Fred met her when he was delivering milk to Neisner's store, where she was working then. She changed him over night. You know how good he was to me and all of us. She turned him against me and all my friends. And O, I can't forget his love.

"Don't think I haven't tried to keep on living for your sake, Dad. I asked God to straighten out the difficulties between me and Fred. Even after the break I went to church every day and asked God for strength to carry on. But all my prayers went unheard. God knew I needed Fred for your happiness and Sonny's as well as my own. I asked God to help me and help has been refused. I can't go on longer without losing my mind. Good-by forever. Miriam."

Mills said his daughter had been despondent over the death of her mother. He had nothing to say about Fred and Helen.

DELICATESSEN STORE OWNER IS SHOT TO DEATH

Peter Zawad, 35 years old, was shot and fatally wounded last night by an unidentified man in his delicatessen store at 214 West 119th street. He died soon afterward in the Roseland community hospital. The gunman, accompanied by a companion, entered the store while the proprietor was alone. Both fled after the shooting.

Zawad was unwilling or unable to tell the name of his assailant. The police theory was that the shooting grew out of a personal feud. Zawad's wife, Marie, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Harriet Wills, 1215 South Michigan avenue, were in the Zawads' living quarters at the rear of the store, but did not see the shooting. Mrs. Zawad told police that after the shot she ran into the store and saw two men, coatless and hatless, walking out, one with a revolver in his hand.

Zawad was tried several months ago for defrauding a chain store company which formerly employed him. He was acquitted.

CHICAGO SCHOOLS OPEN ON SEPT. 17; EXPECT 480,000

Pupils to Find Better Equipment.

With its 17,000 employes paid up to date and with good prospects of regular pay days in the future, the Chicago board of education will open the city's schools on Sept. 17—two weeks from today—with an estimated attendance of 348,000 elementary pupils, 127,000 high school students, and 4,500 junior college students.

The public schools customarily open the day after Labor day, but in line with its economy program the school board postponed the opening two weeks.

Parochial schools of the Chicago Catholic archdiocese will open tomorrow with an estimated enrollment of more than 200,000, according to the Rev. D. F. Cunningham, superintendent.

Three Junior Colleges.

The most radical departure from the education of the past, Supt. William J. Bogan pointed out, is the establishment of the three new junior colleges. The 4,500 enrolment is about 1,000 more than the maximum of the former Crane Junior college.

Mr. Bogan said he hoped that about 540 needy students in the junior colleges would be granted $15 a month from federal relief funds in return for special services to the colleges. If this allotment is granted to Chicago junior colleges, Mr. Bogan said, an examining board will be appointed to pass upon student applications for such relief.

The junior colleges will be established at the Chicago Normal college, 6800 Stewart avenue; the former Wright Junior High school, 3400 North Austin avenue, and the former Medill Junior High school, 1326 West 14th place.

Two New High Schools.

Two new high schools, the Lane Technical and Steinmetz, will be opened this year. The new Wells and Phillips high schools will be ready for occupancy by December and a large addition to the Senn High school will be opened at the beginning of the school year. These improvements, Mr. Bogan said, will relieve greatly the congested condition of the high schools.

The Lane school, the largest in the world, will accommodate 6,191 pupils, as compared to the old Lane's capacity of 1,601. Five branches of the old school, including 70 portable buildings, will be abandoned.

Order Quiz Into Fatal Fall of Ex-Northwestern Co-Ed

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 2.—(AP)—An inquiry was ordered today into the fatal plunge of Miss Autumn Gilmartin, dental hygenist, from the fourth story window of a hospital here a week ago. Miss Gilmartin, a graduate of Northwestern university, died last night, without regaining consciousness.

HIT BY STRAY BULLET.

Theodore Kazmarek, 20 years old, 5024 South Racine avenue, was taken to the Bridewell hospital early yesterday with a wound in his left knee, caused, according to his account, by a stray bullet at Racine avenue and 50th street.

FEAR MISSING ARMY AVIATOR LOST IN LAKE

Planes Exceed 300 Miles an Hour.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—A search for an army pursuit pilot from Selfridge Field, Mich., who has been unreported since he took off there Saturday afternoon to fly to the National air races, narrowed last evening to Pelee Island, Ont. There wreckage of what apparently was an airplane was reported. The search is being carried on by army authorities here, in coöperation with the Selfridge field group.

The missing pilot is Lieut. Clement J. Gaster of the First Army Pursuit group. At 1:45 p. m. [Chicago time] Saturday, he took off from his home station in a P-6-E Curtis Hawk, single-seater fighting ship. Lieut. Gaster never arrived at Cleveland, but it was not until day that his failure to report here was noted.

Fear His Loss in Storm.

Army and National Guard pilots, and coast guardsmen tonight were patroling the shores of Lake Erie between here and Detroit. It was feared that Lieut. Gaster had attempted to fly over Lake Erie from Detroit, a distance of only 90 miles. He was sought today by 24 army planes from the Selfridge Field group at the air races. The distance from that place to this city is about 140 miles following the Lake Erie shore, only an hour's flying in the type of plane Lieut. Gaster had.

It was recalled here that a rain squall accompanied by hurricane winds struck Cleveland at 2:39 p. m. on Saturday afternoon, one minute after Col. Roscoe Turner, making his new transcontinental speed record, arrived. Gaster, it was said, undoubtedly was caught in that squall. The planes returned tonight without a trace of Lieut. Gaster.

Lieut. Gaster is 25. His home was on an Oklahoma farm. He had completed his course at the army's pursuit finishing school at Kelly field, Tex., one year ago.

Over 300 Miles an Hour.

An enthusiastic throng estimated at 30,000 watched the third day of the 1934 National Air races here.

During the day Roscoe Turner arrived from New York to learn that the National Aeronautical association's contest committee held a special meeting an hour earlier and accepted his new record time for the west-east transcontinental flight—10 hours 2 minutes 51 seconds—as the official record. It had been thought at first that because he beat his former record of 10 hours 4 minutes and 55 seconds by two minutes it might not be accepted.

For the first time today the crowd saw the heavier racers in action. Three ships qualified to fly tomorrow for a new attempt on the world's land plane speed record. During one of these attempts the spectators saw a ship fly, 316, 320, and 325 miles an hour over a three kilometer straight-away course.

These sensational times were set by J. H. Worthen, in a Wedell-Williams retractible landing gear racer. It was powered with a 550 horse power Wasp motor. All three of the laps were down wind. On his up wind laps his rate was considerably slower, although the average speed for six tries over the course was 302.036 miles an hour. The present land plane record is held by the late James R. Wedell at a speed of 304.98 miles an hour.

Will Change Plane's Motor.

Doug Davis, winner on Friday of the Bendix trophy race from Los Angeles, flying another Wedell-Williams racer with a Wasp Junior motor of 400 horse power, qualified his ship by flying an average speed of 246.17 miles an hour over the course. Davis is to replace the Wasp Junior motor with a standard 575 horse power Wasp power plant over night and tomorrow may be able to beat Wedell's time.

The ship Davis will fly was the one in which the present record was made.

Roy T. Minor of Hollywood, Cal., flew his own Brown special racer with a Menasco 185 horse power motor to qualify at 243.145 miles an hour early this morning. All the ships which will make the attempt on the record tomorrow must fly 225 miles an hour in the trials.

Davis Wins a Race.

Doug Davis was a busy man during the day, for in addition to qualifying his plane for the speed record attempts he also won the free for all race for planes with motors of 1,000 cubic inch displacement, for $1,745 prize money. The race was for 50 miles over the triangular five mile course. Walter Wedell of New Orleans, flying another Wedell-Williams racer, was second, and Harold Neumann of Moline, Ill., was third in a Menasco powered Howard racer. Neumann led for the first five laps, but the heavier ships finally overtook him.

There was a stubborn fight on every pylon today between S. J. Wittman in a special racer powered with a Popjoy motor. The lead changed three times on one of the three five-mile laps. Wittman finally won in a neck and neck finish at an average speed of 113.49 miles per hour.

In the same race Clarence McArthur of Tampa, Fla., gave a superb exhibition of piloting. When the Church motor of his Tilbury Flash racer quit he managed a down wind landing on the airport, although he was bounced around by severe gusts.

CUBAN PAPERS ON A 6 DAY WEEK; NO SUNDAY NEWS

HAVANA, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Cuba, so far as news is concerned, went on the six day week today by government order.

For the first time in the history of Cuban journalism there were no Sunday afternoon newspapers nor will there be any Monday morning.

A decree issued last week prohibits their publication in a measure designed to asure newspapermen of one day of rest each week. The decree also prohibits radio broadcasting of news over the 24 hour period.

JAPANESE TROOPS RESCUE YANKEE FROM KIDNAPERS

Freed Men Tell How They Escaped Death.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 3 [Monday].—Robert Lury, naturalized American citizen, and E. F. Johansen, a Dane, both employés of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company, were rescued yesterday with seven Japanese after 67 hours of captivity in the hands of Manchukuoan bandits.

The nine men were rescued from the bandits' hideout, a wooded sandbar on the Sungari river, by the Manchukuoan coast defense vessel Fu-min and taken to Harbin. The rescue was effected near the town of Niujietzu, 40 miles southwest of Harbin, after a sharp brush with the bandits.

Seized After Train Wreck.

Lury and Johansen, together with the seven Japanese, were seized after the bandits had wrecked a Chinese Eastern railway train, near Wuchia, Thursday night. Five persons were killed in the wreck.

The rescued men reached Harbin in jovial spirits. They appeared to be none the worse for their harrowing experience.

Johansen declared that their adventures would "make a great story for a motion picture."

"As a personal experience it was something that happens once in a lifetime," he said.

Both Lury and Johansen paid high tribute to Kumetaro Murakami, Japanese member of the civilian administration of the Manchukuo government, who was the hero of the rescue. He gave up his life that the others might be saved by informing Japanese searching parties of the bandits' hiding place.

Tell Story of Experience.

"After we were taken off the wrecked train," Lury and Johansen said, "we were led toward marsh lands near the Sungari river. The bandits took off our shoes and clothes and forced us to put on their shabby coolie garments.

"Sensing that they were being pursued they headed toward the Sungari and placed us in the bottom of a junk. When the Fumin approached with Japanese and Manchukuoan landing parties aboard, all of us were ordered to lie down in the bottom of the boat. The bandits pressed pistols against our sides.

"As the Fumin drew near the Japanese aboard shouted, 'Have you any Japanese aboard?' The answer was 'No.' The Fumin steamed away and it seemed our chance of rescue was gone as none dared to call for help.

Shot in Chest by Bandits.

"Suddenly Murakami rose up in the junk and shouted, 'There are Japanese here.' He was shot in the chest by the bandits, and fell mortally wounded. The bandits exchanged fire with the Fumin and then fled. More than twenty-five bandits were killed in the clash."

Murakami died soon after he was taken to a hospital in Harbin.

The dying Japanese asked for pencil and paper and wrote this farewell message:

"I am a devotee of Buddhism and the goddess Konpira. It is due to her that you men are safe. Please go to the temple of Konpira in Tokio and offer prayers of thanks."

Saloon Damaged by Bricks and Bombs Twice in Week

Two men leaped from an automobile last night in front of the saloon of Thomas Towey at 4258 West Harrison street and after smashing the front window with bricks tossed two large stench bombs into the place. John Frain, a bartender, ran out and fired a pistol at the car, but without hitting it. Towey said he knew of no motive for the attack, which was the second of the same nature within a week.

PARAGUAY CLAIMS 310 MILES GAINED SINCE WAR BEGAN

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Reports from the Chaco front tonight indicated Paraguay's forces were smashing ahead in two sectors as the war ministry announced the Paraguayan advance since June, 1932, had covered nearly 310 miles of the disputed jungle area.

A total of 122 Bolivian forts, including Fort Pitiantuta, the only fort Paraguay lost to the enemy, have been taken in that period, the war ministry claimed. Bolivian prisoners taken now number 19,000 men and 500 officers, the communique said.

The war ministry recalled that the government, at the start of the two years of warfare, asked the people to surrender arms used in Paraguay's last revolution to equip soldiers going to the front. Paraguayan victories and the capture of "half of Bolivia's armaments" now has enabled the government to provide all forces at the front with efficient weapons, machine guns, and field guns, it asserted.

SIMON GOLDBLATT AND WIFE FETED ON GOLDEN DATE

Hundreds of friends and relatives of Simon Goldblatt, veteran grocer, and his wife Hanna attended a dinner and reception in the Stevens hotel last night in celebration of the couple's golden wedding anniversary.

The celebration opened with a repetion of the marriage ceremony by Rabbi Julius Siegal of the Humboldt Boulevard temple. It was witnessed by the couple's eight children, fifteen grandchildren, and one of the two great-grandchildren.

The eight children are Morris and Nathan, founders of the Goldblatt department stores; Alex, Louis, Joel, Mrs. J. Handelsman, Mrs. J. Gordon, and Mrs. K. Handelsman. Mr. and Mrs. Goldblatt live at the Belden-Stratford hotel, 2300 Lincoln Park West. They have been Chicagoans for 35 years.

THOUSANDS DEFY SHOWERS; MASS AT WORLD'S FAIR

Officials Are Amazed at Attendance Jump.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Despite intermittent rain throughout the day, Fair attendance yesterday reached astounding figures. At midnight 163,512 visitors had entered the grounds. The previous Sunday, with ideal weather conditions, the total paid admissions was 188,655. Indications were that the final attendance would compare favorably with this figure considering the weather.

"In view of the rain, the attendance truly is astounding, said Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager. It is of particular interest to Chicago that the majority of yesterday's attendance was composed of out of town visitors. These people came to Chicago to see the Fair and a little rainy weather did not stop them."

All Leading Hotels Filled.

Also indicative of the out of town attendance was the report of leading hotels. All were filled to capacity.

Officials, forming their opinion both on the hotel report and on checking of visitors at the gate, arrived at the conclusion that fully 80 per cent of the visitors, if not more, were from out of town. Rainy weather, they said, was the only thing that prevented a new attendance record.

During the first hour yesterday, with rain coming down in a steady stream, 10,423 persons entered the grates. At noon the total was 55,731 paid admissions, and during the afternoon hours the visitors poured in steadily.

Buses Unload at Canopies.

Buses were so routed that visitors were unloaded under canopies, and intra-Fair buses carried them rapidly to their destinations.

Naturally, most of the visitors got damp, but all treated this as a joke. All the buildings and exhibits were crowded during the day with restaurants reporting a rushing business. Beer and cold drinks for once were going begging, and hot coffee was at a premium. Aside from slight inconvenience, the weather did the visitors no damage. No accidents were reported and no damage was done to buildings or exhibits.

Century of Progress Notes

E. H. R. Revere, great-grandson of Paul Revere, will visit A Century of Progress Exposition on Tuesday, Sept. 11, to participate in Revere day ceremonies in the Colonial village.

Miss Joyce Brown, dairy queen of Plymouth, Wis., will present Rufus Dawes, president of A Century of Progress, with Sheboygan county's prize cheese Sunday, Sept. 9. A special train will bring all of Sheboygan county's dairy queens and a party of visitors to Chicago.

A portrait by Prof. Anton Sterba and a bust by Anton Bocech, both of the late Mayor Anton Cermak, were unveiled yesterday in the Czechoslovakian pavilion at the Fair by Miss Vivian Graham, grand-daughter of the late mayor. Czechoslovakian ceremonies planned at Soldiers' field were postponed until this afternoon due to the rain.

Officials of the New York Central lines yesterday placed the holiday visitors to Chicago for the Fair over their lines at more than 21,000. The Michigan Central carried 9,000 passengers, with the New York Central railroad and the Big Four route bringing in large numbers.

A special admission price of five cents to the Fair has been announced by Fair officials for all organized student tour parties visiting the Exposition during September and October. Conductors of the tours will be admitted to the grounds free of charge.

The rain cape vendors were the only people at the Fair yesterday who welcomed the rain. They did a flourishing business and the grounds were dotted with people wearing the gay blue, red, or white rubber capes which the Fair has made popular during last year and this.

Flight Lieut. A. J. R. Downs of the Australian reserve air force visited The Fair while en route from Los Angeles to London, following his purchase of a Vultee low wing monoplane which he intends to fly in the London to Melbourne air race starting Oct. 20.

START SURVEY ON FARMS ON AAA CONTRACTS

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—One hundred supervisors, all farmers and corn-hog contract signers, themselves tomorrow will begin inspection of McLean county farms in compliance with the government's plan to make a second payment on AAA contracts. McLean county has more corn-hog contracts than any other county in Illinois. There are 3,586 contracts.

The duty of the farm supervisors will be to help the farmer determine the corn acreage of his farm sown for grain purposes and the number of hogs raised to show that he has kept within the limits of his contract. When the supervisor has measured the fields and counted the hogs, with the farmer helping him, the supervisor will then certify that the farmer has complied with contract terms and the government will make the second payment to the farmer on the contract basis.

In measuring the fields, only growing corn will be considered. Corn destroyed by chinch bugs will not be included in the total. If the farmer has unintentionally exceeded the area he agreed to plant, he can dispose of the excess as silage or allow it to mature, subject to a deduction from his contract money commensurate with the excess to the average production.

Palestine to Guard Coast Against Illegal Immigrants

JERUSALEM, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Immediate establishment of a coast guard force with the necessary vessels and equipment to patrol the coast of Palestine and prevent the landing of illegal immigrants was announced here today by officials of the Palestine government. The government also announced the organization of a special force of mounted and foot frontier police for intensive patrol of the land frontiers.

Grover Cleveland's Sister Observes 91st Birthday

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Surrounded by relatives and faced by a huge birthday cake, Mrs. Susan Cleveland Yeomans, sister of the late President Grover Cleveland, observed her 91st birthday today.

Murky Weather Ends Girl Flyers' 3d Endurance Trial

Jean La Rene and Mary Owens, Texas girl flyers were balked yesterday by fog and rain in their third attempt over Curtiss-Reynolds airport to set a new women's endurance flight record. Flying weather "thick as pea soup" caused airport officials to call the girls in from a flight begun Saturday morning. They landed at 7:09 a. m. after 19 hours and 25 minutes aloft. Both expressed keen disappointment in the forced conclusion to their attempt, and said they will try again, weather permitting. Refueling and motor troubles stopped the first two flights.

SPEAKERS PAY LABOR TRIBUTE AT WORLD'S FAIR

EPIC Policies Expounded by Upton Sinclair.

California program but also against the New Deal, he asserted.

"People in California are tired of starving," said Sinclair in his address, "and my victory represents the will of the people for a change.

"I have dropped schemes of utopias and coöperative commonwealths; this is an emergency and must be met practically.

"The plan of EPIC, which stands for 'End Poverty in California,' is a simple program designed to put the unemployed to productive work, make them self-supporting and take them off the backs of the taxpayers. We propose to have the state set aside good farm land, purchase machinery to work it, and then transfer the 1,250,000 on the state relief rolls to the farms.

"These people can then raise their food and exchange their surpluses for other necessities. We also propose to let farmers pay their taxes with receipts given them when they place their surplus crops in state warehouses.

"Organized labor will be helped by this plan because we will be able to put more people to work in factories. They will be producing things needed by the people on the farms. If necessary the state of California will purchase the raw materials the factories need."

Plan Parades at Fair.

The main ceremonies in the Labor day program at the Fair today will be held from 2:30 to 5:30 p. m. in the Court of States. Parades and musical events are planned throughout the grounds at other hours.

After Mayor La Guardia's speech Senator C. C. Dill of Washington will discuss freedom of speech, both of the radio and the press. Henry Goddard Leach, editor of Forum magazine, will warn employers that wages must be increased to accompany the rising cost of living and commodity prices.

Sinclair and Mayor La Guardia met yesterday in the mayor's room at the Shoreland hotel and chatted for an hour. They plan to meet again tomorrow in the city hall in New York.

PARTY DROPS SINCLAIR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—The Socialist party today, in a formal statement by the national executive committee, meeting in Mayor Daniel W. Hoan's office for its quarterly session, washed its hands of Upton Sinclair and his candidacy for governor of California.

The statement declares that Mr. Sinclair is not a Socialist, that his platform is not a Socialist platform, and neither he nor it has the support of the Socialist party.

"The national executive committee of the Socialist party of the United States of America calls upon every Socialist and believer in Socialism in California, whether inside the party or out, to work for the Socialist candidates in the coming election," the declaration states. "We urge that all Socialists outside of the state make public our stand on Upton Sinclair's candidacy and insist on every appropriate occasion that he is not a Socialist and that Socialism can never come through individuals penetrating the old parties.

Say Capitalism Is Dying.

"If Sinclair is what he claims to be, a good Democrat and a loyal follower of Roosevelt, he must support capitalism. If he believes he can, as a Democrat, go against his party's policies and attack or undermine private profits, we think he is making a grievous mistake, a mistake which will only prolong the sufferings a dying capitalism will inflict upon the people of California."

Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate for President in 1932, expressing his personal view, predicted failure of Sinclair's "epic" program for abolishing poverty in California.

"Sinclair's nomination for governor of California is a problem for the Socialist party in a certain sense," Thomas said. "He is not a Socialist and is not supported by the Socialist party. There are good and bad elements in his victory. It is encouraging that a state cursed by reaction and industrial feudalism should nominate for governor a man like Sinclair."

SHOT BY POLICEMAN; DIES.

Robert Grover, colored, 18 years old, 3362 Prairie avenue, shot by Sergt. Thomas Brennan at 61st and Dearborn streets when he resisted arrest Saturday, died yesterday in the Bridewell hospital. Edward Campbell, 17 years old, 3346 Giles avenue, companion of Grover, who was also shot, is recovering.

UTILITY EMPLOYES ASK LA GUARDIA TO HEAR GRIEVANCES

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—In order that the public may have a voice in the threatened strike of the Brooklyn Edison company employés, the Brotherhood of Utility Employés announced today that it would request Mayor La Guardia, upon his return from Chicago Tuesday, to hold a hearing at which the grievances of the union may be aired.

Bernard Lambe, president of the Brotherhood of Utility Employés, whose local 102, claiming to have enrolled 90 per cent of the Brooklyn Edison employés, will request the mayor to receive a committee, including representatives of local 102, whose president, James Donegan, together with two members, are alleged to have been discharged by the company because of their union activities.

RUNAWAY ENGINE SMASHES TRAIN IN PARIS STATION

54 Hurt; Engineer and Fireman at Lunch.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—(AP)—A wildly careening runaway railway locomotive, pursued afoot by its crew, smashed into a crowded suburban train in the busy East station today, injuring 54 persons.

The locomotive engineer and fireman were eating their lunch on the grass beside the siding where they had parked the engine at Levaillette, several miles from Paris. Suddenly, to their horror, they saw the engine begin backing, gain speed, and start an unchecked run for Paris.

Old Coaches on Wrecked Train.

The two men started in chase, but the engine outdistanced them, increasing its speed to what was estimated later as 30 miles an hour. It roared across a bridge leading to the station while a bewildered switchman excitedly blew his whistle, not knowing no one was aboard.

It pounded through the yards as railroad men shouted at it and smashed into the standing suburban train, made up of old fashioned double decked wooden coaches.

The passenger train crumbled under the impact, the passengers in the two front cars suffering the worst. The engineer of a neighboring train leaped into the cab of the runaway and closed the throttle.

Claims Brakes Were Set.

Most of the injured were able to leave hospitals after treatment. The runaway's engineer, called in for questioning, insisted that the brakes had been set before he got out to eat and that some one must have climbed aboard and opened the throttle accidentally.

No Americans were listed among the casualties.

FOUND ASPHYXIATED IN HOME.

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Frank Nyquist, 60, an employé of the city traction company here, was found asphyxiated in his home today. The illuminating gas was turned on. He had been in poor health for some time.

NAZIS WILL OPEN CONGRESS AMID POMP TOMORROW

500,000 to Attend; Hitler to Give 7 Speeches.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—Seven days in succession Adolf Hitler, dictator of Germany, will address his people and his National Socialist party congress in the old medieval town of Nuremberg.

The convention will be a gigantic effort to exhibit to the world the youthful zest with which Hitler is attacking problems confronting a big nation. At the same time he will attempt to win over the 5,000,000 Germans who refused to vote for him as successor of the late President Paul von Hindenburg.

On Tuesday, 500,000 Nazis will start pouring into Nazidom's official congress "capital" Nuremberg.

One hundred and eighty thousand Nazi party officials, 88,000 Storm Troopers, 19,000 black uniformed Hitler guards, 50,000 voluntary labor corps men, 60,000 members of the Hitler youth organizations and vast crowds of both men and women party members will listen to the message of the "Fuehrer" and return to their homes to further spread and strengthen his creed.

Plan Impressive Event.

With all the resources of the country at their disposal, the Nazis are preparing to turn the congress into a gigantic pageant. An army of artists, architects, officials and workers has been called upon to set the stage for the impressive event.

The Nuremberg Congress hall was rebuilt to seat 60,000 persons. With pride the Nazis assert the hall far surpasses in size the Coliseum of ancient Rome. The city itself is being swathed in flags, garlands, and antique tapestries.

The Market square, with its trim, coquettish high gabled houses, its beautifully sculptured and carved historical buildings, will be the setting for several imposing festivities. It is on the Market square, which is now called "Adolf Hitler platz," that Hitler will stand and review his semi-military and political troops.

500 Trains to Carry Visitors.

More than 500 special trains will bring the guests to Nuremberg. Private automobiles and motor buses will come from all parts of the land. Nazi officials are working feverishly to take care of the visitors.

Tents are being pitched outside the city walls for Storm Troopers, Labor Corps men, and Hitler Boys. Soup kitchens on wheels, equipped to turn out 700 gallons at a time, will supply the Nazis with food.

Church bells will ring in the congress on Tuesday. The first group to figure on the official program is the foreign press. Dr. Ernst Hanfstaengl, Harvard graduate and foreign press chief of the Nazi party, will address the press. Later high dignitaries of the party will be received in the Town hall. Hitler will address them.

This, like all other speeches, will be broadcast to the nation.

Next Wednesday will be devoted to Kultur. Alfred Rosenberg, Hitler's personal adviser on foreign affairs, will share the limelight with the Fuehrer.

To Review Labor Corps.

On the following day representatives of the voluntary labor corps will be reviewed by Hitler in Zeppelin field. Eighty-eight thousand labor corps men in olive green uniforms will be the dictator's audience.

On Friday 180,000 party officials will march past Hitler with 27,000 flags. The war dead will be honored and commission after commission will sit to devise measures to help soldiers maimed in the war and to improve national health and race. Hitler's speech will be preceded by that of Robert Ley, chief of the Labor Front. In the evening a torchlight procession will be held to "show the Fuehrer the glowing love of his followers."

On Saturday Hitler Youth—boys only—will march into the city from their camp to listen to their idol tell them about their mission in life. The stadium will be the setting for this meeting.

Sunday will be reserved entirely for the Storm Troopers, who will meet in the specially built Luitpold arena. On a raised tribune where the slain Capt. Ernst Roehm stood a year ago Hitler's new chief of staf, Victor Lutze, will stand and address the men placed under his orders. The Hitler Guards, who played so prominent a role in the "blood purge" of June 30, also will be honored.

Finally, as a climax to the meeting, the reichswehr [regular army] will for the first time in modern German history formally pay tribute to its new master.

INVENTS BLINDING LIGHT RAY AS AIR ATTACK DEFENSE

PARIS, Sept. 2.—(AP)—An anti-aircraft light ray invention, capable of blinding flyers at long range, was reported today by the Paris Midi.

The newspaper said the light ray was of 1,000,000 candle power and that the patent for it has been offered to the French government by a German inventor forced to flee from Germany.

The Midi suggested the light beam could protect whole cities from attack by blinding the pilots of bombing planes, and declared that an experiment with a 150,000 candle power projector showed it could blind at a distance of one mile.

JAPS PLAN TO BUILD NEW NAVAL BASES; WILL FACE U. S. ISLES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 3.—[Monday.]—Japan is planning to construct powerful naval bases on Hokkaido island and in the Kurile islands "to cope with the menace created by the United States in establishing bases in the Aleutian islands," the newspaper Jiji reports this morning.

For this purpose, the paper continues, the navy is sending Vice Admiral Teisho Shiozawa, commander of the Japanese naval force at Shanghai at the time of the outbreak of the fighting there, to investigate conditions in these regions to ascertain where it would be most suitable to establish a base or bases.

(Hokkaido is the second largest of the Japanese islands. The Kurile islands extend northward to the peninsula of Kamchatka, and at the nearest point are about 650 miles from the Aleutians.)

Scrapping plane carriers and reducing battleship tonnage from 35,000 to 25,000 tons will be proposed by Japan at the 1935 naval conference, the newspaper Asahi says. It states that Japan will stick to this demand.

FRANCE SMOOTHS PATH FOR SOVIET ENTRY IN LEAGUE

Seeks to Overcome Opposition.

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 2.—Although embarrassed by a renewed anti-soviet campaign at home, the French foreign ministry tomorrow will begin final diplomatic action to overcome opposition to Russia's entry into the league of nations, with reasonable certainty of success by Friday when the actual, if unofficial, decision will be made at Geneva.

With the help of the British and the Italians, the Quai d'Orsay is expected to line up the last of the recalcitrant nations in the course of the week. The firmest opponents to Russian membership in the league have been Poland and Switzerland—the former objecting particularly to Moscow getting a permanent seat in the council. Nevertheless, there is reason to believe that these countries will agree at least to abstain when a vote is taken in the league assembly.

Cabinet Far from Unanimous.

While there is no question of France ceasing its insistance on Russia's entry into the league because of the campaign at home, it has become obvious that the government itself is far from unanimous on the point. The dangers of accepting the soviet at Geneva is pointed out by a group of conservative organs, at least one of which represents the opinion of members of the national cabinet.

Their argument is that Russia must be regarded more as a Third Internationale than as a European nation like the others. They also declare that if Russia wants to enter the league and sign peace pacts with all comers it is only to tie the hands of other nations and gain a firmer position for Moscow in the perennial activity of spreading communist propaganda abroad. The danger of bolshevism in Europe is not lessened by the entry of Russia into the league, it is pointed out.

Foreign Office Silent.

French foreign office spokesmen in the press are remaining silent. They apparently have been assured that at this late date the campaign will not hinder the present program of foreign policy, even if dissension over this policy goes as high as the government.

Foreign Minister Louis Barthou refuses to swerve from his intention of getting Russia into the league and then, with Russian support, drafting a network of mutual assistance treaties in eastern Europe.

Once a favorable vote is obtained at Geneva, there will be no delay in a soviet representative taking his seat at the council as well as the assembly.

EXPECT BAN ON VOTE FOR WOMEN IN PHILIPPINES

MANILA, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Manila Bulletin says a canvass of the Filipino constitutional convention shows a majority opposed to women's suffrage in the islands and that the proposals to enfranchise them is, as a result, "dead and buried."

The suffrage committee of the convention concluded a week's hearing Saturday, and is expected to draft an adverse report on Monday, the newspaper adds.

An ovation was received by one member of the committee when, in an address before the hearings started, he declared the women's vote, if granted, "will serve as an open sesame for immorality, vice, divorce, birth control, and idleness."

6 Day Fire at Argentine Oil Refinery Is Checked

CAMPANA, Argentina, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Authorities have announced that the six day fire which virtually destroyed the refinery of the National Oil company was definitly checked at dawn today. At that time, only one of the storage tanks was still burning. It contained little oil and the fire fighters said there was no danger that its blaze would spread to the remaining containers. Five men lost their lives in the fire.

Germany Bans Protestant Paper; No Reason Given

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Evangelical church weekly Light and Life has been banned until Oct. 12 for an unannounced reason. Attempts to publish the paper under a different title will likewise be stopped, it was announced today in what was regarded as an unusual precautionary step.

LAWRENCE GIVEN UNEARNED FAME, BRITON DECLARES

Credits Arabian Success to Col. Leachman.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 2. — Sensational criticisms of Col. T. E. Lawrence [Lawrence of Arabia] and the startling assertion that a Col. Leachman was the unsung hero of the Arabian campaign are made by Maj. N. N. E. Bray, an officer in the Indian army, in a book, "Shifting Sands," soon to be published here.

T. E. LAWRENCE. [Harris & Ewing Photo.]

In an interview in the Sunday Graphic, Maj. Bray, who was throughout the war governor of Kerbela, where Col. Leachman had his headquarters, says Col. Leachman was "one of the greatest men England ever produced, yet he lies unknown and unhonored in a forgotten grave at Bagdad."

Col. Leachman, according to Maj. Bray, controled thousands of Bedouins between Bagdad and the Hejaz while Col. Lawrence was at work in the Hejaz, a small strip in the vastness of Arabia.

Wanted Ibn Saud.

Maj. Bray declares he was moved to write "the true story of the Arab revolt because the whole story is wrapped in the gaudiest desert sheik romance and nonsense in the public mind."

"Now that the insensate hysteria of the Arabian Nights touch has died down," he says, "I think people can judge the issue sanely. People must get out of their minds that this was a romantic personal story. It was the tremendous struggle of a conquered and dissatisfied people, the Arabs, to win their freedom and independence from their Turkish oppressors. England backed the wrong horse. Hussein and Feisal were not the leaders the Arabs wanted. Ibn Saud was and is the man.

"Col. Leachman's rule was to keep in check the nomadic tribes, linking them to Great Britain in friendship and frustrating Turkish gold and German propaganda. His influence was over a land incomparably more vast and important than Col. Lawrence's small Hejaz strip.

Murdered by Sheik's Son.

"Yet Col. Leachman played no part in building up Arabia in the political sense. To him was intrusted the difficult task of keeping the Arabs quiet and friendly, and he did it single handed."

"Attempts were made on Leachman's life any number of times, and finally, in the rebellion of 1923 when distrust of Britain still smoldered, he was murdered by the son of a petty sheik whose intrigues he exposed."

Maj. Bray's book was rejected by most London publishers before its acceptance by the Unicorn Press. Once the manuscript was lost while the author was en route to visit Ibn Saud. Recently a housemaid threw the second half into the fire, and, like Carlyle's "The French Revolution," it had to be entirely rewritten.

LABOR EDITOR ATTACKS CODES AS ANTI-LABOR

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—As far as labor is concerned, the NRA has proved to be only a myth, according to Thomas R. Downie, editor of the Galesburg Labor News. In a Labor day editorial he said:

"Labor day, 1934, has the record of more industrial strife than has ever before been seen, when it should have earned the record of the best years in the history of the world.

"The NRA looked like Utopia to all labor, and especially to those who are daily pressing forward the interest of those who toil, but it has proven to be a myth, except in a few places where employers have honestly tried to be fair with the government. But in the main, NRA has been used to undermine and destroy much that years of hard work had made possible."

The editorial declares that since last Labor day officials of the labor movement have devoted the best part of their time to fighting bad labor and wage conditions in codes. He said they achieved little or no results. He added: "The one bright spot in the picture is the determination of the President to do something about the situation."

Congress of Anti-Fascists Called Here Sept. 28-30

Several international figures in literature and politics have been invited to attend the second United States congress against war and Fascism in the Ashland Boulevard auditorium, at Ashland boulevard and Van Buren street, Sept. 28 to 30, according to announcement yesterday. The call for the convention was issued by Robert Morss Lovett, chairman of the arrangements committee here.

Child Falls from Window and Dies of Her Injuries

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Norma Jean Danforth, age 5, only child of Mr. and Mrs. George Danforth, Evansville, died at the St. Mary's hospital late yesterday afternoon of a fractured skull and broken neck received in a fall from a second story porch at the home. No one saw the child fall, but a neighbor heard the body strike the walk 20 feet below.

Milwaukee Man Elected 32d Division President

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Richardson E. Browne of Milwaukee today was elected president of the Thirty-second [Red Arrow] division, which is holding its biennial convention here. Milwaukee was chosen as the convention place for 1936, and Grand Rapids, Mich., was designated tentatively as the 1938 convention city.

MISSOURI FARMERS PROTESTING AGAINST DAKOTA WILD COWS

Poplar Bluff, Mo., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Butler county farmers have asked Sheriff Lester Massingham to protect their lives and property from the "wild cows of Butler county."

The farmers, headed by A. B. Parkenberry, said the cows are wild; that they do not know the purposes of fence, and that the sight of a human being "just burns them up."

The cows were shipped to Arkansas from North Dakota as a part of a federal project, and wandered into Missouri, the farmers said.

COURT DECISION AWAITED TO FREE COUNTY TAX CASH

Nash Issues Report on Collections.

County Treasurer Thomas D. Nash in a report issued yesterday said that since Jan. 1 this year the treasurer's office has distributed $119,945,024 in tax collections to various municipalities in the county. This amount represents about 80 per cent of the total collections for the year, $150,778,024, he said.

The undistributed amount remaining in the treasury is $30,833,000. Of that, $16,855,000 has been withheld from distribution by Mr. Nash because of pending protests by large taxpayers, such as railroads and loop buildings, where complaints have been filed against the tax rates.

Court Order Awaited.

A total of $2,500,000 had to be withheld against protests of the 1931 rates, Mr. Nash stated. But because of a ruling of County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki last week upholding only $700,000 of those protests, the remainder can be distributed as soon as the signed order is received from the court, probably this week.

The largest item in the funds held up is $14,355,000, retained pending filing of protests against 1932 tax rates by practically the same group of taxpayers. Notice of these protests has been given, and because of that the county treasurer is not free to release the collections. At a conference of objectors last week in Judge Jareski's chambers, Sept. 10 was set as the date for the filing of specific objections. When actual protested amounts are known, Mr. Nash said he expected to be able to release all but about $2,500,000 of the funds.

Expect Similar Decision.

Court decision in the 1932 rates matter is expected to correspond to that for 1931.

Another item in the $30,000,000 withheld is $11,000,000 involved in tax forfeitures from 1928 to 1932. Delay has been encountered in allocating these funds, received principally from tax buyers and loans of the HOLC, due to the large number of municipalities in Cook county receiving shares, and to revisions in real estate bills made necessary by Judge Jarecki's order several months ago for a 15 per cent reduction in assessments. Mr. Nash said he expected this work to be finished Dec. 1.

The balance of $2,978,000 on hand from collections of the past two weeks will be distributed this week.

2 YOUTHS, GIRL TO BE SEIZED IN DEATH, KIDNAPING

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Armed with two warants charging murder and another charging kidnaping, five Buffalo police officers were en route to Circleville, O., tonight to bring back two youths and a girl arrested there in connection with the killing of Police Lieutenant George L. Uhl and the kidnaping of Theodore B. Keating, prominent business man here.

Detectives John Masters and Eugene M. Downey started for Circleville this morning after police were notified Keating's car had been wrecked. Detective Sergeants Richard H. Mack and William T. Fitzgibbons and Policewoman Sarah Conners carried the warants and were expected to reach Circleville some time after midnight.

Police Commissioner James W. Higgins said he was elated at the capture of Bruno Sulek, 23; Stanley Pludziak, alias Gross, 17, and Alice Zimmerman, 25.

"We want them back here," he said, "and will bring them here as soon as possible—by airplane, ambulance, or any other method."

CUBAN RADICALS BURY 2 MARTYRS; CALL NEW STRIKE

HAVANA, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Students and leftists of various degrees of radicalism wrote another chapter in the Sanchez-Fernandez case today when they paraded the streets under a broiling sun to bury the bodies of the two in Colon cemetery, but there was no indication that the burial closed the book.

Hanging over the government, which has been harassed by bombs, revolutionary plots, and strikes, was the threat of another strike by five government departments, all the schools, and possibly the busmen and street car men, all in protest of the killing of Rudolfo Sanchez and Ivo Fernandez, two students, early yesterday.

Alleged Informer Missing.

Closely linked with the situation was the mysterious disappearance of Enrique Suarez Jiminez, another youth, who had been missing from his home ever since friends of Sanchez and Fernandez accused him of furnishing the police with the information that led to their arrest and subsequent killing following a political disturbance.

Reliable sources revealed that Suarez Jiminez was last seen last night inside a building of the University of Havana, where students yesterday held a demonstration. It was said he was beaten by the slain pair's friends and later "tried" by an unauthorized group of them.

Meanwhile the danger of a conflict on the water front appeared after Alejandro Buttari, port captain, announced that, starting tomorrow, he would enforce the commission's ruling that old striking dock workers be placed on the active list.

Force Way to Work.

Across the city, at the telephone company, another old wound in the labor situation gave signs of reopening when 256 leaders of February's strike notified the government that they were going to force their way back to work tomorrow.

Delegates representing government employes of the departments of communications, labor, public works, treasury, and agriculture, and student leaders voted a 24 hour strike to begin Monday morning.

MAY PICK MAN ON SEPT. 15 FOR SEAT OF RAINEY

Jacksonville, Ill., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Joseph Knight, Democratic state central committeeman for the 20th congressional district, tentatively has set Sept. 15 for the convention of county chairmen to name a successor to the late Henry T. Rainey. Chairman Warren Brockhouse, Morgan county, is understood to be seeking the nomination, while the only avowed candidate thus far is William N. Hairgrove, a Roosevelt man before the convention of 1932 and a delegate to its session. Brockhouse is a brother-in-law of State's Attorney Johnson of Pike county.

There are rumors that Walter I. Manny of Mt. Sterling, Brown county, might be an aspirant for the congressional nomination. He was pro-tempore chairman of the Illinois state senate during Edward J. Dunne's governorship.

James [High Heels] Kirby of Petersburg, who lost at the primary when Rainey was renamed, is said to feel he should be nominated. Jersey county on Saturday indorsed Scott Lucas of Havana, a Legionnaire and head of the Illinois state tax commission.

The Republican nominee is Warren Wright. He wants a bill to pay depositors on closed banks, and that is said to appeal strongly to 8,000 depositors of the closed Ayers National bank. They have received ten per cent thus far.

KILLED BY TRAIN.

Princeton, Ind., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Jacob H. Land, 75, of Lawrenceville, Ill., who came here to visit his son, Clyde, over Labor day, was killed when he walked into the path of a fast C. & E. I. freight train.

AUTOISTS FILL WOODS RESORTS IN WISCONSIN

Chicago Cars Plentiful on Shores of Lakes.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minocqua, Wis., Sept. 2.—The land of dense woods and many lakes, a happy hunting ground for Indians a century and a half ago, then a rich field for fur traders, thereafter fertile timber country, and until recently a refuge for the more hardy fishermen, today is overrun with holiday excursionists like one of Cook county's forest preserves.

About half of the cars parked at the curb of this village's main street, about 400 miles from Chicago, bear Illinois license plates with windshield stickers or wheel tax tags of the metropolis or its suburbs." The same scene was noted in a dozen other resort towns within fifty miles of here.

Cars, Cars Everywhere.

Around the lakes that spot the map are more of these week-end motorists from the metropolitan area. Their cars are parked at boat landings, at shacks half hidden by Christmas trees and silver trunked birches, or at lodging houses where ferns have turned a golden brown from the drouth and the lateness of the season and an occasional maple has a branch of scarlet, pink and yellow. The wilds of northern Wisconsin are no longer so wild. Improvements in automobiles and highways within the last few years have brought this territory within easy driving distance of Chicago.

The trails through the woods have been oiled and graded so that they are in better condition than most Chicago streets.

On Arbor Vitae lake twenty fishing boats were counted in one group.

Motorists from the metropolitan area are scattered all over this state of a hundred lakes today, and if the weather is propitious, the majority of them will return to Chicago late tomorrow afternoon or tomorrow night. Police of Cook county anticipate congestion on the arterial routes.

The crowd of visitors hereabouts for the three day week-end emphasizes the recent conversion of this district from the backwoods of the central west into a recreation area for the thickly populated shores of Lake Michigan.

Names Add to Features.

The picturesque names are still on the map—Lac du Flambeau, Kawaguesaga lake, Buck-A-Ta-Bon lake, Kaucachein lake, Tomahawk, and so forth. The towns once considered remote in the hinterland are still there—Rhinelander, Eagle River, Woodruff, Mercer and others, but things have changed.

On the heavily wooded shores of the scenic lakes are signs advertising Kumrite Inn, Dew Drop Inn, Joe Slavic's place, and the like. The beer that was fisherman's joy in the pre-prohibition era is no longer accompanied with free lunches. The National Recovery administration in some principalities permits peanuts, popcorn and pretzels as the only side dishes.

Women in motoring parties are wearing bright colored pajamas or gay jodspurs. Some of the men are in knickers, popular several years ago among golfers. Yes, even golf links have been cut out of the woods at a few of the resort towns.

Few Dress as of Old.

These costumes violate the old traditions that a Chicagoan invading this lake region should wear a sloppy felt hat and corduroy or khaki pants becoming to a fisherman on the rough. There are a few who are faithful to the modes of the past, but they are in the minority.

Even the Indians have broken faith. In a telegraph office at Eagle River a bronze skinned young woman in white lounging pajamas, rouged lips and long gold earrings under coarse blue-black hair dropped in for a message. In fairness to the native hereabouts, it must be mentioned that she was driving a sedan with a Chicago vehicle sticker.

The Lac du Flambeau Indian reservation, a few miles northwest from here, was visited to see the redskins in their native state. Except for their black eyes they were little different than any group that might be seen in a small town of central Indiana, even to the slouched shoulders from hours bent over plow handles.

Indians' Sunday Best.

They were in their Sunday suits, damp from the morning drizzle, in mail order or village store clothes with coats and pants that did not match. And the town itself, heterogenious frame cottages long unacquanited with paint, was not unlike other small American settlements, except for its site of the shore of a lake with shores heavily grown with deciduous and evergreen trees.

Two picturesque characters were found in the Indian village. They were white men, loitering at the gate of a path to the door of the Presbyterian church. On their heads were felt hats with broad, flapping brims and carelessly crushed crowns. Colored flannel shirts, coarse breeches and laced leather boots completed their he-man, back to the wilderness appearance. Their automobile, or at least the car parked in front of them, was from Chicago.

One old Indian was seen with a touch of color. He had a bright red feather in an old hat, but he lacked fringed trousers of deerskin. He wore blue overalls patched at the knees, and he was standing at the crank of a gasoline pump.

Flivvers Displace Ponies.

Old flivvers have taken the place of the Indian pony among these Chippewa. The only saddle horses noticed were a group with English saddles. There was no council tepee or hogan in the town, but there was a baseball park.

The development of motor transportation bring these lakes and forests within easy driving distance of Chicago may have detracted much of the beauty that was enjoyed by the few who formerly were able to enjoy vacations hereabouts. But today, with good roads and fast cars, the pleasures of the blue lakes and the many-hued woods are available to multitudes.

THREE WHO SLEW POLICEMAN FACE DEATH IN CHAIR

Plan Quick Trial; All 'Equally Guilty.'

The state will ask for a speedy trial and death in the electric chair for the three slayers of Motorcycle Policeman Earl M. Jensen of Oak Park, according to announcement yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Marshall Kearney. The policeman was shot and killed Saturday when he interrupted a robbery foray in the suburb.

One of the robber trio, Ernest Dittman, 29 years old, 509 South Oakley avenue, who was seriously wounded by Oak Park Policemen Lyle Oliver and Loyal Wilcox in the chase which followed the slaying of Policeman Jensen, was transferred yesterday from the West Suburban hospital to the Bridewell hospital. He was shot in the thigh, chest and back. Physicians expressed doubt that he would recover.

Pals Blame Wounded Man.

His two companions, Armond Boulan, 39, of 18 South Lincoln street, and Norman [Yankee] Lawrence, 19, of 2015 West Madison street, sought to put the blame for the murder on Dittman. Kearney pointed out, however, that all are equally responsible in the eyes of the law, no matter who actually fired the fatal shot. Boulan was shot and captured with Dittman when the bandits' car was wrecked at Van Buren street at the west edge of Columbus park. Lawrence escaped at that time, but was seized later at the gang's hangout, 1827 Washington boulevard.

Under questioning by Mr. Kearney and Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan, both men admitted participation in recent robberies. Boulan said that he and Dittman last Thursday had robbed two gasoline stations in Aurora and two in Elgin. Lawrence said he and Boulan had robbed a station in Chicago Friday.

Suspects Darker Record.

Chief Sullivan persisted in his belief that the men's crimes extend beyond simple robbery. "Boulan and Dittman have extensive records," he said. "I don't think it was the nervousness of beginners that caused them to kill the policeman. They probably are involved in other shootings and feared identification if captured.

Funeral services for the slain policeman will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. from the chapel at 720 Lake street, Oak Park. Place of interment has not been decided.

A large police guard will form part of the funeral procession. A detail of Policeman Jensen's co-workers on the Oak Park department will comprise one section and it was reported yesterday that the state police will send a large detachment.

The slain policeman is survived by his widow, Betty, and a daughter, Donna Rae, 2 years old. Their home is at 443 North Lombard avenue.

HAMILTON IDEA BEST FOR WORLD, DR. BUTLER SAYS

Southampton, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, said today a nation no longer is the world's ideal political unit.

"Joint action and responsibility in all that concerns every nation, with separate organization and responsibility for that which concerns but a single nation, is the ideal now to be achieved," he said to an audience of millionaires and society leaders gathered in the Parrish Art museum of this exclusive summer resort.

Unemployment, balancing consumption and production often have been faced before, and it amazed him "how little man seems able to learn from the experience of those who have preceded him on this earth."

"We must find how to apply," he declared, "to the unorganized political and economic world of today those wise and far reaching principles which Hamilton and Madison wrote into the constitution of the United States. The world is waiting for a new application of the federal principle."

Dr. Butler said the idea of the league of nations "must be rebuilt in terms of today and tomorrow."

"The whole theory of a world of armed and jealous nations taking but most casual cognizance of their literally colossal joint and common interests must be given up forever," he asserted. "There will be no permanent prosperity for any nation, and no lasting peace until this is done."

Roosevelt's Quiet Day.

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 2.—(AP)—President Roosevelt spent a quiet Sunday at home today. With his mother, he attended the family church, St. James Episcopal, in the morning. Mr. Roosevelt enjoyed a round of fun last night with newspaper men at a clam bake given by Secretary and Mrs. Morgenthau at their farm near here. He entered into the singing and general festivities.

URGES FEDERAL MONOPOLY FOR WEAPON MAKING

Senator Bone Predicts Result of Quiz.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The disclosure that the senate munitions committee had threatened contempt proceedings to get some of the information it wanted was coupled today with a prediction by one member that the federal government would take over manufacture of all arms.

Although investigators declined to reveal what firms or facts were involved, it was learned they had developed a number of promising trails, only to be met with arguments that the questions involved were confidential.

Threaten Contempt Action.

Consequently, it was said, it was necessary to threaten contempt proceedings to keep the investigation from winding up in a confusion of missing papers.

Senator Homer T. Bone [Dem., Wash.] was the forecaster. He said the startling evidence forthcoming in hearings starting Tuesday would impel congress to pass laws giving the government control over all munitions, airplane, and other war materials plants including private shipyards.

Simultaneously, the committee announced its first witness would be Henry R. Carse, president of the Electric Boat company, which builds submarines for the American navy. L. F. Spear, vice president, and Sterling J. Joyner, a representative of the same company, will also be called.

While these are on the stand, it was intimated, correspondence may be introduced in an effort to show a connection between American munitions makers and Sir Basil Zaharoff, that almost legendary European often described as a "super salesman of arms."

Several letters from Zaharoff and his asociates addressed to American munitions manufacturers have been uncovered by the committee investigators.

L. L. Driggs, president of the Driggs Ordnance and Engineering company, has been subpenaed to appear Sept. 6, and A. J. Miranda Jr., president; F. M. Sweetser, secretary, and Maj. H. M. Brayton, technical director, of the American Armament corporation will testify Sept. 7.

To Investigate Du Ponts.

The second and third weeks of the hearings—after that the investigation will take a recess until fall—will be devoted to inquiry into the Du Pont companies, airplane, poison gas, and machine gun manufacturers.

"The committee has no preconceived opinions of what the evidence will develop, nor any beliefs as to what constructive results will ensue," the committee announcement said. Informal surveys, however, indicated a majority of the seven members favored government monopoly in munitions manufacture.

SEIZE COLLEGE THEFT SUSPECT ON GIRL'S STORY

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Information of a girl alleged to have been jilted, led to the arrest today of Ernest Eret, 26, sought by local police for five months in connection with the daylight burglary March 15, of 25 rooms in the Coe college women's dormitory from which $200 was stolen. Eret, jailed here today, after arrest in Waterloo, last night.

He is alleged to have left his sweetheart here soon after he is supposed to have robbed the Coe building. Police quoted the woman as saying Eret also committed similar thefts in college and university towns in Illinois, Indiana, Texas, Oklahoma, Georgia, California and Minnesota.

ROOSEVELT HAS WEEK-END OF JOY AND RELAXATION

Goes to Picnic; Roars at Baseball Game.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Secure in his Hudson valley surroundings, President Roosevelt devoted himself to a week-end of pleasure and recreation.

A picnic on the estate of Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau last night, a baseball game this afternoon, driving over to his mother's estate in a runabout and a Labor day picnic on his own farm for tomorrow were some of the week-end engagements.

The President drove to Staatsburg this afternoon and roared with laughter as the White House correspondents finally won a baseball game with Lowell Thomas' team from Pawlin, 26 to 25. He seemed filled with glee every time a scribe made a ridiculous blunder and wisecracked with his secret service operatives attending his car.

Tugwell Tries to Pitch.

His greatest pleasure, however, was derived from the antics of Rexford Guy Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture and head man of the New Deal's brain trust. Prof. Tugwell undertook to pitch for the correspondent's team and lasted about ten minutes, during which time the visitors brought in so many runs that the score keeper lost count. One of the lustier players of the "White Hopes," as they called themselves, went in and dragged Dr. Tugwell bodily from the field.

At 11 o'clock this morning the President and his mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, went to the ancient St. James Episcopal church where he was christened and of which he is senior warden.

Only Two Guests.

Besides Tugwell and Harry L. Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator, who are week-end house guests of the President, there were no official callers today and no conferences were scheduled for tomorrow.

The President remained at the Morgenthau party last night until 10 o'clock, joining the guests on the veranda of the house after a picnic meal of steamed clams and chicken. He joined in with the singing, undertaking a tenor part, and requested two more songs after it was decided to go home. These were "How Sweet Is the Ending" and "Good Night, Ladies."

ARMY TO STOP TRAINING FOR SCHOOL DOCTORS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Representative Ross A. Collins may have run a rather poor third in the Mississippi Democratic senatorial primary, but the war department today raised a white flag conceding a victory for him in a three year fight.

Collins is chairman of the house appropriations subcommittee that handles bills supplying money for the war department. For three years, he sought to specify that none of the money should be used for training or instruction of reserve medical officers.

The war department twice succeeded in blocking his attempt, but at the last session he succeeded. So today the army announced the training of reserve medical officers would cease when the last remaining classes of 684 students at twenty-two colleges, five dental schools and four agricultural colleges graduate in June, 1935.

The army, however, let it be known that as far as it was concerned the fight was not over. It will try to get the next congress to reverse Collins.

FUN UNSPOILED BY DROUTH AT NEBRASKA FAIR

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 2.—(AP)—It's state fair time in the corn belt and the drouth has failed to spoil the fun.

The Nebraska fair opened on schedule today with exhibition booths full of grain and fruit, with stalls crowded by mooing, stomping, grunting livestock, and with fluttery banners and colorful throngs making the grounds lively as in days gone by.

To the knowledge of Perry Reed, secretary of the fair board, not a major exhibition in the midwest has been called off because of drouth or other adverse conditions. If the backers don't expect a sell out, they want at least to maintain the tradition of the fair and keep an option on their dates. Some of the main expositions already held, Reed said, have done well.

"Maybe it's good fair weather after all," he said. "The farmers haven't much field work to do and would rather see a fair than kick their heels at home."

Oldest N. Jersey Fireman to Celebrate 105 Today

Lakewood, N. J., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Thomas J. Early, oldest New Jersey fireman and formerly a member of a volunteer company in New York City, will celebrate his 105th birthday tomorrow, although he secretly believes he is much older than that. "I wouldn't be a bit surprised," he said, "if I am about 123." He believes that never having been married might have had something to do with his long life. He likes alcohol in "moderate quantities" and is fond of wholesome food, plenty of fresh air and an ample amount of sleep.

Sixth Sleeping Sickness Case in Evansville, Ind.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Illness of Oscar H. Nussmeier, secretary-treasurer of the Nussmeier Engraving company here, has been diagnosed as sleeping sickness by his physician, bringing the number of cases here to six. The disease has claimed the lives of four here and two others in the tri-state section within the last few weeks. Dr. J. W. Jackson of the Indiana board of health, is expected here within the next few days to make an investigation, it is announced.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

Hardy Cow Peas.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

September 2, 1934.

Whip-poor-will cow peas have made an excellent showing in the test plots at THE TRIBUNE'S Experimental Farm this season. In fact cow peas have withstood the drouth better than any other crop grown on the farm this year.

Let Clarence Thurow tell about his experience in successfully growing Whip-poor-will cow peas on a half acre patch of ground in one of Illinois' driest years:

"We planted our Whip-poor-wills on May 16, drilling them with a corn planter in double rows 21 inches apart at the rate of about one bushel of peas to the acre. They began sending out runners the first of August. Today some of the vines are 4 feet long and will average at least 2 feet. All of the plants are still green and are growing at a rapid rate here on the second of September.

"Look at those pods! Did you ever see better pods in a dry year? Paul Sleezer and I have measured about twenty-five of them. They average about 6½ inches in length; some of the pods are 10 inches long. That's not all, some of these pods have sixteen peas in them and they will average twelve to the pod.

"I believe every pod of peas in this patch will mature before the first killing frost. And they are now ready to cut for hay. Our present plan is to let them ripen so that we can save the peas. They will be ready to cut for threshing in about two weeks. After the peas have been threshed we will save the vines and feed it to our live stock.

"We will have a nice bit of hay from this patch. That is a pretty thick blanket of roughage. These Whip-poor-wills completely covered the ground by the middle of July and new leaves have been developing ever since then. If we were to cut these peas for hay I believe they would yield at the rate of at least a ton and a half to the acre. Next year, if we have a good season, I expect to have cow peas that will yield at least two tons of hay to the acre. The pods are fairly thick but they would have been much thicker if a good percentage of the blossoms had not been killed by the intense heat between July 10 and July 30.

"I'm not kicking, because these cow peas have pulled through the drouth better than soy beans, alfalfa, rape, millet, corn or any other crop grown on the farm this season. I think these peas will thresh out about five or six bushels to the acre and in a normal year we should get around twelve bushels to the acre.

"Hundreds of farmers have seen these cow peas. Many of them are convinced that it is a crop that should be grown more extensively here in this part of Illinois. I haven't counted them, but I know at least twenty-five farmers who say they are going to grow cow peas next year."

G. O. P. LEADER SEES NEW DEAL LOSS AT POLLS

Business Is Worried, Senator Says.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Republican national organization set out tonight to capitalize conservative sentiments that are due for several stirrings this week.

SENATOR FELIX HEBERT.

Predicting New England disapproval of the New Deal at the polls, Senator Felix Hebert of Rhode Island said the G. O. P. "still believes in the order which respects the rights of property as well as the rights of the individual."

His statement, issued through the party's senatorial congressional campaign committee, spoke of business and industry being apprehensive because "no one knows what the future will bring forth."

Adds Fuel to Debate.

It heightened the right-left debate, started anew by formation of the American Liberty league and fueled last week by Democratic nomination of a former Socialist for governor of California, differences within the administration over budgetary policies, and the American Bar association flailing of the New Deal.

It increased the expectancy with which coming days were awaited to indicate whether there would be more division over Roosevelt enactments than as between the Democratic and Republican parties.

Four developments were looked to: Administration handling of the great textile strike, a fresh statement of the American Federation of Labor program at Wichita tomorrow, the Tuesday meeting between the President and Upton Sinclair, and a meeting of the Liberty league executive committee to be followed Friday with a broadcast by President Jouett Shouse.

Division Is Discussed.

Anti-administrationists were well aware that their party's future could be vitally affected by popular reactions to those events. It was obvious that such sentiment would be no respecter of customary political lines. This prompted more discussion of a liberal-conservative division.

As to the strike, the impression was that a showdown might have to wait until resources of the strikers are exhausted. Then the administration would face the decision whether to feed them with federal funds. Business interests already have objected to such action. Labor was counting on it, if the need arises.

Organized labor's sympathy with New Deal objectives which the Liberty league is expected to oppose accounted for the importance attached to President William Green's A. F. of L. speech. The only uncertainty was the length to which he would go in defining labor's exceptions to the industrialist viewpoint.

The bipartisan organizers of the Liberty league have contended that the New Deal endangers traditional American rights and liberties. This, rather than the anti-radical purposes of the league, explained why the Shouse speech was being awaited mainly to show whatever distance there is between the league and the administration.

ASK NRA TO FORBID UNFAIR COMPETITION OF U. S. IN BEDDING

In a letter to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, the Illinois Manufacturers' association protests against manufacture of 2,000,000 mattresses by the United States government in connection with relief work.

Signed by R. E. Wantz, president of the association, the letter made public yesterday points to the government project as "in direct and unfair competition with private industry.

"The latest governmental census recorded 2,225 mattress manufacturers in this country, 33 of whom were in Illinois. In 1933 those establishments employed 2,595 persons in Illinois and 52,785 throughout the entire United States.

"These manufacturers are operating under the code of the bedding manufacturing industry approved by the NRA, and it is submitted that they are entitled to protection by the NRA against unfair governmental competition.

"This action by the government operates to create unemployment which the Industrial Recovery act declares undermines the standard of living of the American people.

"The government has already put in operation a plan to manufacture 2,000,000 cotton mattresses in relief workshops to be set up in every station in the union.

"The type of mattress which the government is having made is a luxury, as few mattresses sold in regular commerce are of staple cotton. It costs three or four times as much as the cotton linters used in 95 per cent of mattresses regularly manufacturer."

GIRL WHO SHOT PARENTS TO GO TO RITES TODAY

Funeral services for James and Jennie Maietta, 1109 South Damen avenue, parents of Anna Maietta, 15 years old, who shot and killed them while attempting to defend her mother during a quarrel in their home Wednesday night, will be held at 9:30 a. m. today in San Callisto Roman Catholic church, 2189 De Kalb street.

Anna, who has been transferred to county jail hospital pending action by the grand jury on the coroner's verdict holding her for the murder of her father, was grief stricken yesterday in her cot in the hospital ward. Warden David Moneypenny granted her request to attend the funeral, and she will be allowed to go to the church and to Mount Carmel cemetery accompanied by a matron and a deputy sheriff.

Efforts will be made by Defense Attorney Samuel A. Rinella to have her trial held in the Juvenile court.

"Give me but the liberty of the press and I will give to the minister a venal house of peers. I will give him a corrupt and servile house of commons. I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him, to purchase up submission and overawe resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed. I will attack the mighty fabric of that mightier engine. I will shake down from its height corruption and bury it beneath the ruins of the abuses it was meant to shelter."
—Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

WHO'S GETTING THE BIG MONEY IN PWA?

Election day in Maine is only a few days ahead. Maine has already received more than $32,000,000 in assorted federal benefits, or about 35 per cent more per capita than any other New England state has been given. As election day approaches, of course, more will be forthcoming, but, as such things go, this is small change. To make Maine voters really receptive to Democratic campaign appeals Honest Harold Ickes, the PWA Santa Claus, went to Maine to take another look at Passamaquoddy bay.

For perhaps a hundred years engineers have been considering schemes to harness the tides in the bay. Mr. Ickes' own engineers were the last to look into the situation and therefore the last to reject the project as unsound. Mr. Ickes' own PWA board of review turned thumbs down only a few months ago. They could find no economic justification for spending 43 million dollars in creating more electricity where there is already a surplus. Nevertheless, with the election coming on, Mr. Ickes has returned from Maine with the announcement that his review board may have made a mistake. He is sending another set of experts to Eastport to look the situation over.

"As Maine goes, so goes the nation" is an old saying that is taking on new meaning. Under Honest Harold and his New Deal associates the use of public money to buy elections is being erected into a national system. Tens of millions go to favored regions or regions where favor is desired. Public works for which there is no need are authorized, to become a permanent charge upon the taxpayers and the national credit. Where Len Small played for townships and counties with his road funds Honest Harold is playing for states and geographical sections with his PWA billions.

To any readers who may harbor doubts about the matter a glance at the record as it has lately been revealed in a series of articles by Mr. Chesly Manly is recommended.

Honest Harold has approved the Rio Verde irrigation scheme in Arizona. Its eventual cost will be close to 19 million dollars, according to present estimates. Homer Hamlin, consulting engineer employed by the reclamation bureau, reported as long ago as 1919 that there was insufficient water in the Verde to justify the project in view of prior claims to the flow for existing irrigated lands. When the scheme was first presented to the present administration it was turned down again, as of course it should have been, but before long it was reconsidered. Great pressure on behalf of the project was exerted by two Democrats in congress, Senator Ashurst and Congresswoman Isabella Greenway. It is no secret that the building of the Verde dam is expected to make fat profits for speculators in desert land who hope to sell their holdings to eastern suckers. The settlers will never suspect, until too late, that despite the expenditure of nearly 20 million dollars by the government they will have no water.

Many weeks ago THE TRIBUNE invited Mr. Ickes to justify the Verde appropriation, but he has not accepted the offer. At the same time he was invited to justify his appropriation for the Loup river power scheme at Columbus, Neb., of which Mr. Arthur Mullen, formerly Democratic committeeman from Nebraska and Honest Harold's political sponsor, was attorney. On this matter, too, Mr. Ickes has preserved a dignified silence. The Loup river dam is intended to provide electric current in an area which already has an electric generating capacity far larger than its consumption of electricity warants. A companion piece to the Loup scheme is another Nebraska project for which Mr. Ickes has appropriated the modest sum of $7,500,000. This is the Platte irrigation and power development. Here it is proposed to develop 85,000,000 kilowatt hours to be distributed in an area which in 1932 was able to consume only 25,000,000.

Wyoming also has voters who elect two senators and a congressman and Mr. Ickes has presented them with the Casper-Alcova project, to cost more than $27,000,000. Suffice it to say that the government's engineers estimate that the settlers on the mile-high lands to be irrigated will be able to pay no more than 42 a year per acre to the government to meet its costs of $244 an acre for irrigation facilities. At this rate 175 years will have gone by before the treasury gets its money back, without interest. A few more years should be added to take care of the period of construction and settlement.

No sane mind could approve these projects on their merits. There is only one explanation of all this squandering which makes sense and that explanation is politics and special benefit to insiders. Politics also explains the waste of 300 million dollars in the Tennessee valley and of 21 million at Bonneville and 63 million at the Grand Coulee in the northwest. There is no market in any of these areas to absorb the power to be generated. There is no population available to consume it and there never is likely to be.

It is all jobbery of the Tammany variety, but with two important differences: Tammany never dreamed of expenditures on so ruinous a scale and never dared to undertake public works so futile and useless. Honest Harold, for all his sanctimoniousness, is engaged in a gigantic effort to debauch the voters of a nation and benefit a few wire pullers.

IN PLACE OF ARGUMENT.

As the political campaign and what is even more significant, the nonpartisan opposition to the New Deal revolution grows swiftly in weight and extent, the Brain Trusters' ammunition of theory and argument seems to have run low if not out. In lieu of argument the disposition of the Brain Trusters shown from the first to ascribe evil motives to every critic of the New Deal is intensified. Personal detraction and abuse are the usual resort of the controversialist who has a weak case.

The Brain Trusters' most prominent characteristic is self-righteousness and we don't doubt they are sincere in their belief that they monopolize all the virtues. It follows logically from this assumption that any one who cannot approve their proposals is not only mistaken but actuated by evil motives. Individuals, newspapers, and organizations which have had the courage to exercise their right to discuss public affairs and object to measures and doctrines cherished by the formidable cabal now in power at Washington are answered not by argument but by unfounded accusations of self-seeking, insincerity, and callous disregard of human need and public welfare. This, for example, is the reception given the American Liberty league, although its founders are citizens of the highest repute. But this is only the latest manifestation of the New Dealers' spirit in public controversy.

Free and full debate is an essential of the processes of free government, but a régime which assumes its ability to think and act for the ordinary individual in virtually all his activities naturally resents dissent and would like to bully it into silence. That is a New Deal for the American people, but we doubt that it has their approval.

MARRIAGE IN HOLLYWOOD.

Adolphe Menjou, one of the popular favorites of the screen, has just taken his third bride. He is but one of the stars of the film who are writing a new chapter in the history of the marriage institution. Gloria Swanson has had four husbands up to the present writing, Jean Harlow three, John Gilbert four wives, "Hoot" Gibson three, Constance Bennett three husbands, Mae Murray four, and we cannot pretend to give the statistics of multiple marriage as practiced in film stardom. Nat Goodwin of the stage was celebrated for his repeated trials of wedlock, but Hollywood has dimmed the celebrity he won in this field before the coming of the movies.

The Hollywood marital records recall the patriarchs and the sultans of the Asiatic world. Hollywood seems in fact to have established a sort of progressive polygamy and polyandry. At any rate it is making use of the institutions of marriage and divorce with a freedom and ingenuity all its own. The phrases of the marriage ceremony, if they are adopted in that world, especially "until death do us part," must have a rich irony for all concerned.

Perhaps there should be praise for a custom which at least makes a formal bow to the conventions, but it is becoming a very thin disguise for something that looks very like promiscuity. Nat Goodwin, when chided for his adventures, replied: "Well, I marry them," and doubtless his point of view would be appreciated and approved in Hollywood.

Editorial of the Day

THE FUTURE OF THE G. O. P.

[San Francisco Chronicle.]

Unless we are to follow the rest of the world into communist or Fascist dictatorship, the progressive Republican party must offer America something more constructive than merely to go back to the old ways, either of government or of business. Those of us who were the beneficiaries of that system may wish we could have it back. But we are far outnumbered by the victims of its wreckage. Unless we can offer to these disinherited and dispossessed of our past a new America, in which they can have their part, they will join the anti-Americans to destroy what they are forbidden to share. Conservatism may dream of the world in which it prospered, but it can not have it, unchanged. That world is dead. Those who most profited in it must reconcile themselves to give up some things they would like to keep, lest they lose all.

Republicans, then, must be prepared to go boldly forward toward a new America in which men and industry and government are still free, but in which the condition of that freedom is not the exploitation of the weaker or the less fortunate; in which there shall be, not only prosperity, but the wider distribution of it; in which government shall not merely leave each of us unmolested to solve his separate problems, but shall also be the efficient medium through which we can solve our joint problems together.

Liberty will not survive if its price is poverty. And liberty must survive, even if its price is the yielding, by the fortunate, of some things they would rather retain.

It is a crisis in the history of mankind, in which human rights have already vanished from most of the earth. It is now the high mission of America, as it was at its foundation, again to hold one oasis of freedom intact in a world overspread with despotism and oppression, that from this center free institutions may spread again, to rejuvenate humanity, when the dictatorships have destroyed themselves.

To its determinative part in that mission the Republican party must now dedicate itself by remaining confidently and aggressively Republican. For if it fails there is none other to take its place. Unless we are to follow the will o' the wisp into the morass, we must resume the firm highway of ordered liberty on which the Republican party is now the only operable vehicle.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Here to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

EVERYBODY is commenting in awe-struck tones and wondering and wondering. I did a lot of wondering myself. All the way back from Massachusetts the roads were jammed with tourists, lots of them in bright, shiny new cars, and all paying for gasoline with smiles even when the signs at the filling station said, "Gasoline, 17 cents; state tax, 3 cents; government tax, 1 cent." Yes, the tourist boarding houses and the stores all the way back were crowded with people throwing money around as though they were tossing crumbs to the dear little birdies. I didn't see any extra coin coming my way; the stock market was still somewhat feeble and sulky; the shares of Glass Bathing Mits, preferred, that I bought back in 1929 are still so low that no oil drill could possibly get down deep enough to touch 'em. So why all the money gushing like water from a street sprinkler? Why? I determined to turn myself into an Inquiring Reporter and ask the next five persons I had an opportunity of talking with. The replies were as follows:

"(1) Search me, I hain't got any of it."

"(2) I'm going to spend it while I've still got it to spend."

"(3) None of yer dam business."

"(4) Oh, heck, who cares! Whoopee, zowie, ride 'em, cowboy."

"(5) Go to hell."

But with all this information given so freely and frankly I can't quite figure it all out yet. So what!

A PRAYER FOR POETS.

Why will they write these songs that wring the heart?
God knows the heart has sadness of its own!
Poets should sing of merry things. Tears start
So easily. Poets should let alone
Anguish and terror, weariness and care.
Hearts have their own remorse—their own despair.

Poets should lie, and tell us life is gay.
Poets should sing of dreams that all come true.
Poets should paint their skies rose over gray.
Why must they tear our hearts the way they do!
They should be kind, and ease us of our pain.
God grant they do not sing of woe again!

MARJORIE F. W.

NEW ORLEANS has been captured by Gen. Hooey Long and his Louisiana militia. Anyhow, there's a chance now that New Orleans will finally feel kindlier towards the gentleman they still refer to as Beast Butler, who held the city in the early days of the late lamented War Between the States.

THE RAIN AND THE WIND may have done it. Anyhow, we saw a sign along the highway in Ohio where several placards had been posted, which read like this:

Road Closed.
NRA
Now Under Construction.
TRAVEL AT YOUR OWN RISK.

"DUTCH QUEEN Fifty-four Years Old."—Headline. And that, girls, should quiet your yearnings to be a queen. The trouble with being a queen is that everybody would know offhand how old you were.

LACK.

You, Echo, can never see
That pliant grace and curls of gold
Are too trite to keep their hold
Over me.

I might love you for a while,
Love your glance of iris blue,
Love the suppleness of you,
Love your smile.

Soon my heart would tire, Echo.
Though you lay in my embrace
I should long for horn and chase.
I should go.

MARY OWINGS MILLER.

"CORPSE in Cold Storage" is the enticing title of a new detective story. The titles of the latest books seem to get more and more enticing. This one ought to be just the thing for a lazy, restful afternoon in the hammock on the front porch. And what a good book to enjoy when eating crackers in bed! The story is just as gay and cheerful as the title. It's all about a man who was murdered and his body found in an ice cream wagon. Of all places! How nice if the author would give a reading of his book at the county morgue and somebody could serve tea and biscuit and jam. How perfectly lovely! But probably there's another new book coming that will have a more delightful title even than this one. Authors are getting corpsier and corpsier.

AND NOW, FOLKS—

Stand by, please, for a station announcement.
Having done with gathering seaweed and kelp,
And having returned, why the first thing of all,
We'll give three cheers for Harvey, Help! Help!
Who ran this here colyum while we were away,
And did a fine job with such grace and knack,
That we were mighty afraid for awhile,
We never would get the doggoned thing back.
So now we'll return to the studio, please,
But before saying what toothpaste you really should buy,
We want to thank Harvey once more and again,

RINGWORM OR ATHLETE'S FOOT.

RINGWORM is one of the most widespread skin diseases. It occurs with great frequency on the hands and feet, and in the latter situation is sometimes referred to as athlete's foot. There has been a marked increase of the infection in this country in recent years. Some authorities state that more than 50 per cent of our adult population is affected. A recent survey of groups of University of Pennsylvania students showed that of 500 men taking gymnasium work 60 per cent were clinically positive for ringworm; of women students in the swimming classes 48 per cent were clinically positive. The highest incidence occurred in freshmen; the lowest in seniors.

Ringworm is caused by a colorless, threadlike plant. It is somewhat similar to the ordinary molds that may be observed growing on moist bread or on improperly canned fruit. The fungus is parasitic, grows rapidly, is resistant to heat and to many antiseptic solutions and powders, and lives on the skin or in the outer layers of the skin.

When people walk in their bare feet there is a possible contact with ringworm spores from infected floors, particularly at public beaches, around open and enclosed swimming pools and country club locker rooms, and in gymnasiums and other common centers where barefoot travel is in vogue.

The disease usually manifests itself between the toes, and is characterized by marked softening and peeling of the skin in this area. The infection may be so slight that the patient is really unaware of its existence, assuming that the itching is the effect of normal perspiration. In more advanced cases there is considerable swelling and the toes may look inflamed and be covered with tiny blisters. Intense itching is nearly always present. The eruption occurs on the sole, on the side of the foot, or along the instep. In these locations the watery blisters appear usually in groups; later, the blisters rupture and the area dries with peeling and some discoloration of the skin.

On the hands ringworm lesions are less frequent. When infection occurs small blisters usually appear along the sides of the fingers and on the palms. Whenever the parasite appears on the hands an examination will generally show eruptions on the feet. Toenails and finger nails are not immune, and may be invaded gradually with loss of normal color and the development of ridges and thickening.

Scores of drugs have been advocated for the treatment of ringworm. The plan of management which is most successful in one case may fail utterly in another. If the parts are red and inflamed it is usually best at the outset to use boric acid dressings. Magnesium sulphate and potassium permanganate are also recommended. As soon as the inflammation subsides an attack must be made upon the parasite itself in order to destroy its power of propagation. Substances that will destroy the fungus are tincture of iodine, resorcin, aniline dyes, etc. X-ray and ultraviolet light have been used with success in some cases.

Prevention consists in protecting the feet against infected areas such as gymnasium locker rooms, shower baths, etc. In fact, walking in bare feet should be avoided. After the skin lesions have disappeared special care must be devoted to the toenails and finger nails, as the parasite may be harbored under the slightly projecting nail and constitute a source of reinfection. The stubborn character of the disease and its frequency warrant persistent and continuous treatment.

HEART FATIGUE.

A. P. writes: I have organic heart disease. I find that after working a few hours I become very tired and must rest. After resting and lunch I can resume work. I do light work and no lifting to speak of. Am I in danger of not getting enough exercise and breaking down the heart? It seems to me I don't get enough exercise.

REPLY.

Your heart muscle fatigues easily. This condition is frequently helped by small doses of digitalis that may be prescribed by your physician.

Rest and relief from strain are best for heart muscle that has been damaged. The heart exercises itself.

PAIN IN KIDNEY.

M. S. S. writes: A few weeks ago I was aroused at night by an agonizing pain in my right side just in front of the hip bone. I saw a doctor after this had happened four or five times, and he told me I had a floating kidney. He advised wearing a corset, as he did not advise operation at my age. I am 67.

REPLY.

I would not advise operation. A very snug binder, fitted while you are lying down, will help. The pain may be due to other causes than floating kidney, for example, stone passing along the tube [ureter] that leads from the kidney to the bladder. If the pain continues investigate further.

HAMMER-TOE.

F. writes: 1. I have been told that a minor operation involving the tendon is necessary to relieve hammer-toe. Is this the only means of getting relief?

2. How much inconvenience does the operation cause?

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. After a few days you should be able to walk.

DEEDING PROPERTY.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a husband deeds the home to his wife and several years later [1] she deeds it back to him under a joint tenancy which is not recorded, [2] could she destroy this tenancy and deed the home to one of the family by using the old deed? 3. What action could be taken in a case of this kind? M. F.

1. We do not see how she could deed it to him in joint tenancy. Under a joint tenancy deed there must be two grantees and she could not deed her one-half to herself so that the transaction would mean anything.

2. If the deed was never delivered it is ineffective and she could destroy it. If it has been delivered, then, technically, one-half has passed to the husband as tenant in common.

3. Submit your facts to an attorney in a personal interview.

LEASE RENEWAL.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—Legal Friend of the People.]—We signed a lease with our present landlord five years ago. Since then several changes in the rental have occurred, but he has never given us a lease naming the new rental. I have been informed that any change in rent [if a new lease has not been signed] would automatically cancel the previous lease. What is the law on this? Is it true that a lease automatically renews itself for a period of seven years? B. A. R.

It was held in Miller vs. Ridgely, 19 Ill. App. 306, that "if the tenant under a lease for a year . . . holds over without a new agreement except as to the amount of rent, which is higher, and pays the rent, the tenant's liability will continue under the terms of the original lease so far as applicable." TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—Negotiations have just commenced between the London county council and the police and air authorities regarding the immediate adoption of precautionary or preventive measures in relation to air raids by a hypothetical enemy power during a sudden outbreak of war.

The "sudden attack" theory, which is not new, having been driven home by the revelations of the French general staff during Gen. Maxime Weygand's visit, is now in the forefront. The present negotiations are based on that theory, the validity of which, it is said in military circles here, has been enhanced by the ease with which the "raiders" during the recent air exercises broke through London's defenses.

The London county council, of which the Socialist Herbert Morrison is chairman, proposes to dig under London's hundreds of squares and parks permanent shelters. Each, with its floor 80 feet below street level, and its ceiling 20 feet high, will accommodate 5,000 to 8,000 people. Entrance will be by gentle slopes, rather than steps, to minimize the danger of trampling, which might be greater than the toll of enemy bombs.

The shelters will be tiled and supplied with electric light and sanitary conveniences. Since their depth is below the Thames, arrangements will be made to pump out refuse. Air tight doors will shut out gas. There will be first aid stations, water reservoirs, food lockers, and even secret chambers for storing anti-aircraft guns. The shelters will be linked by underground passages with subway stations in order to get masses of people out of the heart of the city. The shelters will be under control of an entirely new force of air police.

Morrison attaches certain conditions to the county council's coöperation. One is that in normal times the shelters shall be available for political meetings when the weather above is too inclement. Another is that in normal times the shelters be used to house the increasing hordes of London's homeless. Morrison expects that the shelters will be started this winter to relieve unemployment and that money will be spent in accordance with his political program.

The underground shelter idea recalls that many commissioners have recommended the use of London squares for underground parking of cars. This has been fought by real estate agents, who argue the remaining aristocracy and the new rich who inhabit the squares will depart en masse if their slumbers are disturbed by an eternal hooting of cars.

Now that the police have joined with air authorities, they are trying to find out if they can solve the traffic congestion problem and the air raid menace at the same time. The principal objection is again the "sudden attack" theory and the coincidental problem of removing hundreds of cars in time to permit the entrance of people. Then there is the danger of fire from gasoline.

UNCLE SAM AS MORTGAGE BANKER.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Is it possible that the Santa Claus of the small property owner, the Home Owners' Loan corporation, is turning Shylock?

The man in the street needed the HOLC as it was originally outlined. He was broke, out of a job, and in imminent danger of losing his home, his last stake. Largely, he is still broke and out of work. Maybe he is eating a little more regularly, but there is no surplus. Why, then, does the HOLC tell him that, inasmuch as he is out of work, he must get one or more co-signers who are working on his HOLC paper before a loan can be granted, all in the best style of our too familiar banking and loan corporations organized for private profit? In good times co-signers for small loans were hard to get. Is it sensible to expect that now a man can get a co-signer who is working to stand back of a loan reaching into the thousands of dollars? Can one out of a hundred men get such a co-signer today? Especially when the only security the property owner, unemployed, can offer the co-signer is his personal word? Hardly.

Why can't the man owning a building consisting of two flats and a store and who lives in one of the flats and rents out the store get a loan from the HOLC? He can't, it happens, because a recent ruling says that this is "commercial property" and not eligible. If the store were another flat, that is satisfactory; or, if the owner of the building happens to operate the store himself, that, too, is satisfactory. But if he is a hard working property owner, with his entire savings tied up in that building and has lived there for years, paid taxes and raised a decent American family, he is ineligible for a HOLC loan because of the "commercial" aspect. That is the hairline distinction the HOLC has recently made which, it is estimated, affects some 25,000 property owners in the Chicago area alone. And there is no recourse, no alternative. The security and permanence of these 25,000 homes stand in jeopardy by this ruling.

Then, too, there is the case of the small property owner who does not live in his property but rents elsewhere for economic reasons. His all is in this property just as surely as is that of the resident property owner. But he is ineligible for a HOLC loan.

These questions are of vital importance to the small property owner. There are others which he might well ask pertaining to the HOLC, questions directly relative to the operation of this corporation. He might ask why the HOLC provides the applicant with a list of contractors who may bid on the necessary repairs and who orders that two or three of these contractors be checked when the list is given out and directly called to the applicant's attention. He might ask who is favored with the immense volume of insurance business attendant to HOLC loans and who gets the usual discount on such premiums. He might ask what the amount listed as "loan expense" is for and who gets that money and how the closing attorneys are selected. He might ask if there is any attempt to secure a reduction on taxes supposedly paid out of such loans and who gets this reduction, if any; also who will get the reduction, if any, on the 1933 taxes, for which an amount approximating the 1932 tax bill is set aside by the HOLC.

But he won't ask these or other similar questions. He'll feel so lucky if he gets the loan that he will be willing to waive these minor matters. But even in them some one should be interested.

WHAT A SKIRRET IS.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—In today's TRIBUNE your correspondent, Rosalind Shaffer, describing the research being expended on the culinary side of the picture "David Copperfield," says: "No one seems to know what a skirret is."

By going to the tremendous trouble of opening a Century encyclopedia and turning to skirret I find:

"A species of water parsnip, Sium Sisarum, generally said to be of Chinese origin, long cultivated in Europe for its esculent root. . . . It somewhat resembles parsnip in flavor, and is eaten boiled, served with butter, or half boiled and then fried. Skirret, however, has now nearly fallen into disuse."

This is an example of the painstaking research that makes all Hollywood movies so accurate. C. W. B.

FOR A CITY SERIES.

Chicago, Aug. 28.—It does not seem possible to me that the members of the Cub team would refuse to play ball for two or three thousand dollars. Therefore the reason the city series has been called off is that the Cub front office is not so keen about being humiliated by a supposedly weaker Sox team.

We want a city series.

A SOX FAN.

THE ACCOLADE.

Wilmette, Ill., Aug. 28.—I notice that Malcolm McNair in the Bulletin of the Harvard Business School Alumni association predicts that a wiser posterity will erect monuments to the chiselers. Roosevelt himself has already done that when he classified them with such men as Alfred Smith, John W. Davis, Mr. du Pont, Nathan Miller, and James Wadsworth.

Holiday Gives Society a Final Vacation Fling

Groups at Country Clubs to Enjoy Sports.

BY JUDITH CASS.

LABOR DAY will belie its name today with almost every one anticipating a final vacation fling at fashionable resorts and country clubs in and about the city or a short motor trip to some tiny inland lake or out of the way place near Chicago.

The country club celebrations will be minus Fourth of July fireworks, but there will be tennis and golf events for amusement during the day as well as swimming, and luncheon, and dinner parties.

The Onwentsia club has planned a series of tennis matches beginning at 3 o'clock this afternoon with Charles S. Garland, Preston Boyden, William J. Croker, the Onwentsia professional, and Karel Kozeluh, the Knollwood professional, giving an exhibition match. During the day the finals of the women's and men's club championship matches will be played. The winners of the fathers' and sons' tennis matches played there a week ago yesterday were Joseph C. Belden and his son, Joseph Jr. Of course there will be golfing all day, and probably a good many members will dine at the club after the day's sport.

Dinner Dances Held at Several Clubs.

The Exmoor, Barrington Hills, Chicago Golf, Indian Hill, and Knollwood clubs had their holiday parties Saturday night in the form of dinner dances.

The finals of the North Shore league men's tennis tournament will be played today at the Skokie club. The course at the Chicago Golf will be reserved for men players only, but at the other prominent clubs in and around Chicago, there will be only the usual week-end activities. The Saddle and Cycle club will prove a mecca for city-bound Labor day vacationists, and the Shoreacres, Glenview, Barrington Hills, and Bob o' Link clubs will draw their crowds. The Exmoor Country club has planned a buffet luncheon and an afternoon of bridge for its women members.

The principal event of this Labor day at Lake Geneva will be the annual regatta for the Charles H. Wacker trophy. All of the finest boats will be on the lake in the competition. The trophy was a gift made by Mr. Wacker's son, Frederick G. Wacker, in memory of his late father, who was one of Lake Geneva's pioneer summer residents.

Racing Fans to See Lincoln Fields Opening.

The opening of the Lincoln Fields racing season today, with the first race scheduled for 2 o'clock, will draw a large crowd of racing fans to the track for the holiday. Among the socially prominent who will be there are the Stuyvesant Peabodys and a few of their friends. Mr. and Mrs. Peabody usually give a large luncheon on the opening day, but since Mrs. Peabody returned only Saturday from a visit in the east and since most of their friends already had made engagements for Labor day, their party today will be a small one.

Among those who have gone away for the Labor day week-end are the George A. Richardsons, who are at the Laurentian club in Canada. They are extending their vacation until the end of the month, however. Miss Nancy Morse, Mrs. Richardson's daughter, who is to be married to Rodman Lent Hooker of California in November, is still in California visiting Mr. Hooker and his father. Her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Morse [Margaret McLennan], who were married in July, arrived at home yesterday.

Stanley Keith Family Scattered for Holiday.

The Stanley Keith family is quite scattered for the holiday. Miss Keith is in Desbarats; Mr. Keith at home; Miss Patsy Keith is in Charlevoix with Robert Macdonald and his parents, and Miss Betty Keith is leaving today for Long Island where she will visit Mrs. Paul E. Gardner's daughter, Miss Hope Bacon, who is remembered here as a most attractive young lady who spent a good deal of time at Arlington during her visit with the Keiths.

Miss Barbara Bastien and Frank H. Armstrong II. also are guests of the Macdonalds. Mr. Armstrong's sister, Miss Jean Armstrong, is at Desbarats with Dr. and Mrs. Frank W. Blatchford and their son, Dr. Frank Blatchford Jr., and daughter, Mrs. Ludlow Fowler of New York, and perhaps two or three other guests. Mr. and Mrs. Horace White Armstrong are away on a restful little trip, destination undisclosed, and their younger daughter, Miss Mary Armstrong, is in Toledo. She will go to Sarah Lawrence on the 19th of this month, and later in the fall her parents and sister may take an apartment in town for the winter.

Sydney P. Wauds Finishing Wedding Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Sydney P. Waud [Isabel Morrell] left Friday for the second half of their wedding trip. They were married in Morristown, N. J., last June and settled here on Division street after a brief wedding trip. Now they are motoring up to Canada and down the Atlantic coast to Morristown, where they will stay with Mrs. Waud's parents, the Clarence P. Morrells. They will not return to Chicago before Oct. 1.

Mr. Waud's brother, Morrison Waud, is at Charlevoix, Mich., today with his fiancée, Miss Anne Smith, and her parents, the Harold C. Smiths. The junior William Collinses are there also. Mr. Waud and Miss Smith will return to Chicago tomorrow or the next day and the rest of the Smith family will be at home by the end of the week.

A REQUEST was received recently by one of Chicago's oldest mail order houses from one of its stores asking to return a shipment of alarm clocks to the warehouse stock, with the following postscript:

Unnecessary—Expert—Epitaphs—Town Talk.

"As everybody is striking here in Hammond, we don't need alarm clocks."

FIVE year old Lois had accompanied her mother during her first driving lesson, and she was enthusiastically reciting all the triumphs, according to Eva Lynn. She ended with, "And then mother killed the engine before Uncle Paul had even shown her how to do it."

IF you think we have a morbid preoccupation with cemeteries and epitaphs, which we wouldn't deny for a minute, there apparently are others who like them, too, judging from the mail. We offer today L. Elizabeth Gulick's contribution, from an old colonial burying ground at Leominster, Mass. Three ancient slabs dimly show the following inscriptions:

"Here lies the body of Mr. Mark Lincoln,
Who died in his 66th year.
Reader, thou shalt be like one of us.
Study the lesson of death."

"Here lies the body of Mrs. Mary Lincoln,
The first comfort of Mr. Mark Lincoln,
Who died the 29th of Sept., 1777,
In the 40th year of her life."

"Here lies the body of Mrs. Elisabeth Lincoln,
Who died Aug., 1790, second comfort of
Mr. Mark Lincoln, the former comfort of
Maj. Millard More, who was slain at the Battle of Bunker Hill, age 59."

The other day a man hurriedly approached a guard at the Art Institute and inquired, "When does the next boat sail?" . . . The newest bracelet to make its appearance is a shaped band, about four inches wide, designed by Mrs. George W. M. E. Young Folk Go Socialist in Straw Vote

Hold Teachings of Christ Oppose Capitalism.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Attitudes toward religious and social questions in a representative section of American youth which has been trained and has reached early stages of maturity since the world war were revealed possibly for the first time yesterday. A majority of this group will cast first votes this fall.

Tests of those attitudes were made through the application of a "personnel chart" among 800 young people attending the Methodist Youth council, which closed three days' sessions at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Evanston, last night. The chart was prepared by graduate departments in Northwestern university and the University of Chicago.

Socialism was held by more than 80 per cent of the youths as being the "economic system most compatible with the teachings of Jesus," while only slightly more than 3 per cent believe that capitalism is consistent with the teachings of Christianity's founder. A larger percentage declared themselves for communism than for capitalism. A majority condemned Fascism.

The youths turned their backs on prohibition as a means of liquor control. Forty per cent believed that the problem of alcohol should be "left to individual discrimination" while 20 per cent held that "it should be conducted as a function of government eliminating private manufacture and profit."

There was no evidence of atheism displayed in the tests. However, traditional or fundamentalist ideas of God were expressed by only a very small percentage of the youths. The tests revealed that the God of modern Protestant youths is not a performer of miracles in the traditional sense of the term. The God professed by the assembled young people was predominantly "the creator and spiritual father of all mankind, eternally creating." Furthermore, the bodily resurrection of Christ and His virgin birth were disclosed as being unnecessary to the youths' belief.

The question of Christ as "the pre-existent second person of the Trinity, who took upon Himself human form, was miraculously born and after crucifixion, rose from the dead, leaving the tomb empty," was answered affirmatively only by 8 per cent of the young people. Nine per cent said Christ was human and limited in powers, but "significant because of the life He lived."

All the youths avowed belief in immortality, but only 9 per cent believed the Bible to be the "one true word of God literally inspired and infallible." A preponderant percentage of youths held that science and religion are not in conflict. They also believe that the church is not a divine institution, but a human fellowship.

DENOUNCE RED TEACHINGS

Chicago members of Gamma Kappa Delta, social organization of the young people of the Episcopal church, met yesterday at Lake Geneva, Wis., and adopted two resolutions opposing communism in America.

The first resolution stated that the fraternity favored the observance of all laws and pledged the membership to "report disturbances in public places caused by irrational speeches and un-American conduct." The second attacked directly communist teachings by "dissatisfied and disgruntled persons."

Opening of all meetings of the association by the singing of the national anthem and the recitation of the loyalty pledge to the United States, the flag, and the constitution was approved in the resolutions.

Ensemble for Street

Green Moves Into Spotlight of Fall Styles

Gorgeous Color Used for Many Costumes.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

We're still enthusiastically sold on green! That gorgeous color has at last, it seems, come into the fashion spotlight and made good.

You should see all the stunning new green costumes—slim green one-piece wool street dresses made with long sleeves, a straight skirt, and trimmed with a pair of glittering rhinestone clips fastened to the folds of matching taffeta bands and bows that trim the top. Or the more tailored numbers made with wide cuffs, high necklines, a plentiful supply of covered buttons and a swanky swathed high neckline, practically all line, but what a line! All these revealing silhouettes will make you rush for the diet line.

Emerald green velveteen fashions some delectable two piece street models that look exactly like a tailored suit. The newest arrivals have inverted plaits in the back sector of the blouse, wide belts and new full, very flattering, wide turnover collars. And how they fit! They cling as tightly as an evening gown of satin to the body.

Proper foundation garments, incidentally, are the most important first buys for fall. Smoothness, without a hint of a bulge or wrinkle, should be achieved at any cost.

Green wool suits are quite the best looking "greens" to be found, especially when you buy the dress and longish coat duets. Some dresses have a green satin top, with the straight skirt made of the wool of the coat. Then the coat is trimmed with cuffs of nutria with a tuxedo collar to match.

The suit greens are dark and vastly becoming to practically every one. So are the long, fur trimmed winter coats. But for real glamor see the fitted almond green shade, the color that goes with a corsage of violets and gardenias better than any other color, the coat that is trimmed with a swirling collar of rich brown fur matched to a new rippled muff and you'll see at once why the wave of green is so strong.

Fashion photograph . . . The smartest of two piece street ensembles fashioned of emerald green, tailored with patch pockets and the new deep rollover collar. The tie is of tri-toned, loosely woven green wool. Off the face brimmed hat of brown to match the other costume accessories.

The combined Irish Alliance of Cook County will hold a reunion Saturday evening at the Normal Park stadium, 61st street and Normal avenue. Features of the evening will be a baby show and a beauty contest. Col. E. T. Buckley is chairman of speakers.

Women's Club Leaders of 10th District to Meet

Chairmen of departments and committees of the Tenth district of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs will meet at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday at the federation headquarters at 30 West Washington street. Mrs. J. F. Turner, vice president of the district, will preside.

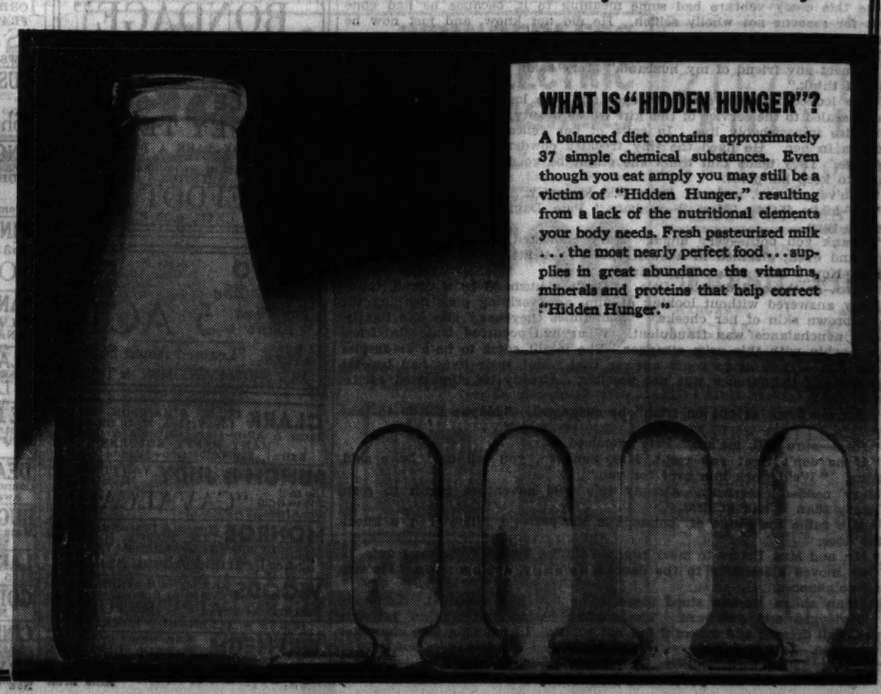
Men's Garden Club Holds Fall Show Next Week-End

The Men's Garden club of the Chicago region will hold its annual fall flower show next Saturday, Sunday, and Monday at the Horticultural building at A Century of Progress. The club has invited all amateur flower growers to enter the show this year and compete for prizes.

DON'T LET "HIDDEN HUNGER" ROB YOU OF YOUTHFUL VITALITY

Science Urges Everyone to Drink Milk

"It's hard to believe," you say... and yet thousands, even though they eat three square meals daily, are letting "Hidden Hunger" rob them of the firm, youthful body, clear skin, lustrous hair and teeth that identifies YOUTH. It isn't how much you eat, but what you eat that counts. Science has placed fresh pasteurized milk squarely at the top as the food that guards against "Hidden Hunger." Start today to DRINK MILK and hold on to youthful vitality.



WHAT IS "HIDDEN HUNGER"?

A balanced diet contains approximately 37 simple chemical substances. Even though you eat amply you may still be a victim of "Hidden Hunger," resulting from a lack of the nutritional elements your body needs. Fresh pasteurized milk . . . the most nearly perfect food . . . supplies in great abundance the vitamins, minerals and proteins that help correct "Hidden Hunger."

START TODAY TO DRINK MILK AT EVERY MEAL

Try this: Cut down on the heavy foods and build your meals around a quart of milk a day . . . a glassful at each meal and one before bedtime. You'll notice the difference in the way you feel almost instantly. Why not try it NOW?

BLAZING GUNS

By WILLIAM MacLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Landis inherited the Lazy B ranch from her uncle. It adjoins the Circle 3 T ranch, owned by Chet Radbourne, powerful boss in the county, who is Mary's legal guardian. He has been stealing Mary's cattle and trying to force her to marry him. To escape his tyranny Mary marries Cole Sanborn, fearless young outlaw and suspected train robber, within an hour after meeting him. There is bitter enmity between Cole and the Circle 3 T brand. The marriage is one in name only, giving them both better advantage to fight their common enemy. Jerry Haskell, Radbourne's foreman, brought Mary to the Jonesboro house, where she met Cole. Haskell had given Cole an hour to get out of town. Cole plans to find a home for Mary in the town while he goes to her ranch as foreman, expecting plenty of trouble to break. Mary writes a note to Mrs. Peters, whose husband is a leading citizen of the town.

INSTALMENT VII.

CAN'T A HUSBAND BE A FRIEND?

"When I hit the grit on my way out of town, I'll likely be in a hurry," Cole said, ignoring Mary's sarcastic thrust. "If I give a yell, come out onto the porch a-running. I won't call for you unless it looks safe. We won't fool with the love and kisses if guns are popping?"

"Shall I hear from you about how you are getting along? I'll want to know, now that we are business partners in a way."

"You'll hear," he told her grimly. "Plenty. Especially if Chet bumps me off. Don't forget that no news is good news. And don't worry."

"Yes," she murmured with mock humility. But she could not keep back an ironic fling. "Every day will be a year till I see you again, my lord."

A sudden boyish grin warmed his harsh face. "I reckon you're sore as a toad on a skillet now you've got yore way. You want me hard enough to whop Chet and his Circle 3 T outfit of gunmen, and soft enough to say 'Thank you kindly, ma'am,' for the chance. Now ain't that a woman for you?"

"You wouldn't expect a woman to know enough to think straight, would you?" Mary asked, eyes flashing.

The laughter died out of his face. "Girl, we're in a tight spot. Till we get out of it I'm boss. It's a job that has been wished on me, but I aim to handle it. You'll do like I tell you. Understand?"

She met the cold hard light in his eyes and read there the rigor of a spirit virile and inflexible. Whatever else he might be he was a dynamic personality. A pulse of excitement beat in her throat, stirred less by fear than expectancy. A queer exultant dread fluttered in her bosom. Her gaze shifted.

"I understand," she said in a low voice.

He swung from her toward the door, wary, motionless, brown hands resting on hips close to the butts of the revolvers in his belt. Feet were moving in the passage outside the room.

Mary's heart died under her ribs. A weight pressed on her chest so that she could not breathe. Was this Haskell, backed by his men, ready to strike?

"Boys, meet Mrs. Cole Sanborn."

There came a knock on the door, a cheerful voice raised in profane greeting. The door swung open, to admit two men.

"Fellow, we're here," the first broke out. "With half the dust of Boone county in our throats. A li'l drink——"

His words ceased, abruptly. He stared at Mary, his eyes amazed question marks. For he recognized her. He had seen her in town once with her guardian.

"Mary, this slabsided guy who looks like a rail up-ended is Dave Pope. He's long as a snake, and he drags the ground when he walks. The hammered down runt is Pete Daggett. Boys, meet Mrs. Cole Sanborn." The voice and manner of Cole were casual.

Dave Pope's lank unshaven jaw dropped. If he had heard aright—— But of course Cole was joshing.

"You hadn't ought to drap around jokes with dynamite in 'em, fellow," he remonstrated.

"No joke," Sanborn corrected, eyes dancing. "Gospel truth, boys. Ask the lady."

"But you said only yesterday you hadn't ever met up with this young lady," Dave reminded him, still suspicious.

"That was yesterday," Cole said. "This is another day. Right off, we knew what we wanted, this young lady and I."

The squat cowpuncher who had been introduced as Pete Daggett stammered out what was in his mind. "B—but C—chet Radbourne—where's he at?"

Cole looked at Pete with mild interest.

"I don't reckon he's in town, Pete, but Jerry Haskell is here. I expect he can tell you where Chet is. What say we mosey over to the Haven of Rest and ask Jerry?"

Pope scratched his red head and looked at Mary for information. "This fellow Sanborn is such a dadgummed josher, Miss, you got to check up on everything he says."

"We were married not fifteen minutes ago," the girl said.

"I'll be teetotally flabbergasted," Dave ejaculated.

"That all you got to say?" Sanborn asked, lights dancing in his eyes. "No good wishes for the young lady? No congratulations at getting so good a man?"

The lank man ducked his head in a kind of bow, scraping his right foot back along the floor as he did so. "I hope you'll be plumb happy, miss. It's a surprise, you might say. We didn't know Cole was a marrying man, but——"

"Didn't know it myself till an hour ago, boys," Sanborn cut in. "You want to look out, boys."

He found himself intrepidly lighthearted, for no reason he could have precisely defined. Of late he had been low in his mind, dissatisfied with himself and his part in life. A monotonous vista of meaningless years had stretched ahead. That was why he had come to town and sat on the porch of the Jonesboro house inviting battle. He had wanted to drug his discontent with an adventure. Now one had come to seek him, the greatest one of his life, a hazard from which he would probably not emerge alive. He could not remember when he had been so keenly exhilarated before. Why? Was it because this crazy venture had some meaning to it, because he had gone into it for reasons not wholly selfish. He did not know, and just now he did not care.

The long lean cowpuncher found a warm little hand in his. "I'm very glad to meet any friend of my husband," Mary said. "We're going to need friends, I think."

Dave looked into the deep soft eyes and was lost. He was from that moment sealed to the service of this girl whose beauty, tempered like a blade, held a fire imperishably live. In spite of her delicacy there was a swift eagerness in her. He liked the tiny freckles powdered over the impudent little nose. They made him think she might be good fun if a fellow knew enough to keep his place.

"You've got one, ma'am," Dave said promptly.

"M—make it two, Mrs. S—sanborn," Pete Daggett stuttered when it came his turn.

"Thank you both—very much," Mary answered, and her white teeth, strong and even, gleamed in a swift smile. "A little while ago I had no friends. Now I have two. That's fine."

"Two—or three?" drawled Cole. "Can't a husband be a friend, too?"

Mary answered without looking at him, an overlying pink flushing the smooth brown skin of her cheeks. "Sometimes they are," she said lightly.

Her nonchalance was fraudulent. What had occurred had established a relationship with this grim stranger. She might come to hate or despise or fear him. Time alone could answer that. But their lives had become interlaced and indifference was not possible. Already he stimulated excitement in her.

"Put me down as one on trial," he suggested. "Maybe I'll do to take along."

"He s—sure will, ma'am," Pete promised.

"If he don't treat you right, Mrs. Sanborn, you tell us," Dave said, grinning. "We'll work him over for you."

Mary nodded cheerfully. Already this wild adventure began to seem less crazy than it had at first.

Again came the sound of footsteps in the passage, followed by a knock on the door.

"Mr. and Mrs. Peters to meet you, ma'am," a boyish voice sang out.

Cole moved noiselessly to the door and swiftly flung it open. He was taking no chances.

A man and a woman stood there. The boy had vanished. The man was longlegged and awkward. The woman beside him was in her late thirties, well dressed and graceful but not pretty. In her thin face character was stamped.

Good Puffing Helps Reduce the Chinline

Face Joins in Need for Vigorous Exercise.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Say it "with a huff and a puff and I'll blow my chin down" and see what happens to the muscles that control the lower part of your face and chin.

For better and better figures you know yourself what the daily setting-up work does. In case you haven't tried it recently, let me remind you that it does precisely what the figure needs. Not only does it trim it down, but keeps it trimmed down and gives the body muscles that elastic tone that inscribes real youth in its every move and gesture. Much and all as dieting will do, to plane down a hip and waistline, dieting can't do what the daily exercise does in the way of young resilient muscle action.

Well, the face is caught up with now in this daily-setting-up demand. It is not enough any more to diet it with tissue cream and tonic of this sort and that. If you want to keep that fine profile of youth, the firm unsagging jawline [no lines around the mouth corners nor parenthesis lines from nostril to mouth], you are ordered to give your face a daily workout with a huff and a puff and every intention of blowing the extra chin down and out and firming muscle against any such calamity."

Your tissue creams and lotions for local treatment, by all means! Keep up the good work, but add to the daily face care a good round five minutes of neck, chin, and lower-face muscle training, so that automatically these important muscles do their own supporting. One of the better face and chin and neck correctionists orders her clients first to smooth a good emollient on face and neck and exercise like this: Fill the mouth full of air and huff and puff it hard against cheek and lips. Let the air come out in puffs through lips slightly parted." The idea of applying the emollient first is that the aroused circulation which the huffing and puffing promotes permits of a better absorption of the corrective cream. Try this huffing and puffing before your dressing table mirror and see for yourself the effect it has on throat muscles as well as in the muscles controling the mouth corners.

Wisconsin Recital at Fair.

The Wisconsin Federation of Music Clubs, of which Mrs. Charles Gleason is president, will present a music recital at 8 o'clock this evening at the Illinois Host House at A Century of Progress.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

There are a hundred clever little dodges a woman can employ when she wants her spirits raised. Some trot right out and have their eyebrows plucked; some have a luxurious facial, others find that a new hat makes all the world rosy. But we think that nothing in the world can beat a visit to a chiropodist. When you come out, you feel like a fleet young thing who could tread the very clouds.

The funny thing is that somehow you look as if you could, too. If the footies have been aching you can bet your last dollar that you're looking like something the cat dragged in and we've never seen it fail that when the ache has been removed you look a thousand times better.

Feet wreck faces in the most insidious fashion. Maybe you choose a triple A shoe because it looks better than the broader double. You may wear it, too, day in and day out—but you pay for your vanity. You're being brutal to those feet of yours and you're being worse than that to your face.

It's amazing the way we women can accustom ourselves to shoes that actually hurt. If any one could, we're the ones who could get used to hanging. We drag along with a small ache in the big toe, or an aggravating blister on our heel and learn eventually not to think too much about it. But the fact remains that our feet put a horrid stamp on our faces. Animation goes first. Then, from the continued pain, there's a drawn look about the eyes and a pinched look about the nostrils. It's beauty destruction that comes at you so quietly you don't notice it.

But, if you're clever, you'll figure it all out and do the right thing. Toss away the shoes that hurt and charge the loss to experience. Then open your pocketbook for a chiropodist's services. You'll be a different and a better looking woman.

"Carving Made Simple," a booklet containing instructions for carving sixteen varieties of meat, fowl, and fish, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress, for 2 cents. By mail, 3 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

"There's something about a soldier," thinks the chief of staf of the United States army, which calls for a change of diet. And according to the latest news, that change may be the addition of "maté tea" to the marching rations of the army.

Just why this surprising drink, pronounced "*mah*tay," made from the leaves of a tree called "maté" and believed to be both a mental and a physical stimulant, is such a stranger in North America is a puzzler. For dateless years ago—histories tell us it was long before explorers sailed toward "the rim of the world"—in South America, the Incas, the Aztecs, and the Mayas sipped maté as they sat at home in rich splendor, sipped it for strength and endurance as they played games or fought battles. When the Spanish "conquistadores" came all a-thirst for gold they brought back amazing reports of the physical resistance of the Indians of Paraguay, crediting the marvel, doubtless rightly, to the quantities of the strange tree beverage drunk by the natives. They tried maté themselves, called it a miracle, and took some back home to the folks.

Later while the new nations of South America were having growing pains and warring endlessly with one another we hear that maté became one of the first necessities for fighters. In fact, by the time the wars were over the Spanish had become so thoroughly sold on the pleasures of maté drinking that they accepted it as the real continental drink of South America, a position it still holds.

Today in North America maté is slowly but steadily making new friends. President Roosevelt is reported to be a stanch booster, drinking his maté daily for breakfast and maintaining, it is said, that the drink enables a person to stand up under periods of unusual mental strain. It is claimed that under stress it may be used as a substitute for solid food. Various medical authorities describe it as a tonic, a stimulant, a diuretic, and a food. It is also said to possess the important property of lessening the sense of hunger.

So just what is maté, or "hierba maté," as it is called by the Spanish? Simply the pulverized dry leaves of the ilex maté tree which thrives in Paraguay and Brazil. This powder is steeped in hot or cold water and drunk, and accompanied much as is tea.

TO PREPARE MATE.

Like tea, maté is simply prepared. Either of two methods may be used. For the first, place in a teapot one heaping teaspoon of dry maté for each cup to be served. Dampen the leaves with a little cold water, then pour in the correct cups of freshly boiling water. Let the maté steep and settle for five minutes, not on the burner. Then strain it through a fine sieve into each cup. In certain brands of maté one finds a small strainer neatly packed inside the can.

The second method of maté making reminds one of drip coffee preparation—except that all the dripping is done in a big hurry. Simply place in a fine strainer one heaping teaspoon of maté for each cup desired. Pour the freshly boiling water slowly through the strainer into a heated teapot. It's now ready to pour at once from the teapot into cups.

With maté you may use lemon, sugar, neither, or both.

Quilt Named for Woman Expresses Her Personality

Penelope's Favorite.

BY NANCY CABOT.

All quilters have favorite patterns, seemingly suited to their personalities. "Penelope's Favorite" charmingly expresses the personality of a young woman of the '70s for whom the block was named. It is not the easiest of patterns to piece, since patience is required in setting the pieces together neatly, but the completed coverlet is an achievement.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices. One South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress.

GASOLINE ALLEY—OR DAY AFTER

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

WHEN THE OPENING NO TRUMP BIDDER RAISES PARTNER'S TAKE-OUT SUIT.

This raise, which should perhaps not be recommended to inexperienced players, lends itself to a very delicate and deft purpose in the hands of a tried and trusty partnership. Opener can use it as an invitation or, rather, a plea to a rather feeble responding hand to bid secondarily a very weak four card suit of higher rank. It is an admission that his hand contains a weak spot, by which I mean a suit that is stopped only once, and that he is afraid to go three no trumps unless his partner can provide defense against that particular suit in the form of a weak four card holding. He is telling him that the signoff in three of the suit is their best destiny if responding hand is weak and cannot now bid either three no trumps or three in a higher ranking suit. However, the implication varies according to the suit in which responder takes out, though the raise is always made on not less than four cards in the suit. Let us make our players speak their thoughts aloud.

Raising a Spade Take-out.

Bidding is one no trump, two spades, three spades. Opening bidder's request is this: "Partner, I have four spades in support of your bid. It is up to you to decide whether to pass or to bid three no trumps or to bid four spades. If you decide for game, base your choice on your own distribution and the extent to which your values are concentrated or spread out." In earlier articles I explained the considerations on which the responding partner should work out his decision.

Raising a Heart Take-out.

Bidding is one no trump, two hearts, three hearts. Opening bidder's request is: "I have four hearts in support of your suit, but my hand contains a weak spot, otherwise I would have replied with two no trumps. If you are very weak, pass. Game is then extremely unlikely. If you have a weak four card spade holding as good as Q 10 9 x and your hand as a whole contains about Q-J, Q-10, Q-10, bid three spades. Probably that is all I need to hear in order to bid three carefree no trumps. Possibly I may be so powerful that I will bid four spades for you on four to the ace-jack or ace-king if that seems to me the right spot in view of my knowledge that you have presumably nine, but certainly eight cards in the major suits. If the character of your hand does not permit a weak spade bid at this point you must pass or bid three no trumps or, if able to decide for game in your suit in view of my raise, bid four hearts yourself."

Raising a Minor Suit Take-out.

Bidding is one no trump, two diamonds or two clubs, three in that minor suit. This is a very urgent plea by the no trump bidder for a weak secondary suit rebid by the responding hand. He needs reassurance about one of the major suits or, if the take-out was in clubs, it may be that he is worried about the diamonds. At no time is responder expected to bid, in this situation, a weak lower ranking suit, for he would have to bid four in it, and that would defeat the principal object of the opening bidder, that is, to reach three no trumps if he can ascertain that this contract will be reasonably safe. Consequently, if the bidding goes one no trump, two diamonds, three diamonds, the responder can know that he is not expected to bid clubs. He must either pass or bid three in a major suit or three no trumps. Only with a strong five card club suit could he consider bidding four clubs. That would mean: "I think we have game in either diamonds or clubs, whichever your hand calls for—but if you bid four no trumps my hand is strong enough to permit me to pass that contract." It would also show why responder was unable to bid either major suit secondarily; ten of his cards are in the minor suits.

Opener's Subsequent Procedure.

If he hears the secondary bid he is hoping for, the no trump bidder thereupon gayly bids three no trumps. If, however, his partner's secondary suit does not fill out the weak spot in the opener's hand, so that he still feels unsafe or unwilling to gamble for game, in three no trumps, he must now revert to his partner's first suit by bidding four of it. If it was hearts automatically he has bid for game, and he must hope that the hand may fit and play favorably and so make the contract. If doubled the set is unlikely to exceed one trick, since they have at least eight trumps and usually nine in the two hands. If the suit is a minor they are signing off in four instead of three, and again the double is unlikely. Actually you will find that these bids are seldom doubled and seldom set, since (a) the responding hand cannot be an absolute minimum, otherwise it had no right to bid a second suit, but should have passed the raise to three; (b) both hands have by their bidding shown some distributional inducements for suit play.

Holiday Gives Society a Final Vacation Fling

law, the Solomon B. Smiths, have left for a motor trip east.

The Cyrus Hall Adamses, too, have a houseful at Charlevoix this weekend, with their son, Cyrus III., and Miss Jean Wilhelm among their guests. Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm, Miss Wilhelm's parents, are in Iowa over the holiday, visiting Mr. Wilhelm's parents, the Charles M. Wilhelms.

The Richard M. Lamports are with Mrs. Lamport's parents, the Le Roy Kramers, at Harbor Point. The William A. Littles are at Wequetonsing, Mich., where they took a house for a few weeks. The Robert N. McCrearys and their children are at Fish Creek for the holiday. The John Andrews Kings are at Desbarats, where they are visiting Jack Walker and the James B. Forgans. The Montefiore Steins are at their lodge in Antigo, Wis., where they have as their guests Miss Narcissa Swift, Thomas Menefee, the David B. Pecks, and the Hardwick Moseleys.

Ashcrafts and Party At Pike Lake Cabin.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Ashcraft III., Mr. Ashcraft's sister, Miss Virginia Ashcraft, and Miss Betty Brawley are at the Ashcraft cabin at Pike lake. Miss Frances Weary, Miss Veronese Beatty, Daniel Callahan, William Drake, the George H. Schulzes, H. Hoyt Thompson, and Lester B. Knight Jr. are at the Pike Lake lodge.

Another gay group of week-enders is made up of six young people who are holidaying at Hayward, Wis., at the summer home of William Fellowes. In the group, besides Mr. Fellowes, are Miss Jean McVoy, Miss Nancy Traylor, Miss Helen Marie Castle and her fiancé, Charles Y. Freeman Jr., and Nathan Swift.

One of the gayest of the week-end parties is at the Island club where Hulburd Johnston is host to several of his friends. Among those who went north with Mr. Johnston are his sister and brother-in-law, the Conway H. Olmsteds, Miss Jean Stevens, Miss Dorothy Ranney, the John W. Valentines, the Lloyd Laflins, John Pierce, and Daggett Harvey. Mr. Johnston's debutante sister, Miss Ethel Johnston, and his younger brother, Hugh, are in Lake Forest.

Shepard Vogelgesang to Go East, Then West.

Shepard Vogelgesang has left Chicago for a while, at least. He is week-ending at the home of the Kellogg Fairbanks in Lake Geneva, but is going east tomorrow to his little farm in New Hampshire, then on to Philadelphia and New York and San Francisco, where he will next make use of his talents. Mr. Vogelgesang has been engaged with the color and lighting of A Century of Progress.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bradley Irwin of Glencoe announced the engagement of their daughter, Christine, to George E. Hofmeister of Sioux Fall, S. D., Saturday at a luncheon given by Miss Irwin's aunt, Mrs. Alfred S. Benson, at Gagemere Farms, Grayslake, Ill.

Hal Crompton Bangs Jr. has brought his new wife, the former Lucille Roseann Reed of California, to Chicago for the first time. They arrived from the west coast Friday and went to Glencoe, where Mr. Bangs' parents, the Hal Crompton Bangses, are summering.

Herbert C. DeYoung will be back in town today from the west coast where he has been vacationing the last three weeks. Going out by way of Seattle and Vancouver, he continued his trip by motor to Lake Louise and Banff, and then wound it up with several days at Carmangay, his family's Canadian farm.

Another young Chicagoan, Carleton Smith, left yesterday for the Canadian Rockies. After a week or more in this glorious country at Banff and Lake Louise he will travel back east to Montreal and on to Pittsfield, Mass.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

Although the wailing sounds from a beginner's violin strings may suggest a dying cat, nevertheless there is no relationship between the two. Catgut has never been made from cats. It is usually made from intestines of sheep or horses. Cattle may have been used for this purpose at one time, and the origin of the word may have been "cattle gut" and has since been contracted into "catgut."

Tailleur for the Young Miss

CHILD'S DRESS.

Won't this dress be just the thing for your small daughter during this coming fall? It can have long sleeves gathered into narrow wristbands, or short puffed ones. A navy blue challis, overplaided in red, with white pique collar and navy buttons, made the original model, and wool jersey, plaided gingham, wool crêpe, and cotton broadcloth are other suggestions.

The pattern, No. 3337, comes in sizes 4, 6, 8, and 10 years.

Washington Society

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—The secretary of state and Mrs. Hull, whose vacation was interrupted last month by important matters in the state department requiring the secretary's presence here, have gone a-motoring to various Jersey coast resorts until they find one to their liking. They will then stop for a visit.

The secretary of war and his two daughters, Mrs. Harry Baxter of Chicago and Miss Betsy Dern, a debutante of last season, left yesterday by motor for Buffalo and Niagara Falls. The secretary will represent this country at the rededication of old Fort Niagara, which has recently been restored. The ceremonies will take place tomorrow, the 117th anniversary of the Rush-Bagot treaty.

Mrs. Nellie Rae Saxton and her daughter, Mrs. Philip F. Cunningham, left yesterday for Quincy, Ill., to visit the former's granddaughter, Miss Marjorie Saxton, stopping en route in Chicago.

Ziegfeld Show Opens Theater Season Tonight

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Labor day, the traditional date for the opening of the fall theatrical season in Chicago, brings the "Ziegfeld Follies of 1934" into the Grand Opera house this evening. This will be the first time in four years that the holiday has been marked by the première of a first rate stage production.

This revival of the late Florenz Ziegfeld's famous series of revues, presented with the sanction of the impresario's widow, Miss Billie Burke [now a well known motion picture actress], had an impressive run on Broadway last season. The Chicago engagement marks the beginning of an extended tour.

The company is headed by Fannie Brice, who was a star in several "Follies" of the past, and Willie and Eugene Howard, comedians and singers of many revues. Among the other principals are Barré Hill, the opera singer; June and Cherry Preisser; Harrison and Fisher, Vivian Janis, Neils Goodelle, Victor Morley, Eva Arden, and Loretta Dennison. The chorus is composed of 50 girls of the Ziegfeld type. The troupe arrived in Chicago yesterday.

The Gilbert and Sullivan Opera company will begin the final week of its run at the Studebaker theater tonight. "H. M. S. Pinafore" will be the bill through Wednesday night and "The Mikado" will be given during the last half of the week. Vivian Hart, prima donna of the company's productions of "The Pirates of Penzance" and "H. M. S. Pinafore," will have the rôle of Yum-Yum in "The Mikado" in place of the Japanese singer, Hizi Koyke, who has returned to New York to fulfill concert engagements.

"The Drunkard," the old melodrama recently given in the Auditorium hotel's dining room, will begin a series of bookings in the Balaban and Katz cinema theaters next Friday at the Marbro.

Cardinal to Depart Today to Observe Anniversary in Rome

Cardinal Mundelein will depart today for Rome, where the twenty-fifth anniversary of his consecration as bishop will be observed at a special jubilation, which will be attended by Pope Pius. Cardinal Mundelein, who is head of the Chicago archdiocese, will leave for New York on the Twentieth Century Limited of the New York Central lines, accompanied by the Rev. George Casey, assistant chancellor, and the Rev. Patrick Hayes, assistant pastor at Holy Name cathedral.

Cardinal Mundelein will sail next Saturday for Havre on the Ile de France. He will return to New York on Oct. 9 on the liner Rex. On Nov. 20 a celebration of his anniversary will be held here.

Cardinal Mundelein was born in New York City sixty-two years ago and was ordained in 1897. He was named bishop in 1909 and elevated to the cardinalate in 1924.

Ageing with Grace to Be Subject of Series at Church

How to grow old gracefully is to be the subject of a series of four lectures at St. Ansgarius Episcopal church, 2514 Thorndale avenue, to be given at 8 p. m. each Wednesday, beginning this week, by the Rev. Alfred Newbery, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Atonement. The minister, long a sociological and psychological worker, holds that moderns might better learn how to meet old age than attempt to preserve youth.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

When Harold Lloyd makes a picture it's news, isn't it? Usually good news.

"The Cat's Paw" conforms to the usual cleanly Lloyd standard. It's a movie of which, I'm sure [as sure as one can be of anything] the Legion of Decency will wholeheartedly approve, and also one that practically every one can enjoy.

It presents no hair raising scenes of the star perilously atilt atop a skyscraper nor other views of like nature, but it has considerable suspense of a different sort and a generous sprinkling of quiet humor.

The story weaves round Ezekiel Cobb, son of a missionary to China, who returns to America to find himself a wife who shall be a worthy mother of his children. After this provision for the future, it is his intention to return to the orient and assist the elder Cobb with the latter's mission.

But destiny has other plans for the mild-mannered youth. She decides to make him mayor of his home town, Stockport—a burg swamped in dirty municipal doings—a surprise mayor who shall clean up its politics and confound its grafting politicians. . . .

Ezekiel Cobb, softly quoting adages, à la Charlie Chan, turns out to be nobody's fool. His coup for extracting wholesale confessions from Stockport's sinners provides the film with a highly unusual and melodramatic situation.

Mr. Lloyd performs quietly, ably, and with a twinkle his straight comedy rôle. He gets over, as he always does, the fact that he IS such a nice person.

Una Merkel gives a bright interpretation of the wise-cracking, kind hearted cigar stand girl who—never mind! George Barbier, Alan Dinehart, Frank Sheridan, Nat Pendleton, etc., portray the crooked element. David Jack Holt shows promise as the boy, Ezekiel.

The film's rather too long, but it has been intelligently directed.

Those who enjoy the stomach laugh may deplore "The Cat's Paw's" lack of rowdiness. Ah, well—you can't please everybody.

Every Family Can Have This 'Gaming Room'

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Have you ever pored over an architect's plan for a gaming room, or a photographer's view of a spacious cellar remodeled for play? In one corner punching bags and simple gym apparatus, the inlaid and cemented linoleum floor marked out for floor games; bridge tables with checkers or chess men on them. And on recessed shelves paraphernalia for various games stacked invitingly.

Few of us have such a room. But all of us can have what a friend of mine laughingly calls her "gaming room." It is a medium sized box which fits on part of a bookshelf. Here she has all sorts of games for children of all ages. The box contains jack straws, tiddledywinks, playing cards, checkers, jig-saw puzzles, parchesi, pads and pencils for other games, and so forth.

If boys or girls drop in of an evening there is always "the game room" to go to. If little guests accompany their elders on visits, there are suitable games to keep them happy and occupied while their parents talk—pag games, and so forth. If a rainy spell keeps the restless children in, dashes for the little children, or blackjack or rhummy for the older ones, will help to amuse them.

Fall Woolens Are Shiny or Dull According to Mood

All Are Prophetic of a Colorful Season

The fascinating counters in the Woolen Section of Carson Pirie Scott & Co. will give you a concise idea of the autumn wool fabric and color story. Most of these woolens are rough to the eyes—but feel them. They're soft as a baby's cuddly crib blanket. The whole array is tremendously exciting, especially the quantities of woolens shot with silver and gold color.

Seen on the Duller Side

Here are the lightweights for dresses and for suits. Particularly intriguing are the dashing plaids and checks, so very prominent in fashion's favor. Their surfaces are interesting—tweedy, hairy, or rough and bark-like.

The colors include every shade of forest primeval green, tawny russet browns, the autumn leaf colors, navy and light blues, as well as every shade from rose to red on the palette.

The plain patterns cannot be overlooked. For they are lovely, too, mostly in the smooth textured woolens in both dark and light shades.

Sparklers on the Bright Side

Some woolens are on the gold standard—others on the silver. Their slogan is, all that glitters is good. That goes for cellophane, too, which, surprisingly enough, finds itself combined with woolens. You have only to see them to become their slave. For fashions this year are dependent on fabrics.

Prices Are Slight for What You Receive

You can purchase any of these woolens at Carson's, on the second floor, in the Fabric Section. Prices are low, from $2.50 to $3.50 a yard, according to kind.

Board of Nine College Girls Advises on Back-to-School Wardrobes

In Carson's College Shop on the Fourth Floor all the liveliest and most up-to-the-minute young fashions have assembled to await the pleasure of the college girl. She'll be assisted in her selections of new fall clothes by nine girls who know from experience just what should go on a college girl's back.

Francois Villon Inspired This Picturesque Hat

The Vagabond King—celebrated in song, story and drama—now receives a tribute to his taste in hats. French designers have used his familiar chapeau as a model for one of their most dashing conceptions. Here it is, as adapted by Carson's Millinery Section on the Fifth Floor. It is of felt and is very moderately priced at $5. The gloves are 4-button imported suede slip-ons, $2.95, from Carson's First Floor Glove Section.

Front, Back and Side Views By Carson's Handbags

"We're the new fall bags, and we're making our debut in Carson's Bag Section on the First Floor. Whichever angle you view us from—front, back, or side, inside or upside down, we're smart, because we show all the newest fashion details."

THE TAILORED ONES

"We take pride in our simple silhouette. Our trimmings are quietly attractive. We are always good size and very substantial.

We are large, medium size, or larger. So easy to open and close."

THE DRESSY ONES

"We are famous for our dainty size and lines. We're all dressed up in tucks and pleats and marcasite. Our fastenings are pretty and feminine."

ALL TOGETHER

"As a group, we offer a variety of chic leathers. We're grained or smooth calf, suede, or wool.

"We're all puffed up over our low price, because we know we look much more expensive, and we believe you'll think so, too. $3."

Carson's "Younger Set" Shoes Steal the Fall Fashion Show

Oxfords, Ties, Straps, Step-ins and Pumps

They are the leading players. They achieve dramatic and picturesque effects in fabric, suede, suede combinations, kidskin, and crushed leathers.

When these new "younger set" shoe players step across the stage, the audience is thrilled by the new silhouette. It has taken on a new elegance. It is high cut, always well above the instep, and sometimes much higher than that. It fits like the very paper on the wall.

Even tailored styles are piped and stitched, and formal styles are more elegant than we've seen them in many a season.

The new heels receive hearty applause—Cuban and Continental walkable heels on tailored styles and high graceful heels for more formal occasions.

The moderate price, $6.50, receives encore after encore in Carson's Third Floor Shoe Section.

HAND-TUFTED BEDSPREADS

These bedspreads just came to town all hand-tufted in fascinating designs. The charm they bring to a bedroom is immeasurable. The single size is priced at $6 each. The double size is $6.50.

If you're looking for an inexpensive but effective way to revive a summer-weary bedroom, we suggest you try new bedspreads.

Carson's has the ones we've photographed, in their Second Floor Bedspreads Section.

The very quaintness of their design is refreshing. You will want them for every bedroom in your house, in the different colors.

They are truly of an exceptionally fine quality, exquisitely tufted entirely by hand on very durable muslin sheeting. The tufts are in green, blue, rose, gold, orchid or red—and the effect is lovely.

Prices are low for bedspreads like these. Single size at $6 each. Double size at $6.50 each.

NOW is the time to buy your winter supply of blankets. Because, although it may be warm today, zero weather isn't far off. The wise housewife will be amply prepared. Carson's has some lovely ones in plaids.

They are all wool, of a quality you can tell is exceptional at a glance. The texture is very thick and deep, yet soft and fluffy. Grand and warm, yet without excess weight.

The colors are particularly lovely—green, orchid, gold, blue, peach, and rose. A very definite point in their favor is their size, for they measure a good 72x84 inches. Because their price of just $9.95 a pair is so unusually low, you undoubtedly will want to purchase a winter supply.

Dorothy Gray Sponsors Matched Rouge and Lipstick

Matching your rouge and lipstick is just as important as matching your new fall accessories. Each Dorothy Gray lipstick is matched in color and in name to the Cream Rouge and Compact with which it should be worn. If you choose the scarlet shade of lipstick, choose also the Scarlet Cream Rouge and Scarlet Compact Rouge, for these three are a perfect match for the skin.

Dorothy Gray Cream Rouge is famous for its blending qualities and its natural look. It blends without streaking the cheeks. Apply while the skin is moist. $2.

Dorothy Gray Lipsticks are non-fading and indelible. They keep the lips soft and moist. $1.

SOX LOSE DOUBLE-HEADER TO BROWNS, 4-2, 5-4

LEWIS, LONDOS OPEN TRAINING CAMPS TODAY

Begin Drill for Title Bout Sept. 20.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Jim Londos, the champion heavyweight wrestler of the world, who meets Ed [Strangler] Lewis in defense of his title on the night of Sept. 20 at Wrigley field, reached Chicago yesterday from the Pacific coast and immediately completed preparations for his training. Londos expects to spend a week in seclusion at Round lake before moving into the city.

Londos is positive he can throw the veteran Lewis. So is his astute manager, Ed White, who guided Londos from comparative obscurity to fame. At least these gentlemen never have given any indication that they feared a meeting with the Strangler, although it is a matter of record that they have refused a test in recent years.

On the other hand, Lewis has been most outspoken in his testy disregard for the "Greek Adonis." Lewis, nearly bald, considerably past the age when most men are looking for an easy chair beside the hearth, is insistent he can and will whip Londos. For that matter, the records back Lewis' claims. Before the famous sidestepping act, in which first Lewis and then Londos declined the issue, Lewis gained fourteen consecutive decisions over Londos.

They Are Mad.

This record is history, but in rebuttal Ed White, who never has overlooked a point in the betting, enters the argument that Lewis only whipped a light heavyweight. In 1924, at the second match in St. Louis, when the Strangler was returned the victor in three hours of sweaty labor, Londos weighed 172 pounds. Since then Jim has grown to heavyweight stature, some 200 pounds, still short, however, of the massive proportions of Lewis.

Outstanding are the extreme expressions of confidence by both competitors. The natural result of these optimistic boasts is to convince the wrestling fans of the nation that the parties of the first and second part are gunning.

Lewis has held the heavyweight championship on four occasions, according to authentic records. His count runs to a half dozen occasions, but the variance is not important. It is important that Lewis is so certain he can defeat Londos that he has accepted the opportunity for no other consideration than payment of his training expenses. Further proof of his belief in his own ability is unnecessary.

Londos Keeps Quiet.

Londos is reticent. Seldom outspoken, he is unwilling to spe_k up even when faced with prospect of a licking by the man he most cordially hates. But Ed White, his manager, is most voluble. White will talk any time and at any place, and the theme of his discourse is the torture Londos will inflict on Lewis.

This argumentative status will prevail until Sept. 20. It has been subject for conjecture for ten years, and the only solution will be the championship bout arranged by THE TRIBUNE, from which Chicago charity will emerge the winner, regardless.

This wrestling match needs no supporting card, but THE TRIBUNE has arranged a combination wrestling and boxing program, flanked by appearances of notables, which has no comparable counterpart. Jack Dempsey, still the idol of boxing fans, will referee at least one of the bouts. Jack postponed a European trip to appear at Wrigley field. Chicago's favorite champion, Barney Ross, holder of the lightweight, junior welterweight, and welterweight crowns, will box in exhibition. The other matches are worthy of the spotlight of the windup position.

Levinsky Fights Sykes.

Don George, one of the more recent college claimants of wrestling honors, and Jim McMillen, former Illinois football star, who played with the Chicago Bears before entering wrestling, are scheduled for thirty minutes of tussling.

King Levinsky, heavy swinging heavyweight, has accepted a match with Art Sykes, and these ten rounds, more or less, of fighting, should be worthy of consideration, aside from the wrestling. Levinsky, always willing to fight, has had difficulty in getting engagements since he floored Jack

THE GUMPS—IN THE FRONT LINE TRENCH

HANDICAP TOPS LINCOLN FIELDS PROGRAM TODAY

Mata Hari in Field; Look for Banner Crowd.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Chicago racing swings back into the front yard of the south siders this afternoon when a holiday program of eight events topped by the $2,000 Labor Day handicap will mark the opening of the annual autumn season at Lincoln Fields.

That it will be the largest opening day crowd of the year at a Chicago course is already assured. The Labor day gathering here always is one of the largest of the season.

President Stuyvesant Peabody and his associates in the Lincoln Fields Jocky club were confident last night that this record will be left intact today.

Mata Hari in Handicap.

The Labor Day handicap, a dash of seven furlongs, attracted an overnight field of 17. Its running brings back to the Chicago racing scene Mata Hari, the temperamental queen of the American turf. She will be in the parade to the post with the Dixiana stable silks up. She will have her backers, for in the early betting last night she was held as about an equal first choice with Knight's Gal and Carbina from Audley Farm stable. Navanod and Slapped from the barn of Thomas C. Worden of Chicago, and Mr. James and Jens Son, nominated by C. E. Davidson.

Outsiders which were considered to have a chance of upsetting the figures of the handicappers were Glastonbury, Fanfern, and Princess Camella. Another which will get some consideration will be Evergold, owned by Richard and Pat Nash. The Nash turf luck returned on the closing day of the Hawthorne season when the stable scored in the two best races with Dust Girl and Belle Grier.

Pick Coughlin Pair.

The Joliet purse for 2 year olds is another race on the first day card that came in for much attention last night. The Coughlin entry of Advantage and Official had the most backers. This was due chiefly to the easy victory Advantage scored in the Hawthorne Juvenile handicap and to the general belief among Chicagoans that Advantage may be one of the best juveniles out this year.

Irksome, Slim Rosie, Listening, Dancing Doll, and Hastinois are 2 year olds which will attempt to outfoot the Coughlin pair. There's plenty of speed in this crowd and Advantage will have to be at his best to be winking at the judges when the numbers go up.

Winn Sees Banner Meeting.

Col. Matt J. Winn, as president of the American Turf association, is the director of the racing at Lincoln Fields. He believes this will be one of the banner meetings his organization has conducted this year. He bases his prediction on the steady pickup in the attendance during the final days of the Hawthorne season.

Post time for the first race each day will be 2:15 o'clock. Except on Saturdays and holidays seven races will make up the program.

HELEN JACOBS FALLS IN MATCH; BACK IS INJURED

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Falling heavily during a practice match at the West Side Tennis club today, Helen Jacobs, United States champion, suffered a painful but not serious injury to her back.

The Berkeley, Cal., girl was playing Henry Prusoff of Seattle, Wash. As she ran to return a fast shot she fell heavily. She was carried into the clubhouse and later to the Forest Hills inn, where she is staying. Her physician, Dr. T. C. Chalmers, said she had suffered a torn muscle in her back and otherwise sprained it.

RAINBOW WINS FINAL TRIAL

Millions Spent in Defense of America's Cup

Newport, R. I., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Millions have been spent in defense and challenge of the America's cup for which Harold S. Vanderbilt's Rainbow and T. O. M. Sopwith's Endeavour will compete in a best four of seven race series starting Sept. 15. Neither skipper is likely to overlook any bets in a series that promises to be the closest in cup history.

Each is aware that on insignificant details may depend the possession of a trophy that for 83 years has represented the sailing supremacy of American yachtsmen over British. Originally the trophy, a poetically bottomless silver tankard, cost about 100 guineas. Wars have been waged at less financial expense than defense and challenge for the old mug have cost since the schooner yacht America brought it to these shores in 1851.

Accept 14 Challenges.

In the intervening years fourteen challenges have been received by the New York Yacht club, and accepted. Defenders were built and each challenge was repulsed. Defense reached the highwater mark, financially, four years ago, when four candidates for the privilege of guarding the cup were launched.

Estimates vary, but it was generally agreed the campaign to turn back the invader, Sir Thomas Lipton's fifth and last challenger, cost in the neighborhood of $4,000,000. This figure does not include the value of the time devoted to the defensive campaign by about a score of men who for the most part occupy places high in the realms of finance and industry.

This year there has been an air of financial caution. Only one new boat was built, Rainbow, and seventeen millionaires are said to have contributed to its construction. However, two of the unsuccessful candidates of 1930, Yankee and Weetamoe, were entered again after extension and expensive changes, new gear and canvas. How much the 1934 campaign cost would be difficult to say, but it is safe to state that it will be more than proportionately under that of 1930.

Try Hard with Yankee.

PARKER DEFEATS LOTT IN FINAL OF EASTERN TENNIS

Milwaukee Star Takes Westchester Bowl.

Rye, N. Y., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Frankie Parker, Milwaukee, Wis., youngster, today scored a 3-6, 7-5, 6-2, 3-6 victory over George M. Lott, Chicago veteran, to win the Westchester Country club bowl, emblematic of the eastern grass court tennis championship.

It was Parker's eighth victory in fifteen meetings with Lott, the country's tenth ranking star who reached the finals after stirring triumphs over Berkeley Bell and Frank Shields.

Corner Shots Stop Lott.

Lott, who shares the outdoor and indoor national doubles titles with Lester Stoefen and the mixed doubles with Helen Jacobs, broke through service in the fifth game of the final set for a 3-2 lead, but Parker's slashes to the corners left Lott helpless and cost him his service in the next game.

From there on it was a battle. Parker raced through the seventh game but Lott's beautiful lobbing pulled out the eighth and he broke Parker's service in the ninth for a 5-4 lead. They alternated in service breaks until Parker won his own delivery in the 13th game.

Lott Rallies Again.

In the 14th, Lott took the first point but lost the next three in succession to put Parker within a point of game, set and match. But the Chicagoan took the next two points to bring the score to deuce. Lott netted the next return for advantage and Parker put over the winning shot on the next rally, a hard-hit drive to the far corner which Lott could not reach.

Fred Perry of England and Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles, Davis cup players for their respective countries, engaged in an exhibition match with Perry winning 1-6, 6-2, 6-4.

M'DIARMID, MAKO WIN

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 2.—(AP)—John McDiarmid, Fort Worth, Tex., and Gene Mako, Los Angeles, scored first round victories in the men's singles tennis tournament today.

While all others in the big field were idle, McDiarmid won in easy fashion from Albert Law Jr. of Jackson Heights, N. Y., 6-3, 6-1, 6-1. Mako eliminated Burtz Boulware, Jacksonville, Fla., 6-2, 6-1, 6-1.

Both matches originally were scheduled yesterday, but Mako and McDiarmid were booked for doubles play in the eastern grass court championships.

Join Stars in Second Round.

By their victories Mako and McDiarmid joined in the second round such favorites as Fred Perry, England, defending champion; George M. Lott, Chicago; Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex.; Clifford Sutter, New Orleans; Lester Stoefen, Los Angeles; J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., and Wilmer Hines, Columbia, S. C., all of whom won first round victories yesterday.

Today's two matches reduced the field of 89 to 64 for the second round tomorrow.

Allison, Wood to Play.

Allison, seeded second, but considered by some critics as the leading American hope against Perry, will meet Dr. Eugene McCauliff, Yonkers, while Sidney B. Wood, New York, seeded third, encounters S. Ellsworth Davenport.

Pairings for other seeded players:

Berkeley Bell, New York [No. 4], vs. Donald M. Frame, New York; Stoefen [No. 5], vs. Thomas Flynn, Bayside, Long Island; Frankie Parker, Spring Lake, N. J. [No. 6], vs. Edward W. Burns, Brooklyn; Bryan M. Grant Jr., Atlanta [No. 7], vs. Manuel Alonso, New York; Lott [No. 8], vs. Ernest Sutter, New Orleans; Gregory S. Mangin, Newark [No. 9], vs. Ralph Demott, Philadelphia, and John Van Ryn, Philadelphia [No. 10], vs. Henry Prusoff, Seattle.

Buffalo Swimmer Wins 12 Mile Marathon Race

SARNIA, Ont., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Frank Pritchard, Buffalo, today won the 12 mile swimming marathon in 3 hours 57 minutes. Gianni Gambi, Italy, was second, and Eli Radakovitch, Pittsburgh, finished third. The race, from Sarnia to St. Clair, Mich., brought out 33 contestants but only nine reached the finish line.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

ALL-STARS AND BEARS.

THAT long standing argument which flares forth intermittently whether professional or college football is superior may continue its vogue for at least another year as a result of the scoreless tie between College All-Stars and Chicago Bears at Soldiers' field last Friday night.

One thing it did silence, however, was the claim of pro partisans that pros would outclass collegians in a test. Belief in this claim was pretty generally shared by John Public. Yet in first downs and yardage, the All-Stars had advantage.

NOBLE KIZER.

It is The Wake opinion, however, that 0 to 0 represented the relative merits of the contestants better than any other count except 7 to 7, which it might easily have been except for fumbles not surprising so early in the season and with a new ball slightly changed in shape.

Aside from the high quality of defense displayed, which nullified scoring, surprise of the unique game, first of its kind, was the showing of the All-Stars. A small minority expected them to win. Such supporters avowedly were partisans. The great majority of gridiron fans, however, hardly hoped more than a creditable showing with fear the Bears might make it a debacle. Advance betting ranged from 3 to 1 to 3 to 2 with Bears favorites, odds depending on the enthusiasm. On even money wagers, Bears admirers spotted their opponents 7 to 14 points.

Strictly speaking, of course, it was not a pro eleven against a single college eleven because the All-Stars were recruited from all over the country. But so are the Bears in the makeup of their team, for that matter. The All-Stars, however, were comparatively fresh from college gridirons. They had not the experience of the pros nor had they played together before.

In undertaking the conquest of college rivals, the Bears with good sportsmanship played under modified college rules. Undoubtedly they would have been stronger, more effective, with the pro forward pass rule. But it was less unfair to ask them to discard an attack with which they are now familiar and to play under rules with which they once were familiar than to ask the All-Stars to learn in two weeks' practice together new offense and defense. On all moot questions, the Bears showed praiseworthy willingness to make concessions. Possibly the sturdiness of the opposition will make them less willing to concede and more insistent on compromise if the contest is renewed next season.

As a spectacle, the game was absorbing. For so early in the season, with the limited practice time available, it was a remarkable exhibition. Experience and adaptability of players made possible teamwork hardly anticipated, although it goes without saying both elevens would have been smoother with more practice sessions.

That there was no scoring was a disappointment to those who relish the final thrill of touchdowns. On several occasions, however, both teams were so near counting that thrills a-plenty were not lacking. The result left for next season what the sports world calls a "natural"—another contest of like nature.

In closing, we wish to pay compliment to the sportsmanship of the opposing players, the officiating, and the coaching of the All-Stars by Kizer, Hanley, Crowley, and Elward. It was a fine attack for the time allotted with devotees of so many different offensive systems molded together by Kizer, Crowley, and Elward into a functioning attack. Hanley, in charge of defense, used his knowledge of Bear tactics to good purpose as the score attests.

The Wake is thoroughly enthusiastic over the first contest of what we hope will prove an annual series.

THREE ERRORS, TWO HOME RUNS BEAT GALLIVAN

Gaston Suffers 18th Defeat in Opener.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—The White Sox's three week road trip came to a sad conclusion today when Rogers Hornsby's young and sprightly Browns swept a double-header, 4 to 2 and 5 to 4, to entrench themselves in fifth place. It gave the Browns three victories and one tie in this series that completed the season's play between the two teams. The season record is 14 victories for St. Louis against seven for the White Sox.

After Buck Newsom had fireballed Milt Gaston into submission in the first game, Dick Coffman, the Sox's most persistent pitching jinx in years, survived early tribulations and stayed the route for his sixth straight triumph over the Chicagoans. He has won only four other games.

Too Many Errors, Homers.

Coffman's victim was Phil Gallivan, making his first start in several weeks. Three errors in one inning gave the Browns an unearned run and three more were made on home runs by Alan Strange and Harland Clift, rookie infielders.

Al Simmons continued in the throes of his slump, although he hit a single in the seventh inning after going hitless a dozen straight times. Rollie Hemsley was one of the leaders in the second game, making three hits for a perfect day at bat, the last one driving in the winning run in the eighth inning.

Gaston's defeat was his 18th of the season, against four victories.

FIRST GAME

The dark day provided an ideal setting for Buck Newsom and his fast ball, and it wasn't long before the Browns gave their big right-hander a working margin.

Bruce Campbell, first to face Gaston in the second, hit a home run over the right center field wall. After Melillo grounded out, Grube walked and went to third on Strange's single. Grube started for home when Gaston stabbed Newsom's grounder with his bare hand. When Milt threw to Madjeski, Grube hustled back and reached third because Hopkins had left the base unprotected. Garms' single to right scored Grube, but Strange was out at the plate.

Bunt After Bunt.

Burns beat out a swinging bunt past Gaston in the third and Pepper sacrificed. Campbell also bunted, the Browns taking advantage of the slippery field. Gaston fell fielding it, but made a perfect throw to Dykes, who dropped the ball for an error. Dykes, however, recovered and threw out Burns at the plate.

Grube opened the fourth with another safe bunt that skipped past Gaston and Strange sacrificed. Appling came up with Newsom's single back of second, saving a run momentarily, but Grube scored after Clift had lined to Simmons.

The Sox's net offensive against Newsom in the first five innings was a single by Haas and four bases on balls, but none of the runners reached third.

Sox Get Disorderly.

In the sixth the Sox became disorderly and scored twice. Conlan, who had replaced Haas in the third when the Mule injured his left leg again, opened with a double. He stayed on second while Simmons was flying to Campbell, but took third when Appling grounded to Melillo. Conlan scored when Dykes singled just out of Melillo's reach. Boken's double to right center brought Dykes home. Hopkins walked, but Madjeski fanned.

Burns accounted for the final run of the game when he doubled in the seventh, went to third on Pepper's single, and scored on a wild pitch.

The Sox were completely cowed by Newsom in the last three innings, their only offensive being a single by Gaston in the seventh and a base on

ROSS AT PEAK FOR RETURN BOUT WITH M'LARNIN

Fight Overshadows Otherwise Slim Week's Card.

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Although a long series of precedents would seem to indicate his defeat in advance, Barney Ross, Chicago's champion, will depend, as usual, upon his busy fists to turn back the welterweight title challenge of Jimmy McLarnin in Madison Square Garden's outdoor bowl Thursday night.

Although no champion ever successfully has defended a title in the Garden bowl; although McLarnin never has lost a return match with a rival who has whipped him, and although the last half dozen holders of the welterweight crown have lost it in their first defense, Ross still is convinced he is McLarnin's master.

Ross Figures He's Better Now.

Ross, holder of the lightweight as well as the welterweight championship, has come through a strenuous training siege at Ferndale, N. Y., in tip top condition. He figures he's a better fighting man now than he was last April, when he outpointed McLarnin in 15 rounds and won the 147 pound championship. Some close students of the game are inclined to agree with him. He is fast, an effective if not a deadly hitter, and boasts stamina to burn even over the 15 round championship route.

During the last few days, however, there has been a definite swing toward McLarnin, largely because of the Irishman's excellent showing in training at Orangeburg. Whether or not it had any real effect on him during the fight, the fact remains that Jimmy was under considerable strain attempting to make 145 pounds, as per a private agreement with Ross, for their first meeting. McLarnin was so determined to protect a heavyweight forfeit that he cut it too fine and scaled only 142 pounds, five pounds under the class limit. This time he expects to come in close to 147 pounds against a probable 138½ for Ross.

Title Changes Hands 10 Times.

It may not apply to Ross, but no division in the boxing business has had so many champions in recent years as the welterweights. Since Pete Latzo dethroned Mickey Walker in July, 1926, the title has changed hands ten times. The holders since then have included Joe Dundee, Tommy Freeman, young Jack Thompson [twice], Lou Brouillard, Jackie Fields [twice], Young Corbett, McLarnin, and Ross.

Thursday's championship bout, offering prospects of a crowd of well over 40,000, overshadows all other fistic developments of the week. A slim program otherwise is offered.

ROSS SHOWS HIS PUNCH

Ferndale, N. Y., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Barney Ross demonstrated his new punching prowess before a crowd of 1,500 this afternoon in one of his final training drills for the defense of his welterweight title against Jimmy McLarnin next Thursday night.

In the first round of the day Ross dropped Sparmate Jimmy Murray with a left hook. Murray remained on the canvas two or three seconds, but for another ten seconds Ross had to ease up his attack in order to give Murray a chance to recuperate.

Al Cassamini fought Ross for two rounds then and boxing was completed for the day with Ross performing four sessions in exercises to round out the day's stunts. He weighed 138½ after the performance. Al Weill, boxing promotor, who viewed the workout said he believed Ross would stop McLarnin this time.

Camp will be broken here tomorrow night. Ross will motor to New York and on Tuesday perform his final strenuous drill in Stillman's gym.

M'LARNIN BOXES 4 ROUNDS

Orangeburg, N. Y., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Before an overflow crowd that included Art Lasky, heavyweight challenger, and many other figures of the fight world, Jimmy McLarnin boxed two rounds each with Eddie Flynn and Calvin Reed, his star glove mates, this afternoon.

The attendance was the largest that has turned out to watch the Vancouver Irishman since he began training for his return fifteen round world welterweight championship fight with Barney Ross at the Garden bowl Thursday night.

McLarnin exchanged lefts and rights with both partners, sacrificing fancy work and boring in close to sharpen his judgment of distance. Each of his punch partners finished perceptibly tired. After several rounds of shadow boxing the Irishman wound up his exercises by dancing an Irish jig and doing some acrobatics that drew cheers from the fans, several hundred of whom were women and children.

After a shower bath and rubdown McLarnin got into his street clothes and attended the annual clambake of the Rockland County Democratic club in Tappan as a guest of Postmaster General James Farley.

AIKEN KNIGHTS BEAT RAMBLERS IN POLO GAME, 9-5

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—With George H. (Pete) Bostwick leading the attack with four goals the Aiken Knights conquered the Meadow Brook Ramblers, 9 to 5, in the weekly high goal polo match on the Bostwick estate at Old Westbury today.

The team leader rode at his customary No. 1 position, followed by young Skiddy Von Stade, Cyril Harrison, and Barney Balding in that order.

It was the first appearance for the latter since he was injured over two weeks ago when he suffered a severe fall and his mount rolled over him. He played the first three chukkers today and was relieved by Johnny Fell, who also played for the first time since he was thrown nearly two months ago.

The Ramblers lined up with Pete's brother, Dunbar, at No. 1; the Texan, Tommy Hitchcock, at No. 2, followed by Gerald Balding and Stephen (Laddie) Sanford.

Coaster Trout Strike Near Fisher's Door

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. IGNACE ISLAND, Ont., Sept. 2.—There is nothing like having a private and extremely productive fishing spot attached to your camping site when you pitch a tent here in this great coaster brook trout and lake trout country on the north shore of Lake Superior.

Today when we moved camp to a sheltered little corner on Irvine Island, not much more than a stone's throw from the southwest corner of St. Ignace, we hustled out in the canoe for a whirl at the big fish. There they were, not more than 200 yards from our front door. Not only that, but they were conveniently congregated in a deep pocket just off a small rocky reef so that it was easy to remember your strikes and go back for more if you wanted them.

Lands a Big Fellow.

The first crack at the trout gathering yielded a 16 pounder. Inasmuch as it was taken on ordinary bass tackle, we had quite a wrestling match with this fellow before Dan Morriseau, one of our guides, could lift him into the boat.

Due to a spell of windy and autumn-like weather, we decided to move our camp from a site out near the open water of Lake Superior to a small cove on Irvine Island. Here we could be protected from the heavy winds and high waves. Moreover, being well back among a lot of smaller islands, we could dash around and fish stretches of sheltered brook trout grounds and also make a play for lakers. This move proved to be wise, especially in view of the fact that a dandy lake trout fishing hole was discovered right next to camp.

This Is the Life.

The presence of lake trout in abundance in these waters makes it ideal for fisherman. When windy weather upsets the coaster brook trout schedule by making it impossible for you to get around very much, you always can hop into the canoe and paddle behind the rocky islands, up and down the channels and around reefs to pick up all the lakers you want.

Many are taken on bait casting rods by fishermen who are working the shore line for coasters. If they don't come that way you always can put on a spoon or plug lure and troll. The best part of this trolling game is that no heavy lead sinker is needed.

Up here where the water is cold the lakers do not bore down into 100 or 200 feet of water. They stay at comparatively shallow depths. Only a light sinker is needed on your line, not enough to interfere with the fight of the fish and your handling him on light tackle.

Fish Tires of Battle.

When we hooked the 15 pounder on a muskie spoon and a pork strip we got him up to the canoe without much trouble, but he stayed down in about twenty feet of water in spite of all we could do for several minutes. When the fish became tired of fighting the steady pressure exerted upon him we finally had him within three feet of the surface. Then Dan was able to net him in one of those large landing nets which the Indians in this country always use.

NEO TRIUMPHS IN SHERIDAN SHORE STAR SLOOP RACE

Defeats Field of 15 in Driving Rain.

Neo, Tom Waage's Star class yacht, sailed through a driving rain and a strong wind off Wilmette yesterday to defeat 15 other Star sloops in the second race for the Shipping board trophy, sponsored by the Sheridan Shore Yacht club. Neo's time for the nine nautical mile course was 1 hour, 25 minutes.

Gemini, the Pirie Brothers' champion, was second. Max Hayford's Twinkle Ditto placed third, followed by Fram, owned by Frank Manegold, and the Elliott-Goss sloop, Carol.

Walrus' Jib Broken.

A broken jib sheet, which parted at one of the buoys, slowed down Walter Stockton's Walrus, which finished twelfth. Accidents also occurred to Tom Wolf's Aquila and Emerson Raymond's Nereid. The boats were disabled by the heavy wind before the start and did not race.

The final event of the series will be sailed at 10 o'clock this morning off Wilmette. Neo has the lead, in the series, having scored 36 points. Twinkle Ditto is in second place with 33 points.

Eagle class sloops raced yesterday at the Chicago Yacht club. The champion, George Getz Jr.'s Aquila, did not compete. Ishtar, the only Eagle to beat Aquila this year, won the event. Lincoln Harris, sailed Ishtar in 3 hours 1 minute 52 seconds over the 12 nautical mile triangular course. Altair, George Glossbrenner's sloop, finished second. The Eagles are racing for the Fox trophy.

Ulysses Wins Pup Event.

Haven Requa's Ulysses won the Pup event at 6 nautical miles in 2 hours 1 minute 45 seconds. San Souci, E. T. Beckman's boat, was second.

Fifteen class A model sloops are expected to compete today for the Commodore Sheldon Clark trophy at the model basin, 51st street and the lake. The race was postponed yesterday.

EASTERN GIRL SETS WOMAN'S MARK IN SWIM

Boston, Mass., Sept. 2.—(AP)—A 17 year old high school girl today became the first woman ever to swim to Boston light and back. Charlotte L. Arne, daughter of Dr. James A. Arne, Medford physician, performed the feat that had been accomplished only once previously—by Sam Richards in 1913.

The distance to Boston light is twelve miles by boat, but the girl was forced to swim a longer distance each way due to the tides. Jumping into the water at Charleston bridge at 5:55 a. m., the same time Richards, a famous swimmer of his day, began the grind. Miss Arne reached the light at 12:34 p. m.

She touched bottom there and immediately turned about, reaching her starting point at 7:30 p. m. Her time was 13 hours 35 minutes, 26 minutes more than Richards' time.

For nourishment during the long swim the girl partook only of lump sugar and water. She weighs 100 pounds and has been swimming for four years. She uses an ordinary crawl stroke.

GERARD SIGNS AS ST. LOUIS HOCKY CLUB MANAGER

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Eddie Gerard, coach of the Montreal Maroons last season, signed a contract over the week-end to manage the St. Louis club in the National Hocky league. His charges will be last year's Ottawa Senators, who will perform under St. Louis colors during the coming season. Gerard obtained his release from a contract with the Maroons in order to accept the new offer. He was one of the league's finest defense men from 1914 to 1923.

Corbett and Stanton Meet at 8 Rounds

Johnny Stanton, Minneapolis, Minn., junior welterweight, and Tommy Corbett, Omaha, Neb., will meet in the eight round feature contest tonight at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Corbett replaces Maxie Strub, Erie, Pa., who wired Promoter Maurice Rivkin he would be unable to compete because of an injury sustained in training.

The five round semi-windup will bring into action Jimmy Cummings and Young Jack Blackburn at 160 pounds. Blackburn, named after the great lightweight of 25 years ago, who serves as his trainer, has won all his professional battles. Preliminary matches:

Milt Aron vs. Al Pahl [4], 137.
Fred Cheynoweth vs. Harold Dunnington [4], 138.
Eddie Evans vs. Sammy Guidara [4], 118.
Dick Gamon vs. Lefty Pacer [wrestling].

Another show tonight will be presented by Johnny Coulon at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. Everett Rightmeier will fight Johnny Siegel of Minneapolis in a ten round bout at 126 pounds. Tony Zale, Gary, Ind., middleweight, and Mickey Misko of Saginaw, Mich., will battle eight rounds. Jack Moran and Joe Mendoza are matched in another eight round bout. Principals in both matches are middleweights. A six round affair pairs Joe Esposito and Harry Booker, and a four rounder matches Augie Mandell with Eddie Jackson.

Henry Rothler, north side welterweight, and Patrick Henry, ex-Marion, Ind., Negro boxer, will finish drills this afternoon for their eight round fight at Western stadium tomorrow. . . . Tony Herrera, El Paso, Tex., lightweight, started workouts yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium for a 10 round meeting with Tracey Cox at Flint, Mich., Thursday. . . . The Adolph Winter-Johnny Risko combat, slated for tonight at Green Bay, Wis., may be held on Sept. 14 instead. . . . A program carded at Muncie, Ind., Thursday has been set back to Sept. 13.

Lou Brouillard, Worcester, Mass., arrived last night to finish training for a 10 round fight with Solly Dukelsky at Mills stadium Friday. Johnny Phagan and Bobby Millsap, Chicago middleweights, have been hired to spar with the former 147 and 160 pound champion tomorrow and Wednesday. Dukelsky weighed 162, three under the agreed poundage, after drill Saturday, so took a layoff yesterday. He will resume work tomorrow.

Harry Dublinsky will keep a promise made before he handed a lacing to Tony Canzoneri at New York last Wednesday and give Canzoneri another match within 30 days. . . . Laddie Tonelli, Marseilles, Ill., 147 pound boxer, will have the cast removed from his injured left hand Wednesday. . . . Jackie Wilson, Pittsburgh, and Frankie Wallace, Cleveland, will clash at 10 rounds at Youngstown, O., Thursday.

James C. Mullen, who has leased the Midwest Athletic club, will open offices there tomorrow. . . . Jacquotte Elverrillo, south side 140 pound boxer, has worked out his contract at the Garden of Champions at A Century of Progress. . . . Jack Charvez, Oskaloosa, Ia., middleweight, is seeking a meeting with Jack Moran in Chicago. . . . Barney Ross and his camp retinue desert Ferndale, N. Y., tomorrow morning and go to New York to defend the welterweight title there Thursday against Jimmy McLarnin. . . . James Norris Sr., main stockholder in the Chicago Stadium, is due back in the city tomorrow from Southampton, L. I., to complete plans with his associates for reorganization of the west side building. F. M.

Chicago Hurling Team Defeats St. Louis, 21-17

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Chicago All-Star hurling team won its second victory over the St. Louis Hurling club, 21 to 17, today. The All-Stars came from behind in the second half. St. Louis held an 11 to 8 advantage at the beginning of the period, but Hugh Kinahan and Bill Martin staged a rally for Chicago's victory. Martin was high scorer with nine points, while Kinahan had six.

CHICAGOANS LEAD IN RIFLE TOURNAMENT

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 2.—(AP)—C. E. Nordhus, Highland Park, Ill., stepped into the limelight of the National Rifle association's regional matches at Fort Des Moines today by winning the President's and free rifle matches as S. D. Monahan, Chicago sportsman, continued to lead competitors for the Major Lee O. Wright grand aggregate memorial trophy.

Nordhus shot a consistent 198 total over the 200, 500 and 1,000 yard prescribed course in the President's match to nose out Monahan, who fell down on the long range course after firing a brilliant total in the short ranges.

In the free rifle, Nordhus ran away from his competitors by scoring a 503 total.

DODGERS POUND 2 PITCHERS; BEAT GIANTS, 7 TO 3

Zachary, Relieved in 8th, Gets Credit for Victory.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Dodgers ended a losing streak, checked the pennant rush of the Giants, and escaped with some consolation in their three game series with the New York club by winning the final contest, 7 to 3, today.

Tom Zachary was the winning pitcher, although he was relieved in the eighth inning when the Giants scored one run and had the tying run on third base with one out. Mungo replaced him and made Critz, the next batter, ground to Frey, who threw him out at first. Watkins, a pinch runner, tried to score on the play and was doubled at the plate on a perfect throw by Johnny McCarthy, 21 year old youngster from Chicago's sandlots, who was playing his first major league game.

In their half of the eighth the Dodgers pounded Bowman, who had relieved Roy Parmelee, to build up a safe lead for Mungo in the ninth. Score:

PIRATES, REDS SPLIT.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Bombarding Cincinnati pitchers for 18 hits, the Pittsburgh Pirates walked away with the second game of a double-header today, 11 to 4, after losing the first one, 2 to 1.

Five Red pitchers were unable to halt the barrage. Tony Freitas was knocked from the mound in the second. Then followed an assault upon Si Johnson and Benton, the Pirates making six runs in the second inning. Their final run was scored in the eighth when Hafey kicked Suhr's hit off Lee Grissom into a triple. Suhr scoring on a double play. Scores:

MOON MULLINS—IT PAYS TO KEEP YOUR MOUTH SHUT

Harder Blanks Tigers on Pair of Hits, 1 to 0

Cleveland, O., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Two clean hits were all the Detroit Tigers were able to get off Mel Harder today, and the Cleveland Indians defeated the league leaders, 1 to 0.

As the New York Yankees also lost today, the league's top standings remained unchanged, Detroit still leading by five and one-half games.

Harder pitched masterful ball to gain his 15th victory of the season and his fifth shutout. He also helped in the scoring of the Indians' run. Kamm reached first in the fifth inning on a pass, and was brought in by singles off the bats of Harder and Milt Galatzer.

Greenberg and Gehringer were the only Tigers able to get a hit off Harder. The Tigers got one man as far as third base and only two as far as second in the whole game. Elden Auker, who until today had shut out the Indians twice in a row and had allowed only one run in 26 innings against the Indians, was the victim of the Cleveland shutout. Eighteen thousand saw the game. Score:

RED SOX, 2; ATHLETICS, 1.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox defeated the Athletics, 2 to 1, today with a rally in the ninth inning.

The youthful Joe Cascarella held his own with the veteran Gordon Rhodes most of the contest and went into the eighth with a 1 to 0 lead. Then Reynolds tied the score with a home run into the left field bleachers.

Werber opened the ninth for the Red Sox with a hit to right. Roy Johnson bunted and Cascarella threw wild in attempting to catch Werber at second. Werber gained third and Johnson pulled up safely at second. Ferrell raised a long fly to Cramer in deep center and Werber scored. Score:

Some day Levinsky may catch a knockout punch, and there are some who predict Sykes is just the lad to conjure this blow.

Leo Rodak, a three time Golden Gloves champion, and undefeated since he became a professional more than a year ago, has been matched for ten rounds with Everett [Young] Rightmire. Rightmire is easily the most formidable opponent among the men Rodak has met. Hayden [Young] Stuhley and Solly Dukelsky, middleweights, will fight an eight rounder.

Ticket orders now are being accepted by mail by the ticket manager, room 530, Tribune Tower. Ringside seats are $6, including tax. Other reserved seats are $3.60 and $2.40. The sections priced at $1.20 will not be placed on sale until the night of the bouts. All prices include the federal and state taxes.

GIRLS' SOFTBALL TEAMS WILL PLAY THURSDAY NIGHT

Four teams, T. J. Bowlers, Pulaski Coals, Lincoln Knitting Mills, and Narragan Drug Coeds, survivors of an original field of 16, will play in the semifinal round of the second annual Cook county girls' softball tournament Thursday night at Mills stadium.

In the opener at 8:15 o'clock Pulaski Coals, runnersup for the title last year, will oppose Narragan Drug Coeds. T. J. Bowler Girls, defending champions, will meet Lincoln Knitters in the final.

Start Play for National Girls' Tennis Title Today

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Forty-seven girls, headed by Millicent Hirsch, a semi-finalist a year ago, will set out tomorrow in quest of the national girls' tennis championship at Philadelphia Cricket club. A field of 35 entrants will compete in the middle states women's tournament.

Schoolboy Rowe Faces Lyons, Sox in Opener Today

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—It will be interesting to see how many fans the American league's new drawing card, Schoolboy Rowe, will draw to Comiskey park tomorrow when the Sox play a double-header with the league leading Tigers. Rowe will pitch the opener against Ted Lyons, while Les Tietje will work the second game, probably against Vic Sorrell.

The playing field was slippery and there was much skidding by the athletes. Until after noon, it appeared as though there wasn't a chance to play, since it rained all morning. As a result, about 4,000 attended.

Zeke Bonura will be in uniform for the first time since Aug. 7, when he pulled a muscle in his thigh rounding first on a two bagger off Clinton Brown of the Indians. Dykes will play third base tomorrow, and also against the Yankees. Then he will retire to the bench to study his recruits in action.

was spent on Yankee, which, sailed by Charles Francis Adams, former navy secretary, almost won the nomination.

Four years ago, many not of the yachting fraternity, who sympathized with old Sir Tom after his repeated failures to reclaim the cup, did not attempt to conceal their hope that he would at last have his wish. That sentiment did not exist to any great extent in yachting circles, however, possibly because Sir Tom, always relied upon hired sailor men to sail his challengers for him.

This year there is a somewhat different feeling. Many yachtsmen, who would not lift a finger to hinder Rainbow or aid Endeavour, are saying it would be a good thing for yachting if the cup went across the ocean and America had to go over and get it again. The fact Sopwith sails his own boat may have something to do with it.

But it is not a matter of sentiment with Harold S. Vanderbilt. He is as deadly at the wheel of a racing yacht as at a bridge table and as little likely to favor an opponent.

MONARCHS AND MILLS PLAY TWO GAMES TODAY

The Mills baseball team will play the Kansas City Monarchs, Negro National league champions, in a double-header at Mills stadium, Kilpatrick and Lake streets, this afternoon. On July 4 the two teams split a double-header.

The Colored All-Stars will play the Duffy Florals at Shrewbridge field in the second double-header of the season between the two teams. The Duffys won both games.

Games today:
Kansas City Monarchs at Mills stadium, Kilpatrick and Lake streets [two games].
Nilesen's Colored All-Stars vs. Duffy Florals at Shrewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets [two games].
Chicago Firemen at Fort Atkinson, Wis.
Joe Green's Chicago Giants at Benton Harbor, Mich.

Martin, American Bowling Congress President, Dies

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Albert F. Martin, 63 years old, president of the American Bowling Congress and district claim agent for the Louisville and Nashville railroad, died today at his home after a heart attack. He had been connected with the L. and N. railroad 47 years. He organized the Louisville Bowling association 25 years ago, and last March became president of the A. B. C. Funeral services will be held Tuesday.

Browns, Reds Get Tough in Major Races

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The mighty pennant contenders of the major leagues found some surprises in store for them during the past week when a couple of humble representatives of the second divisions arose to share in the spotlight with the leaders.

Rogers Hornsby's St. Louis Browns, striving to take affirm hold on fifth place in the American league, put together a winning streak that no other club in either circuit could equal. After losing the first game of the week, they ran their string to five straight with a double-header victory over Chicago today, after being temporarily checked by a tie with the White Sox Saturday.

Cards Charge On.

Their townsmen, the Cardinals, who charged into second place in the National league with four victories in five games, had 'he next best record, but their supremacy in their own circuit was challenged by the lowly Cincinnati Reds, who won three games before losing.

END OF INTEREST ON BONUS LOANS SOUGHT BY HAYES

Illinois Legion Holding Annual Parley.

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—Elimination of interest on government bonus loans and legislation making the universal draft effective in case of war were named as the two goals of the Legion here today. The speaker was National Commander Edward A. Hayes of Decatur, here for the sixteenth annual Illinois state convention which started yesterday.

Commander Hayes made it equally clear, however, that officials of the Legion are keeping their hands off the bonus issue while the rank and file democratically express themselves upon the question.

"I want the men to think for themselves on the bonus issue," he said. "Officials of the Legion will not attempt to dictate the bonus policy to the rank and file. We are waiting for an expression from them." Commander Hayes reviewed the outcome of his four point legislative program with satisfaction.

Lists Four Objectives Won.

Briefly the four objectives of the Legion under Commander Hayes were:

1. Restoration of money taken from service connected disabled men. Result, 30 million dollars restored by congress.

2. Hospitalization for veterans who couldn't provide it for themselves. Result, provision for this was written into law.

3. Restoration of so-called presumptive disabilities compensation. Result, restored to 75 per cent of what they had been prior to national economy act. This meant 10 millions a year.

4. Placing of widows and orphans of world war veterans under provisions governing widows and orphans of the soldiers of other wars. Result, part of program won, but fight still on to score complete victory.

Believe Aims Misunderstood.

Commander Hayes declared his belief that the Legion's objectives of helping disabled veterans have been distorted in the public's eyes.

Inclement weather failed to dampen the convention visitors. The Forty and Eight staged its big parade last night between showers, while old J. Pluvius walked around with the "buddies" all day Sunday. Bands and drum corps from practically every post in Illinois swarmed the city today for the big parade Monday afternoon.

Two Chicagoans, Mrs. Martha Kruse, 6333 Addison street, and Mrs. May Ross, 5611 Addison street, were slightly injured by an exploding torpedo touched off by one of the Legionnaires attending the state convention. They were taken to a hospital for treatment.

It seems likely that Paul G. Armstrong, present senior vice commander, will be the Legion's choice for the new state commander, succeeding Charles C. Kapschull. Indications tonight pointed to a warm race for the senior vice commander post, with at least six candidates in the field.

W. E. Conrow, Masonic and Church Leader, Dies

William E. Conrow, 47 years old, prominent in church and Masonic circles in south side Chicago, died of heart disease Saturday evening at his home, 1527 East Sixty-sixth place. Mr Conrow was treasurer of the Masonic History Publishing company. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the First Presbyterian church, 64th street and Kimbark avenue, of which he was an elder. He is survived by the widow, a daughter, Louise, and a son, William.

Woman Wed in Presence of President Lincoln Dies

Anderson, Ind., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Chandler, 92, who was married in the White House in the presence of Abraham Lincoln in August, 1861, died here today. She and James Chandler, childhood sweethearts in Virginia, eloped to the national capital and found it occupied by soldiers. They sought refuge at the White House. President Lincoln invited them immediately after they had stated the purpose of their visit.

BURNS TO DEATH WHEN AUTO HITS BRIDGE RAILING

Watseka Store Manager Killed in Crash.

A man believed to have been William P. Leonard, 32 years old, 2839 North Menard avenue, was burned to death early today when his automobile caught fire after crashing into a guard rail of the Lincoln avenue bridge over the drainage canal, north of Peterson avenue.

The car was being driven southeast in Lincoln avenue when the crash occurred. The driver, apparently knocked unconscious, was unable to make any move to free himself, and the blaze was so fierce that would be rescuers were unable to approach the car.

At the residence it was said that Leonard, a printer, had driven out to some golf club to the northwest to attend a party in the evening and had been expected back around midnight.

Store Manager Killed.

Wesley Wagner, 28 years old, manager of an Atlantic and Pacific Tea company store at Watseka, Ill., was fatally injured early yesterday when an automobile in which he was riding collided with an Interstate Transit Lines bus at Wacker drive and Dearborn street.

Robert Ward, 22 years old, of Watseka and Harry Glynn, 19, of Bement, Ill., Wagner's companions, incurred minor injuries. All were taken to Henrotin hospital, where Wagner died. Ward, driver of the car, and Charles Buckland, 28 years old, 733 Lafayette street, the bus driver, were held.

Another Dies in Aurora.

The death toll of an automobile collision Saturday near Naperville, Du Page county, mounted to five yesterday with the death of Mrs. Myra Garvin, 28 years old, of Atalissa, Ia., in the St. Charles hospital in Aurora.

The other four dead were J. F. Garvin, 28 years old, husband of Myra; Ivan Schmidt, 33, and his wife, 30, all of Atalissa, and Dr. Russell Penhale, 30, of 1331 North Dearborn street, a dentist, with offices at 55 East Washington street.

The deaths of Wagner, the man in the Lincoln avenue crash, and two others raised the 1934 Cook county death toll to 807. The other victims:

Robert L. Colbert, 45 years old, of 9521 North Central avenue, an inspector in the bureau of industrial alcohol, treasury department, was fatally injured last night when an automobile he was driving skidded on the wet pavement before 2347 Elston avenue and crashed into a safety island. He died on the way to St. Mary's hospital.

Irving Sienson, 25 years old, 3052 Lock street, died in St. Luke's hospital early yesterday of injuries incurred when he was struck at Outer drive and Congress street earlier in the night by a car driven by Jack Simunic, 24 years old, of 3215 East 91st street.

Rain Causes Gary Fatality.

Roy Miller, 50 years old, 1533 Jackson street, Gary, died in Mercy hospital there as a result of injuries incurred yesterday when he was struck at 15th avenue and Jackson street in Gary by the automobile of Joe Katz, 35 years old, of 800 Washington street, in the Indiana suburb. Katz told police rain obscured his vision.

Word was received yesterday of the death of Mrs. W. P. Kelly, 81 years old, 5610 Ingleside avenue. Saturday in Mercy hospital at Benton Harbor, Mich., as a result of injuries incurred when an automobile in which she was riding with a daughter and granddaughter was forced off the highway near Bridgman, Mich., by a hit and run automobile. Mrs. Kelly was a resident of Chicago for 60 years.

WM. R. RUFFNER DIES; COFFEE AND SUGAR IMPORTER

William R. Ruffner, 62 years old, coffee and sugar importer, died yesterday in his home, 1408 Dean avenue, Highland Park. Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at the home. Burial will be in North Shore cemetery.

Mr. Ruffner was born in Chicago in 1872 and had lived here or in the suburbs all his life. He entered the employ of the Arbuckle Brothers coffee company in 1890 and two years later began his own importing concern which he headed for seven years, later founding a second company. Since 1906 he had been president of the Ruffner, McDowell & Burch Co.

He was married in 1908 to Miss Mary L. Underwood of Dayton, who survives him. He also is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Harrison Todd of Schenectady, N. Y., and the Misses Virginia and Louise.

Mr. Ruffner was a member of the Chicago Association of Commerce and belonged to the Chicago Athletic association and the Exmoor country club.

THEATER FOLK AT LAST TRIBUTE TO DILLINGHAM

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The people of the theater gathered at the bier of Charles B. Dillingham today and paid their last homage to the veteran producer who had helped so many of them along the tortuous road to stardom.

In the flower banked nave of the Church of the Transfiguration, "the Little Church Around the Corner," they bowed their heads and wept as the Rev. Randolph Ray intoned "Father, in thy gracious keeping leave we now thy servant sleeping."

Outside in the street an overflow crowd, estimated by police at 1,000, stood silently as a quartet from the Lambs club sang "Lead, Kindly Light."

Dorothy Stone, dancing daughter of Fred Stone wept hysterically and had to be assisted from the church as Edwin Milton Royle delivered a brief eulogy.

Radio Station Engineer Electrocuted in Accident

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Harold F. Watts, 34, chief engineer of KFEQ radio station here, was electrocuted today when his foot came into contact with a high voltage terminal in the generator room of the transmitting station.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

"The Bridge Club of the Air," conducted by Louis J. Haddad, will be opened over W-G-N at 9:15 o'clock tomorrow evening. The program will also be heard at the same hour Friday evenings. Mr. Haddad last year directed the radio bridge club over WMAQ. "The Supreme Court of Bridge" is presented over W-G-N at 7:30 on Sunday and Thursday evenings, with Edward Lagron as chief justice. A third arbiter of bridge in THE TRIBUNE family is P. Hal Sims, who discusses "Conquering Contract" every day in the columns of THE TRIBUNE.

Dorothy Page, formerly heard with Seymour Simons over W-G-N, will become the featured singer on Jan Garber's commercial broadcast over WLS-NBC beginning next Monday, Sept. 10. The show will be called Jan Garber's Supper Club. Additional talent on the show includes Bob White, who will play the part of a newspaper columnist; Elinor Harriott, a hat check girl; Ed Prentiss, a playboy, and Virginia Lee, a maid.

Ted Fio-Rito, former Edgewater Beach maestro, will arrive tomorrow for a week's visit with friends before returning to the west coast to open an engagement at the Cocoanut Grove in Los Angeles. His new radio show, "Hollywood Hotel," opens Oct. 5. Vincent Lopez will open at the Beverly Wilshire hotel in Los Angeles on Sept. 25. Lopez also will be featured on the NBC Demitasse Revue from the coast, an account which Ruth Etting and Guy Lombardo have had the last year.

Annette Hanshaw's "Show Boat" cruise is drawing to a close. Her last appearance with Capt. Henry's troupe will be Sept. 13. Not only is she leaving the Show Boat but also NBC. Her next engagement will be with the Columbia system, where she will be featured on a two a week cigaret series being built around Walter O'Keefe, who wrote "The Man on the Flying Trapeze," and Glen Gray's Casa Loma orchestra.

Abe Lyman's orchestra will open a week's engagement at the Chicago theater next Friday. This means that his sponsored program, "Waltz Time," will be aired from local NBC headquarters on Friday evening.

When Hal Kemp leaves the Blackhawk and W-G-N late this month for the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York an up and coming west coast band is likely to be found in his place.

Art Kassel, who is playing at the General Motors exhibit at the Fair this week-end, will have an NBC microphone when he goes back to the Bismarck hotel Sept. 14. Two weeks later he will launch his CBS commercial with Pat Kennedy, the Irish tenor.

Eddie East of the Sisters of the Skillet has been handling a tough assignment for a couple of weeks. While Ralph Dumke, who usually presides over the other frying pan, has been in Johns Hopkins hospital for a throat operation Eddie has been playing both roles single handed.

CLARA S. FOLTZ, FAMED WOMAN LAWYER, IS DEAD

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, long a champion of women's suffrage in the United States and the first woman to be admitted to the bar on the Pacific coast, died today at her home here after a long illness due to heart trouble. She was a sister of former United States Senator Samuel Shortridge of California.

For many years Mrs. Foltz was active in Republican politics, and in 1930 ran for the Republican nomination for governor.

Mrs. Foltz broke down the bars admitting women to practice law in California. She sued the directors of Hastings college of law at the University of California to admit herself and other women as law students and obtained a writ, forcing her admittance.

Mrs. Foltz was born in Indiana, her parents settling at San Jose, Cal. Her husband, J. D. Foltz, died several years ago. They were parents of two sons and three daughters, only one of whom, Mrs. J. W. Catron of Santa Fe, N. M., survives.

DR. W. J. FISHER, METEOR EXPERT, DIES IN EAST

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Dr. Willard James Fisher, one of the world's leading authorities on meteors and lunar eclipses, died at his home today of angina pectoris. He was 66. He was a lecturer on astronomy at Harvard observatory.

Formerly for many years instructor in physics at Cornell, he had also been associated with the faculties of universities in Hawaii and Manila.

Several years ago Dr. Fisher organized observation of lunar eclipses. At his request missionaries, Eskimos, Canadian mounted police, Hudson Bay employes, the United States navy and merchant marine made observations during the periods of eclipses. One missonary made a two weeks' trip by dog team to reach a certain point to make an observation.

MRS. KATHARINE TAYLOR, HOME DECORATOR, DIES

Mrs. Katharine Rinehart Taylor, 62 years old, who for the last decade was consulting interior decorator in the antique galleries at Marshall Field & Co., died early Saturday morning at the Presbyterian hospital. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. today at Graceland chapel.

She is survived by her husband, George Halleck Taylor, 59 East Division street; one son, Leonard M. Prince, 63 East Division street, and a sister, Mrs. Samuel N. Holliday of New York. Interment will be private.

Fanny Davies, 73, Is Dead; Noted European Pianist

[Copyright; 1934; By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Miss Fanny Davies, one of the foremost European pianists of a generation ago, died here yesterday at the age of 73. She was one of the few remaining links with the great names of nineteenth century music. A pupil of Clara Schumann, she frequently appeared with Joachim, the violinist, on concert platforms in England and Germany. She appeared with Tchaikovsky in Leipsig and was a personal friend of Brahms.

GRAINS IGNORE BULLISH NEWS; MOVE LOWER

Traders Blame U. S. for Dullness.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A paradox was presented in the action of the grain market last week. Several developments demonstrated that the country faces an acute feed situation. Until late in the week conditions in the southwestern winter wheat belt were extremely unpromising for the planting of the new crop.

News on the Canadian crop was anything but favorable and it is now apparent that the wheat crop there will not show material improvement over 1933. From Australia came the information that the country will have to cut its wheat exports down this year by about 72,000,000 bushels. Ample confirmation of the crop disaster in this country was furnished in the estimates of the leading private crop authorities. Reports from Argentina indicated normal conditions.

Bullish News Ignored.

Still with the news budget preprominately bullish the prices of most grain declined. Explanation of the indifferent action of the market may be attributed to many factors but the grain trade is virtually unanimous in its agreement that the administration's attitude toward speculation is responsible.

Perhaps this explanation can be qualified somewhat but few traders in the grain pit will admit that the low ebb of speculation is due to any other cause. The conclusion is unescapable that the frowns official Washington has made at the commodity exchanges, and particularly the Chicago Board of Trade, have discouraged speculative operations.

A comparison of the prices of grain futures with the prices which the actual grain is commanding in the cash market is perhaps the best clew to the paradoxical market trend. The cash market and the stiff premiums which grains are bringing over the future quotation is unmistakable evidence of the consumer demand.

Feed Threat Not Denied.

Even the most sanguine will not deny that the feed situation is extremely unpromising and that the winter months may bring us much hardship. Under ordinary circumstances a speculator in the grain market will subscribe to the theory that where the cash prices of grains go, the future quotations must follow. The theory is not so much doubted. Traders are merely not using it as a working basis at the present time.

The reason seems to be that the same uncertainty which is felt in business, industry and finance over the general outlook also is affecting the attitude of the grain speculators. Until a vista of the business future is clearer than the present, uncertainty is likely to continue. Or, perhaps, in the grain market the sentiment will change when the actual pinch of the shortage is felt.

Unless some new incentive is presented that will stir the grain market into activity there appears to be little prospect of a decided change in the near future. Some broadening of speculative activity is looked for after Labor day by brokers. The sentiment is as much a wish as a belief, however.

Range of Prices.

	High.	Low.	Sept. 1.	Aug. 25.	Close

Edward J. Barrett, state auditor, has authorized payment of 5 per cent amounting to $44,225 to the depositors of the Maywood State bank, Maywood, Ill. This is the second payment since the bank closed, bringing the total to 10 per cent.

ARGENTINA PREDICTS REDUCTION IN WHEAT ACREAGE FOR 1934-'35

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The Argentine ministry of agriculture today issued the first official forecast for the 1934-'35 wheat season, as follows:

Sowing will be 7,480,000 hectares [a hectare is 2.471 acres], which is 477,000 hectares below the 1933-'34 season and 6.2 per cent lower than the average for the preceding five years. Compared with the record season of 1928-'29 when 9,229,000 hectares were sown, the reduction amounts to 18.9 per cent.

The announcement of a reduction is believed significant, as the Argentine representatives to the recent sessions of the world wheat parley steadfastly refused to enter into crop reduction pacts, according to reports released from the meetings.

Other sowings forecast are: Flaxseed, 2,920,000 hectares, against 2,773,000 in 1933-'34; oats, 1,350,000, against 1,443,000; barley, 845,000, against 721,000; rye, 770,000, against 715,000; corn, not estimated.

Elevator Pool Urged to Aid Rails, Traders

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Proposals that the railroad-owned grain elevator facilities at Chicago, Peoria, and other interior terminal cities be pooled to insure greater returns for transportation companies and a more equitable distribution of market profit for traders have been released by Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation.

The report, prepared by J. A. Little, research assistant, said his survey convinced him the present system of each major line owning or controling terminal grain facilities in hope of increasing their revenues was unfair to both carriers and merchandisers.

"Suppose all such elevators were transferred to a new company formed by pooling the existing properties in the hands of a new corporation organized to own and operate such properties for all lines," Little said.

Cites Pool Benefits.

"With such complete control of terminal elevators the new management could fix rates for storage, cleaning, drying, mixing, and other elevator services on a basis which would produce a fair return over and above all expenses."

Under existing conditions, he continued, lessees of railroad-owned elevators have an advantage over grain merchandisers who do not have facilities. Little said a president of a western line recently expressed the conviction that existing elevator facilities at Chicago were inadequate and that his line was contemplating construction of a new elevator.

"If his opinion concerning the inadequacy of existing facilities be sound," Little said, "the question arises whether the proposed capital expenditure ought to be made with an eye to the supposed needs of the particular railroad involved or should funds be invested in harmony with some well considered plan for providing more adequate facilities so located as to serve other line haul carriers as well."

Speaks of "Strife."

Plunging into a lengthy discussion of the "bitter strife" which Little said had existed between the state of Illinois and the Chicago Board of Trade, he declared six operators in that city controled by leases total elevator capacity of 19,660,000 bushels. Under board rules and state laws, he continued, this made available to them trade advantages such as "mixing" and storing against futures, out of question for other operators.

If all of Chicago's elevators were brought under a pooling company, Little said, "every grain operator in Chicago would be accorded an opportunity to use such elevator facilities on equal terms and the existing hybrid private-regular houses would disappear, so far as railroad elevators are concerned at least.

"The charge has repeatedly been made by various groups of individuals, and more recently by the United States department of agriculture grain futures administration that large scale operations of a few large Chicago traders, who control large stocks of deliverable, hedged grain in regular warehouses, are primarily responsible for speculative price fluctuations and the movement of 'future' prices out of relation to the commodity situation.

Charges Few Are Favored.

"The leasing of 27,000,000 bushels of railroad-owned elevator capacity at Chicago, and 38,000,000 bushels of elevator capacity at Kansas City to terminal operators at nominal or inadequate rentals, which give a favored few control of such facilities, places a premium on the continuance of that close control of these great cash and futures interests by a small group whose practices have been so vigorously but ineffectively criticized for a period of more than 50 years."

Little said he concluded that the futures market practices which the government is now seeking to regulate and the operation of terminal elevators by a small group are in close relation.

"I therefore conclude," he said, "that improvement of the grain marketing situation in the United States is inseparably related to the disposition of railroad-owned terminal elevator storage. The course I have recommended will probably kill two birds with one stone by improving railroad earnings and reducing cross-hauling of grain and, at the same time, providing the necessary fundamental basis for improved market practices."

SAN FRANCISCO MINT SHIPS MORE GOLD TO DENVER

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 2.—(AP)—The second shipment of gold since Wednesday was taken from the United States mint here tonight under heavy police and soldier guard for transfer to the mint at Denver. Details of the movement again were kept secret, but it was unofficially reported the new shipment was valued at approximately $75,000,000.

The gold bars were taken from the mint to a special train in United States mail trucks. Soldiers from the San Francisco Presidio were assigned to guard the train.

Unofficial estimates of the total gold to be transferred in the shipments now under way placed it at $2,000,000,000.

Deep Rock Oil Readjusts Its Prices for Fuel Oil

The Deep Rock Oil corporation announced that effective today a further reduction in fuel oils will be made. No. 2 fuel oil has been reduced from 6¾ to 6½ cents. In addition, the company announced a reduction of No. 3 fuel oil from 6¼ to 6 cents per gallon, and an increase in No. 4 fuel oil from 5 to 5½ cents.

SMALL STEEL ORDERS HINT OF RISE IN DEMAND

Production Falls 2 Points to 18.5%.

Despite a decline in operations rate of two points to 18½ per cent of capacity and retrenchment to the five day week for salaried employes in the iron and steel industry, a moderate improvement in demand is expected this month that will gain momentum with the fall season, says the magazine Steel.

Last week there was an increase in the number of small orders from a diversified list of consumers which is believed to be the forerunner of improvement, indicating the depletion of general manufacturing stocks.

The reduction of steel salaries will save producers $10,000,000 a year on the basis of July payments, or just about the amount of the deficit in the first quarter of the year, but the cut will apply to only one month of this quarter.

September Test Period.

It is believed that this month may bring the real test in steel prices since their advance three months ago, as consumers generally have operated so far on stocks previously acquired.

The decline in operations for the country during the week resulted from losses of 2 points to 27½ per cent at Chicago, 1½ to 18½ in eastern Pennsylvania, 3 to 18 at Youngstown, 4 to 25 in New England, and 4½ to 19 at Buffalo. Birmingham showed a gain of 5 points to 30 per cent of capacity while Pittsburgh held at 77, Wheeling at 26, and Cleveland at 15.

Awards of steel for navy ships placed with private yards amounted to 7,000 tons last week while awards this week are expected to total 3,000 tons. On Sept. 14 the navy department will begin to take bids for 25,000 tons of steel for 13 ships to be built in navy yards and can be expected to be in the market for the next few months.

Automobile production last week dropped sharply to barely 30,000 units when Ford and other manufacturers continued closed.

Structural Awards Gain.

Structural awards during the week increased to 15,790 tons from the 10,385 tons of the preceding week. Bids are to be taken soon on 13,000 tons for New York's downtown postoffice and 18,000 tons of reinforcing bars and 5,000 tons of pipe for the Wiote, Mont., dam. It is reported that Shell interests are placing a heavy tonnage of plate for refinery work in Venezuela and that the Sun Oil company of Philadelphia is contemplating the laying of a 100 mile pipe line from Philadelphia to the northern New Jersey coast.

Scrap prices have suffered the sharpest loss this year with the steel scrap composite down 25 cents to $9.58 a ton. The iron and steel price composite is down 5 cents to $32.17 while the finished steel index remains at $54.

RFC SELLS C. & O. $1,200,000 ISSUE TO BANK GROUP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 2.—A syndicate headed by Stroud & Co., Inc., and including Graham, Parsons & Co., and Sadler & Co. announced today that it had been awarded by the Reconstruction Finance corporation an issue of $1,200,000 Chesapeake and Ohio Railway company 4 per cent equipment trust certificates. The certificates, dated May 29, 1934, and payable $150,000 semi-annually from Sept. 1, 1936 to 1940, will be reoffered to investors in a few days.

These certificates are part of a total of $6,000,000 of various railroad and municipal securities taken over by the Reconstruction Finance corporation from the Public Works administration in order to create a revolving fund for the latter. The securities were offered on Aug. 20 through competitive bidding.

Metal Exchange President Is Sought for Mail Fraud

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Pierce Lonergan, president of the Seattle Metal exchange, was sought tonight on a federal warant charging him with violation of the mail fraud statutes in connection with the operations of the exchange. Investigators said investors had lost approximately $100,000.

Silver Plan Recalls U. S. "Economy"

The nationalization of silver recalls the efforts of the Mellon treasury administration to further Coolidge economy by encouraging the popular use of silver dollars instead of dollar bills. The latter, it seems, wear out and it costs money to replace them.

CHARLES S. DEWEY

In the summer of 1925, however, the effort was given a up as a bad job. Accordingly the funeral of Mr. Silver Dollar was conducted at a treasury department get-together. Charles S. Dewey, then assistant secretary of the treasury, has Mr. Dollars coffin and death certificate tucked away among his momentoes. Last week he brought out the little souvenir, with its slightly tarnished body inside.

The death certificate, signed by Dr. Knot Wanted, states that death was caused by "poor circulation from coast to coast." Excess weight was a contributing cause. Reduction of the size of paper currency followed on failure of the silver dollar economy effort.

La Salle street's latest gag is a promisary note "designed to do away with old, antiquated and obsolete methods of industry, honesty and thrift and to guard against the overproduction of pigs." It runs in part:

"For value received, two years after date, unless,

"The time of payment be extended by law, or

"The obligation to be paid be utterly terminated by law resulting from economic depression, low prices for produce, drouth, fire pestilence, or unpaid school teachers, or

"There shall exist some situation thought to be an emergency,

"I promise to pay $00 dollars, unless

"Some other things or nothing be made a lawful form of money, with interest at the rate of 00 per cent per annum unless some other rate be established by law, semi-annually, unless the calendar be abolished.

"The makers agree that they will not work more than 30 hours weekly, that they will save nothing and spend everything to give money circulation, that they will borrow all they can and obtain all monies a beneficent congress will grant, that they will destroy all live stock, produce or commodities which might contribute toward overproduction.

"It is hereby agreed that an emergency exists and that we will not pay this note if we do not want to do so, and we do not want to."

Hoskins Manufacturing Votes 25c Extra Dividend

Directors of the Hoskins Manufacturing company have declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock and the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents, both payable Sept. 25 to stock of record Sept. 11.

CANADA GOVERNMENT IS ASKED TO BUY UP DROUTH AREA CATTLE

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Seeking assistance for farmers in the drouth belts of the three prairie provinces, the west pressed the dominion government over the week-end to lift 125,000 head of cattle in those areas off the market.

The dominion authorities made no decision, but they have before them strong recommendations for immediate action.

At two conferences Saturday, G. A. Taggart, Saskatchewan minister of agriculture, and Robert Wright, president of the Western Canada Live Stock union, urged Robert Weir, dominion minister of agriculture, to take the action.

The west's delegation's plan, it was learned, was that 60 per cent of the 125,000 head surplus be processed and sold as boneless meat. Of the remainder, approximately 25 per cent would be used as feeders in various districts, and 15 per cent as "tankage," for hog feed.

Saskatchewan has the largest percentage of the total, with about 75,000 head. In Manitoba, the estimated number of cattle involved in the plan would be about 20,000, with the balance of the total in Alberta.

STANDARD OIL COMPANIES PAY MORE THIS YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 2.—Cash dividend payments by the companies of the old Standard Oil group in the first nine months of 1934 are estimated at $101,537,187, compared with $86,480,455 in the similar period last year, an increase of $15,056,732, in figures compiled by Carl H. Pforzheimer & Co., members of the New York Stock exchange.

In the third quarter the disbursements of this group of companies are estimated at $18,582,065, as compared with $58,698,141 in the preceding quarter.

Several companies have resumed dividend payments and others have increased their rates since the third quarter of last year. The Ohio Oil company declared another dividend of 15 cents a share this quarter. In June of this year Ohio Oil resumed dividend payments after having suspended them since December, 1932.

The Socony Vacuum Oil company, which omitted dividends in the second and third quarters of last year, resumed distributions in December, 1933, and since has continued making quarterly payments. The Standard Oil Company of Kansas, which had not paid any dividends since March, 1931, resumed payments in January.

CANADIANS TOLD FEED SHORTAGE WILL AID WHEAT

OTTAWA, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Good news for the Canadian wheat industry was brought back from the London meeting of the world wheat advisory committee by John I. McFarland, Canada's representative, who asserted today that shortage of coarse grains for stock feed would end the wheat surplus problem temporarily at least.

McFarland, general manager of the central selling agency of Canadian wheat pools, passing through Ottawa en route to Winnipeg, advised farmers to market their product in an orderly manner, selling gradually during the ensuing months.

The situation of world shortage of feed grains was unprecedented, he said, and he predicted that surplus wheat would be absorbed for feed purposes, since coarse grains are even now being sold at prices equivalent to those being received for wheat. The situation, McFarland said, was such as to warant higher wheat prices than now prevail.

Urge Agency Make Housing Loans for New York Banks

New York, Sept. 2.—Creation of a general cooperative agency to handle all housing modernization loans on behalf of New York City banks has been proposed by the Kings County Bankers' association, which requested the New York Clearing House association to take the initiative in forming such an agency.

Markets, Banks Take Holiday Today

Principal business and financial activity throughout the nation will be suspended today in observance of the Labor day holiday. Banks, security and commodity markets, and most industrial plants will be closed.

Companies Lag in Requesting Registration of Stocks Here

With only eight more business days remaining before the deadline, less than one-third of the concerns with stock listed on the Chicago Stock Exchange have applied for registration of their securities under terms of the recent federal legislation. Up to Saturday noon, applications numbered 106 of the 351 now carried on the books.

Stock exchange officials, however, expressed little concern over the slowness with which applications have been received. They were worried more about the prospect of a last minute rush to get under the line.

Assails Laxity of Firms.

"This is just like everything else," commented one official, "they wait until the last minute. We're really lucky to have 106 in now, but it ought to be 212 by next Saturday." In the first ten days after applications were invited by M. J. O'Brien, president of the exchange, just 44 companies returned necessary data. During the last week the rate has accelerated to an average of a dozen daily.

Officials still contend that practically every one of the 351 companies will seek registration with the exchange. They base their opinion of indications that unlisted securities will be subject to regulations fully as stringent or more so than if they were on an exchange. They contend that there is no advantage to dropping out, and that companies will prefer to remain as they are now.

Privately—but never for quotation—both brokers and exchange officials are becoming increasingly hopeful that regulations to be laid down by the securities and exchange commission will be reasonable in most instances, if not all that could be desired.

Ruling Uncovers Errors.

An interesting development of the present registration, according to officials, has been to show that a number of companies do not know how much stock they have listed. Other errors have been found in addition to the frequent mistakes of a few shares.

"If we had been smart," confessed an official of the exchange, "we would have done as they did in Boston—filled out everything in our office and then just sent out the applications for signature. It seems difficult enough to get quick action by directorates without the added trouble of checking applications and then returning them for correction. This has slowed us up quite a little."

Rails' Trial of Low Fares Boosts Trafic

Executives of the leading western railroads are satisfied with the results to date of their experiment with low passenger fares as a means of drawing the general traveling public back to the railroads, according to Hugh W. Siddall of the Western Passenger association. Mr. Siddall said that only a few of the executives are opposed to the experiment.

ROBT. THOMSON.

"The experiment will continue until Sept. 30, 1935," Mr. Siddall said. "So far it has been uniformly successful. The roads have not made the strong gains in their passenger business during July and August such as were the rule in preceding months.

Have Met Obstacles.

"There have been some unusual conditions, such as the drouth, which have served to reduce travel. Then business conditions have not been so good in recent months. However, we have hopes that before winter rolls around again our passenger traffic will pick up again.

"With respect to travel to A Century of Progress, we find that individual travel is about as good as last year, but organized travel has fallen below the 1933 volume.

"The roads still have a number of trumps to play in their efforts to bring back the public to the passenger service. There are the new streamlined trains, capable of attaining high speed with new comforts and conveniences, which should prove popular with the public. Then there is the possibility of extending the air conditioning of passenger coaches.

"Our experience with air conditioning has been satisfactory so far and before next summer we hope to have as many air conditioned sleepers in use on the western roads as are now found in the east."

North Western Gains.

Robert Thomson, passenger traffic manager of the North Western, recently stated that the reduced fares had played an important part in attracting passenger travel to his road. He said that the lower fares had helped to bring 633,446 more passengers to his road than were handled in the same period of 1933.

"That much of the returning travel was of a local nature is indicated by the fact that during the same period the increase in passenger miles [one count for every mile each passenger was carried] was 37,000,000, or 29 per cent over the same six months of 1933," Mr. Thomson said.

He explained that the fares were reduced to bring back short haul business to the roads, and apparently they are accomplishing their purpose.

REPORT POLISH TEXTILE MILLS NEAR CAPACITY

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—With the purchase of American raw cotton increased by 40 per cent in the first half of 1934, the textile industry of Poland has been working for some time at almost 100 per cent capacity, according to a report received by the Gdynia-American line. There are 445 textile mills with nearly 2,000,000 spindles in operation today in Poland, employing more than 100,000 workers.

In the first six months of this year, the United States supplanted Germany as the principal source of Poland's imports. Germany is now in second place, followed by the United Kingdom, Australia, France, and Austria. The United Kingdom continues to be the principal outlet for Polish exports.

Quincy, Ill., Bank Plans to Open in Three Weeks

Quincy, Ill., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—The State Street Bank and Trust company, which closed in December, 1932, will open for business in about three weeks, it was announced today. The last of the 50 per cent deposit waivers asked for has been signed. At the time of closing deposits amounted to $4,000,000.

Dells Paper and Pulp Co. Plant Sold to Florida Firm

Eau Claire, Wis., Sept. 2.—Sale of the Dells Paper and Pulp company plant here, for 40 years one of the city's foremost industrial assets, to the Sterling Industries, Inc., of Florida, has been announced by Stephen R. Davis, president of the local company. Transfer of the plant will take place Sept. 1. The new owners announce they plan to operate the plant at capacity. New equipment will be installed, officials said.

LABOR STRIFE PROVES HEAVY STOCK BURDEN

Prices Sag During Most of Week.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 2.—[Special.]—In a week crowded with further disturbing developments on the strife-torn labor front, against a background of interesting political news, the stock market has remained anchored in a narrow sluggish channel.

With the market feeding the ticker only enough activity to maintain headway, the course has held moderately downward. The price averages worked lower five days out of the six. The gain on the one day, Friday, was limited to a small fraction of a point. No volume accompanied the sell-off, however, the week culminating in the dullest Saturday in sixteen years.

Developments Unfavorable.

Usually dull and uneventful, the week before Labor day this year has seen the stage dramatically alive with news bearing on the fortunes of Wall street. Rather than affording business the necessary footholds which it has been groping for in its recovery climb, however, developments on balance were calculated to have had an opposite effect.

Hanging in the balance, observers believed, was a test of the New Deal philosophy at a critical stage in its life, with the lines rapidly drawing up for the November congressional elections.

First and foremost in the sequence of unsettling events was the calling of a general strike in the textile industry. Theoretically declared Saturday night, the strike goes into practical effect Tuesday, and comes at a time when the industry with other business enters upon the period of normal fall trade pickup. To what extent the walkout will derange the industry financially will depend, it was said, upon its duration.

Salary Cuts Significant.

On top of this there were announced salary reductions for "white collar" workers in the steel industry, together with reported labor layoffs by the railroads. The steel salary move, according to some observers, bore the prospects of being extended to mill wage, which action, it was held, might have strike repercussions.

These developments were accompanied by the usual weekly output of trade statistics, which indicated that further recession was occurring, although there persisted the hope of recovery after the Labor day holidays.

The net effect was to bear down on stocks, bonds, and commodities, with the solace that no bad break occurred and trading volume was small.

See Political Maneuver.

Another factor that entered the equation was the statement by the secretary of the treasury, reënforced by confirmation from President Roosevelt, on the status of the public debt, the cost of the New Deal, and the probable disposition of the billions of book "profit" flowing to the treasury on gold dollar devaluation. The statement was regarded as a political maneuver designed to reassure the public at large, but it possibly did something to discourage speculators who have been counting on an early inflationary movement.

The announcement by the secretary of the treasury that the Sept. 15 financing would include an offer to the holders of called Fourth Liberty bonds, but that the treasury would do nothing more than attempt to "roll over" the coming maturities, requesting no new money, was mildly pleasing to the financial district. It has been known that the treasury desired to eliminate its debt maturities this month so as to leave no financing hurdle to be leaped just before election day.

50 N. Y. STOCKS DECLINE 4.28% FOR LAST WEEK

The market value of 50 representative stocks on the New York Stock exchange at the close of last week was $11,697,761,900, a decline of $523,771,435, or 4.28 per cent, from the previous week, according to Paul H. Davis & Co. At the close of the same week last year these stocks were valued at $14,480,327,750, a decrease for the year of 19.22 per cent.

Twenty-five leading stocks on the Chicago Stock exchange had a value at the close of the week of $484,702,688, a drop of $18,103,500, or 3.60 per cent, compared with the previous week's total of $502,806,188 and of $596,506,438 at the same period last year, a decrease of 18.74 per cent.

Alton Calls Back 100 Shop Workers Laid Off Recently

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 2.—[Special.]—One hundred men laid off work in the Alton shops here during the last week of August will be called back to work next Tuesday, Shop Superintendent Joseph Schneeberger announced today. The usual force of 500 men in the shops was reduced to 200 Aug. 22 in order to trim expenses. A force of 300 will work there beginning Tuesday.

N. Y. Produce Exchange to Register Securities

The board of managers of the New York Produce exchange has authorized the securities market on the exchange to apply for registration as a national securities exchange under the securities exchange act of 1934.

Brokers Ask Simplification of Stock Trade Margin Rule

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 2.—Although the securities exchange act of 1934 suggests minimum margin requirements beginning with Oct. 1, there is a distinct possibility, brokers believe, that the federal reserve board may scrap these suggestions in favor of a simpler and more workable margin rule.

Under the act the federal reserve is given complete jurisdiction over margin requirements, and may therefore raise or lower the standards suggested by the act for the "initial extension of credit." The maximum loan values for securities which are suggested in section 7A of the act may therefore be scrapped or amended now or later by the federal reserve at its discretion.

Have Asked Simplification.

Ever since the congress passed the act last June 1 brokers have been complaining of the complexity of the margin standards suggested in the law, and have been urging the reserve to simplify them. The fact that the law suggests two methods of computing the maximum loans which may be extended on securities—55 per cent of the current market price of a security, or 100 per cent of the lowest price of the security during the preceding thirty-six months, but not more than 75 per cent of the current market price—is only one of the reasons that brokers regard the suggested margin standards as unnecessarily confusing.

Another detail of the suggested standards that Wall street brokers regard as confusing is the promulgation of maximum loan values for securities, rather than minimum margins, or minimum equities. For many years the customers of brokerage firms have been accustomed to judge the stability of their trading or investment accounts on the equity or margins rather than on the basis of the maximum loan which his securities could collateralize.

Confusion Is Expected.

While the minimum margins suggested in the act may easily be computed by subtracting the maximum loan permitted from the market value of the security, brokers fear that even this relatively simple computation may confuse customers who have been schooled only in computing margins.

Still another factor in section 7A which is disliked by the brokers is the fact that the suggested standards would make it necessary to compute margins on the ratio of the equity to the market value, whereas bankers and brokers have for many years made such computations on the ratio of the equity of the debit balance in the account. Thus where a customer's account has an equity of $2,500, a debit balance of $7,500, and securities valued at $10,000, the margin, according to Wall street traditions, would be 33 1-3 per cent, or the ratio of $2,500 to $7,500, whereas on the basis suggested in the act, the margin would be 25 per cent, or the ratio of $2,500 to $10,000.

BOND MARKET UNSETTLED BY FEDERAL LIST

'Governments' Are Weak; Prime Group Firm.

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The declining trend of United States government securities caused some nervousness in the bond market last week, but most corporation loans were not exceptionally depressed.

Federal issues were in supply throughout the week and there was little indication of any substantial support by the treasury. Dealers attributed the softness of this group partly to uncertainty regarding Washington's forthcoming financing operations involving more than $1,700,000,000. The sharp decline of the British pound sterling, with its implications of a "currency war" and possible further depreciation of international exchanges, was also seen as a selling factor.

Expect Conversion Offer.

While bankers, generally, believed that the $525,000,000 of certificates which mature on Sept. 15, would be refunded in the usual manner, which was later confirmed by Secretary Morgenthau, faint rumors were heard that the treasury might decide to pay off this indebtedness with cash. So far as the $1,200,000,000 of Liberty Fourth 4¼s, called for Oct. 15, are concerned, there was no doubt but what some conversion offer would be made to holders of these bonds. The refunding terms, it was announced, will be made public Sept. 10.

Government loans exhibited mild rallying tendencies following the address of Treasury Secretary Morgenthau in which he said that the "profit" of about $2,800,000,000 derived from the reduction of the dollar's gold content, would be kept "under lock and key" for some time. It was stated that ultimately it was expected this "profit" would be used to cut the national debt.

Prime Group Dull.

Prime investment corporate bonds were dull but fairly steady. There were several strong spots due to individual circumstances. Rail liens were the principal sufferers. The plea of the roads to the interstate commerce commission for an increase in rates disclosed the precarious financial situation in which a number of the roads now find themselves.

In the foreign section German bonds exhibited weakness. The Young and Dawes plan issues bore the brunt of liquidation in this group when Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, announced that coupons of these loans would not be paid. The list suffered another drop when the Reichsbank official later said Germany should have an indefinite moratorium on her foreign indebtedness.

South American obligations, including those of Argentina, Chile, Peru, Uruguay, Colombia, and Brazil, developed strength.

Air-Way Electric Appliance.

Investors' Guide: I shall appreciate any information relative to Air-Way Electric Appliance.—Mrs. K. E.

Answer—Sales of Air-Way Electric Appliance corporation, manufacturer of vacuum cleaners and a unit for waxing floors, felt a sharp stimulus during the latter part of 1933 which has continued into 1934.

Net income for the 24 weeks to June 16, 1934, however, was $4,084, which was only 7 per cent of preferred dividend requirements, compared with net loss of $87,000 for the corresponding 1933 period.

In 1933 the company was able to limit its loss to $84,000. This compared with loss of $398,000 in 1932, loss of $316,000 in 1931, and net income of $563,000, or $1.07 per common share, for 1930. In 1929 net income was $1,684,000.

Although working capital during 1933 increased, larger sales called for a greater extension of credit than in 1932. Cash dropped about $110,000 and the company had to borrow $300,000 from banks. Current assets at the close of the year, including $382,000 cash, totaled $2,208,000, and current liabilities were $584,000.

There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 17,321 shares of 7 per cent $100 par cumulative preferred and 389,700 of no par common. Nothing has been paid on the preferred since July 1, 1931. Accumulated unpaid preferred dividends totaled $21 per share July 1, 1934. These must be paid before anything can be disbursed on the common.

The preferred is speculative and the common more so.

Bellows Falls Hydro-Electric.

Investors' Guide: Thank you for your satisfactory report. Please send information concerning Bellows Falls first 5s.—W. O. A.

Answer: Bellows Falls Hydro-Electric corporation is an operating company controlel by New England Power association, part of the International Hydro-Electric system. Its hydro-electric station on the Connecticut river has a capacity of 66,000 horse power and is connected with the transmission system of the parent company. Virtually all output is sold under satisfactory contracts.

The margin by which fixed charges have been covered consequently has shown little variation. Charges were earned 1.45 times in 1933, 1.31 times in 1932, 1.34 times in 1931, and 1.51 times in 1929. Annual depreciation charges are only about one-half of 1 per cent of property valuation.

The $9,000,000 first 5s, due 1958, constitute the only long term debt of the company. They are secured by all fixed assets as well as fixed contracts with New England Power company and Green Mountain Power corporation. They are currently callable at 102½.

The bonds are considered sound.

BUSINESS GROUP PREDICTS GAINS IN EMPLOYMENT

Finds Signs of Strength Despite Adversity.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—About 300,000 more persons will be employed in industry by December, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States predicted today in its fortnightly review. The striking feature about general conditions in midsummer, 1934, has been the evidence of strength in the face of adverse factors, the chamber holds.

Drouth over great areas, strikes and rumors of strikes, the political campaign, and the magnitude of the burden of relief have not been able to upset a fundamentally better condition, it holds.

Favorable factors cited in the situation are an increase of 55 per cent more in export on a dollar basis compared with an increase of only 40 per cent in imports on the same basis; an increase of 13 per cent in import of crude materials "usually forecasting domestic activity"; an increase of a good eighth in carloadings over the first half of last year, and an increase of 18 per cent in industrial production.

Electric power output "which has become a fairly accurate measure of business activity" was reported to be about 12 per cent higher than for August, 1933, while August production of automobiles is greater than it has been since August, 1930.

No explanation was offered for the fall in steel production.

"In the middle of August, despite drouth and disorder in industrial relations," there was said to be "a demonstration of economic strength in data from some areas which have been most affected."

Transactions settled by check showed a large increase in the southwest, a good increase around Kansas City and westward, and a small decrease in the northwestern states. The middle west was reported to be keeping above the same period last year.

WORLD'S FAIR BUYING, STRIKE THREATS BUOY BUSINESS IN CHICAGO

Business in Chicago last week was boosted by strike threats and attendances at A Century of Progress, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Because of the impending textile strike out of town retailers sought the wholesale markets to make last minute commitments for textiles and allied commodities, fearing the strike may empty their shelves. A noticeable tendency toward higher prices resulted from heavy demands for cottons, rayons, and silks and the buying of bedding and other associated wares.

Visitors to the Fair bought heavily, according to retailers, while restaurants and hotels reported the best week of the current year.

STATE LIQUOR GROUPS SUBJECT TO FEDERAL TAX

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—Treasury officials say that the department will apply the federal corporation income tax against the profits of all state liquor control commissions. The internal revenue bureau will work on the basis of a United States Supreme court decision in the case of the Ohio liquor control board. It has already ruled that the Oregon state commission must pay an income tax of between $55,000 and $60,000 on its earnings since the beginning of operations last February.

Officials said each case would be decided on its merits, taking into consideration the type of control board. They added, however, that the Oregon ruling by inference applied to all states. Many of the states have adopted some commission type of liquor control, including Iowa, where the state commission has monopoly control of the wholesale and retail handling of liquors.

Why work in air that's Drier than the Sahara?

It's a fact that desert air registers an average relative humidity of about 23, while most offices record the dangerous Winter reading of about 18.
